

Dr. Ferguson To Speak To Dystrophy Foundation

Dr. T. M. Ferguson of the Department of Poultry Science will present a paper at a meeting Friday and Saturday of the Liberty Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation in Houston.

His paper is titled "Muscular Dystrophy in Avian Species."

The meeting will be conducted in association with the Baylor University College of Medicine and the University of Texas Medical School.

Dr. R. C. Fanguy and Dr. W. F. Krueger of the Department of Poultry Science will participate in the Technical Committee meeting of the Southern Regional Poultry Breeding Conference Oct. 14-16 at the University of Georgia.

The research group works on poultry breeding problems which require co-operative effort of several states.

The conference will have representation from 13 southern states and Puerto Rico. One of the current projects is a study of hereditary-environmental interrelationships in poultry.

Associate Professor J. N. Shepherd of the university English faculty is attending the regional conference of the National Association of Foreign Student Advisors this weekend on the University of Texas campus.

He will participate in a workshop concerning the teaching of English as a foreign language, a subject that has received considerable attention in recent years. Shepherd has taught a course in English for foreign students at A&M for many years.

Assistant Professor Dan C. Love of the School of Business will serve as a panel moderator during the seventh annual conference of the Texas Personnel and Guidance Association. The conference will be held in San Antonio Friday and Saturday.

Love serves as student advisor in the School of Business Administration.

He will moderate a panel discussion of "The Professional Counselor in Action in the Large University."

Dr. S. H. Hopkins, professor of biology at A&M, has been honored by the Council of the American Society of Parasitologists by being selected to be included in a new atlas called "Parasitologists of the World."

This honor is given to only a very limited number of the membership of the American Society of Zoologists, of which Hopkins is a member.

for "Operation Crossroads Africa." Bleau went to Rhodesia where he lived with the natives in grass huts while helping to construct an 80 by 30 foot community center. He said that two main points impressed him; first the experience of living and working side by side with the natives, and secondly the eagerness of the natives to become educated.

An example of a young man who knows what he wants and where he is going, is Noel Marmolejo, a fifth year Architecture student.

Marmolejo was determined to reach Barcelona, Spain, in time to represent A&M and, as it turned out, the United States, at the International Student Architects Conference. By making up a brochure of all the architectural spots that he intended to visit in Europe, and showing it to various interested parties, he convinced them of his sincerity and persuaded them to finance his trip.

As it turned out Marmolejo not only represented A&M at the conference but became chairman of the United States delegation.

Yet another Aggie by the name of Alvaro Restrepo was determined to go on a tour of Europe. By supplementing an allowance from his parents with his own money from part time work, he was able to finance a 9000-mile trip that took him all over Europe. He took a total of 540 photographs that he will be paying for all year.

Thus six Aggies, either by grants and scholarships or by ingenuity and hard work, were able to complete trips that gave them deeper insight and lasting understanding into the world around them.

Hopkins has written numerous articles and scientific publications in the field of parasitology.

Dr. Howard L. Gravett, chairman of the Pre-Med, Pre-Dent Committee, attended the seventh annual meeting of the Southern Association of Medical Colleges in Houston recently.

Gravett said representatives of several medical colleges and universities were present to discuss academic affairs and topics of mutual interest.

The Baylor University College of Medicine was host for this year's meeting. Next year the association will meet in Atlanta.

FFA Brass Kansas Bound

Aggie collegiate Future Farmers of America chapter will send two representatives to the 35th annual National FFA Convention Oct. 7-11 in Kansas City, Mo.

They are Charles Urbanic of Galveston and John Percifield of Alvarado.

Bill Irick, assistant professor in the A&M Agricultural Education Department, will accompany the students.

Percifield is the chapter's second vice president, and Urbanic is chapter reporter.

Irick said the convention is a highlight of the FFA year. Sessions will include a national public speaking contest, recognition of outstanding achievements, a business meeting, demonstration and promotion of leadership training, and election of new officers.

He estimated that 500 Texas high school FFA members will attend.

