Old Noise Returns With Many Promises

Nothing is so silent as intelligence or so obnoxious as ignorance.

A letter on this same page is so disgusting that we print it only out of sense of responsibility to students and former students of A&M.

Mr. Robert Rowland, Class of '57, has said that as long as "one woman trods on the A&M campus where she doesn't belong, you can forget about "Spirit." Elsewhere in his letter he says, "You don't understand "Spirit" Mr. Editor..." If dear Mr. Rowland is of the opinion that The Spirit is such a fragile thing among Aggies that it can be removed by the presence of female students at A&M, then we wonder if he has experienced the same Spirit that we have.

"I know of not one single Ex who encouraged young men to attend A&M this Fall," says Mr. Rowland. We would like to point out to Mr. Rowland that those Exes who have the interest of A&M at heart and who would encourage boys to attend A&M probably did not attend sessions during the summer where the subject was the undermining of Texas A&M University, its administration and its board of directors.

Also in his letter, Mr. Rowland asks, "Why should a boy attend A&M now when he can go to a real Co-Ed school closer to home?"

Mr. Rowland, we have one of the finest educational systems in the United States and probably in the world. It is just possible that this little insignificant fact might attract a student or two. We invite you and yours to take a look at our educational plant.

Also, Mr. Rowland, while weeping in the ears of our State Legislators, you might mention what a fine educational system we have—even with girls.

From the letter: "All the smoke screens from the Administration cannot hide the fact that your drop in Undergraduate male enrollment is directly traceable to the admission of a handful of so-called "Co-Eds." Is it?"

Mr. Rowland promises that co-eds on "The A&M campus are a 'passing fancy'." If you don't believe me ask the 100 State Representatives who voted last May 17 to condemn the Board's action."

We must mention that we did have the opportunity to discuss introduction and passing of the bill in the house with a few of the representatives. Their explanation for their action: "The quickest way to get rid of those people during a busy time." It appears you might have been given your bubble gum to dry your tears, Mr. Rowland.

Mr. Rowland says, "Time, drop in male undergraduate enrollment, the Legislature, plus three new Board members will remedy the present nightmare called 'limited co-education' before the Fall term of 1965." For all this Mr. Rowland gives his "unqualified, 100 per cent guarantee." On what authority he offers a 100 per cent guarantee, qualified or unqualified, Mr. Rowland neglected to say.

For almost six months Mr. Rowland has been acting as the voice of the former students of A&M. However, we find it hard to believe that all former students agree with Mr. Rowland. We wonder how long our former students who are sincerely interested in the welfare of A&M are going to let this man act as their spokesman.

by Jim Earle Lehigh Trys New Program For Students

"Naw—My ear's okay! I've got a transistor up here so I can hear th' series!"

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (IP) — A Special Honors Program will be established in the College of Business Administration at Lehigh University with the beginning of the 1963-64 academic year, it was announced here recently by Dr. Glenn J. Christensen, vice president and provost at the university.

The program will be patterned after the special honors programs already established within Lehigh's College of Arts and Science and College of Engineering. Opportunities for the exceptional undergraduate at Lehigh, which include the Special Honors programs are designed along both departmental and interdepartmental lines.

A second program, College Honors, provides the incentive and the means for the exceptional student to supplement work in his major field with investigation in depth of the board areas of human knowledge. He must complete four Creative Concepts seminars, in which selected students from all of the three undergraduate colleges participate, with a high average, prepare a thesis and pass his senior comprehensive exam to receive the College Honors.

— Sound Off —

Editor, The Battalion:

I have just finished reading your editorial entitled "Were Students Hunting For Spirit Last Friday?"

Unless you have been asleep since last April 27, you should know why only three students showed up to see the football team off to Baton Rouge.

The present Board of Directors have successfully demoralized and for all practical purposes "killed" the Spirit of Aggieland. You see Sir, A&M is no longer A&M. It's A&MU or something I don't know and also something foreign to a vast majority of Former Students and obviously the Cadet Corps too.

As long as one woman trods on the A&M campus where she doesn't belong, you can forget about "Spirit". As long as the Evans-Newton clique runs the A&M Board, you can forget about "Spirit".

You've got something different up there now Mr. Editor which will only be remedied by the next Legislature or by three new Board members next January. I think the worst thing to come out of the mess created by the A&M Board is that the College has lost most of its "outside salesmen". I know of not one single Ex who encouraged young men to attend A&M this Fall. All the smoke screens from the Administration cannot hide the fact that your drop in Undergraduate male enrollment is directly traceable to the admission of a handful of so-called "Co-Eds".

Why should a boy attend A&M now when he can go to a real Co-Ed school closer to home? You don't understand "Spirit" Mr. Editor... if you did, you wouldn't have written the editorial. Co-Eds on the A&M campus are a "passing fancy". If you don't believe me ask the 100 State Representatives who voted last May 17 to condemn the Board's action. Time, drop in male undergraduate enrollment, the Legislature, plus three new Board members will remedy the present nightmare called "limited co-education" before the Fall term of 1965. For the preceding statement, you have my unqualified, 100 per cent guarantee.

By the way, will someone up there kindly tell me how the admission of women to an all-male institution can be termed "Progress"? College Officials will have to explain this to the Legislature and I personally feel the question has been ignored enough.