Irick, Percifield and Urbanic also will participate in the 12th annual conference of agricultural education student teachers to be held in conjunction with the convention.

Clemon Montgomery of Austin, executive secretary of the Texas Association of Future Farmers, has announced that Irick has been selected to serve as the Texas teacher trainer representative in the "Courtesy Corps" at the convention.

Development Fund Sure Of Success

A&M Development Fund contributions reached $4,300 Thursday with about half the gifts from Aggie former students in Brazos County yet to be counted.

Campaign co-chairmen Sen. W. T. (Bill) Moore and Dorsey McCrory reported gifts from 396 exes. This represented 71 per cent of the former students in College Station and 41 per cent in Bryan.

The drive, originally set to close Friday, will continue through Oct. 11 to allow campaign workers to report, they said.

"We are confident the Bryan-College Station Development Fund campaign will exceed its goal of $6,000," the co-chairmen stated.

Nutrition Conference Aims For Better Animal Diets

About 250 nutritionists, biochemists and feed manufacturers gathered at the Texas Nutrition Conference on the A&M campus, Wednesday through Friday to hear 33 speakers tell of new or improved methods of nutrition on animals and poultry.

The conference was a joint undertaking of the Department of Animal Husbandry, Biochemistry, and Nutrition, Dairy Science and Poultry Science.

H. L. German of Texas Farm Products spoke Wednesday on the need for supplementary feeding of Vitamin A to cattle. German cited cases in which cattle grazed improved pastures and yet showed improved performance when injected with Vitamin A. He said that breeding performance would be improved by increasing the number of conceptions and also by boosting the number of viable, healthy calves.

Another speaker, Damon V. Catron, vice-president for research and development with Walnut Groves Products Company said any swine program from the feed maker's standpoint should be aimed at the final product—pork. It should be the goal of every swine feed maker to design a feeding program based upon latest technology, which he can properly manufacture, distribute and sell.

Thursday, Dr. J. H. Quisenberry, head of the Poultry Science Department, discussed the role which genetics plays in poultry production. He described experiments which have shown that body weight, egg production, and metabolic efficiency are heritable.

OF BIRDS experimented with 50 per cent of the variations in feed consumption could be accounted for by difference in body size, 31 per cent by difference in rate of lay, and 7 to 8 per cent by inherent difference in metabolic efficiency between strains.

Quisenberry said that the physiologist who bridges the gap between the geneticist and the nutritionist will play a key role in the solution of many programs facing the poultry industry today.

WHY DOES GOD CARE?

We are so tiny in the vastness of space, so drab in the grandeur of nature. Why does God care about each one of us?

This question has always plagued the mind of man. It will probably never be completely answered to his satisfaction until he sees and believes the evidence of man's importance to God: Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels.

It remained for Jesus Christ to reveal the love of God. Sunday — World Communion Day — Christians will unite in the sacrament which is their richest experience of the glory and honor God has given.

The world over, men will rejoice in the Divine Love, so far-reaching, that God gave His Son for humanity.

A&M Lutheran Congregation OK's Change

The A&M Lutheran Church voted Wednesday in a congregational assembly, to change the name of the student congregation to University Lutheran Church, according to Lutheran Minister to students, E. George Becker.

The congregation, an assembly of Lutheran students, Aggie wives, faculty and staff members, was organized in the fall of 1961. It is a project of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, designed to serve students and the immediate campus community.

While the congregation is under the direction of the Texas District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, with headquarters in Austin, the congregation is governed by the students themselves.

Services are held in the YMCA every Sunday at 11 a.m., with classes beginning at 10. Gerald Kieschnick, commanding officer of Company A-3, is presently serving as congregational president.

Reminiscences of CAESAR (DUTCH) HOHN
With illustrations by E. M. (BUCK) SCHIWETZ

Most Texans remember Dutch Hohn primarily as one of the first gridiron heroes of Texas A&M, but his intensely powerful life has been a record of social accomplishments that dwarf in importance his exploits in "primitive football."
