Sweetheart List Narrowed To 12 As Selection Nears

Girls Will Appear Here For Finals

Twelve girls from Texas Woman's University have been selected to participate in the Aggie Sweetheart finals to be held on the A&M campus this weekend.

The finalists will arrive here Friday, have dinner at Duncan Hall, attend Town Hall to hear the Brothers Four and then participate in midnight yell practice.

They will be treated to a picnic at Hensel Park and a formal dinner preceding the football game with the University of Houston.

After the game, which the finalists will attend, they will be honored at a formal dance.

The next morning the final selection will be made.

THE SWEETHEART will be chosen by a 12 man committee consisting of the president of the student body, the Corps commander, the president of the Civilian Student Council, the president of the Senior Class, the social secretary of the Senior Class, the deputy Corps Commander, the vice president of the Civilian Student Council, the chairman of the student life committee of the student senate, one wing commander, one brigade commander, and two civilian dorm presidents.

THE 12 FINALISTS are as follows: Judy Allen, nursing major from Houston; Sharon Truscott, speech-education major from Glendale; Johnnie Jones, sociology major from Clarksdale, Miss.; Martha McKee, nursing major from Huntsville; Sallye Marie Stapleton, interior design major from Tripoli, N. Africa; Carol Lynn Cater, occupational therapy major from Waller;

Harriett Ann Crump, clothing and costume design major from Irving; Nancy Beamer, nursing major from College Station; Susan Berry, occupational therapy major from Austin; Nanette Gabriel, fashion merchandising major from El Paso; Jane Sullins, advertising design major from Crossett, Ark., and Paula Jane Rich, elementary education major from Brooksville, Mo.

"In the past The Aggie land has sponsored this event and has paid for it out of Aggie land funds. This affair costs The Aggie land around $1,000 a year."

From the girls nominated to Vanity Fair, semi-finalists are customarily chosen by the editors of The Aggie land or by a person or a committee appointed by them.

The finalists are chosen at the Student Publications Banquet by a vote of those present at the dinner. The results of the voting are not announced until the following Saturday night when the finalists are presented at the Senior Ring Dance by the editor of The Aggie land and the Aggie sweetheart.

"If anyone has any further questions about Vanity Fair or any other aspect of The Aggie land they are welcome to come and see me in Dorm 5, Room 304," Schaefer added.

United Chest Moves Into Second Day

The College Station United Chest campaign Tuesday moved into its second day with officials urging staff and faculty members at A&M University to meet the community obligation without delay. The 10-day drive has a goal of $18,000.

"We are employed at the University and we owe allegiance to the participating College Station agencies," Dr. Chris Groneman, campaign director, emphasized.

He challenged key workers at a kickoff breakfast Monday to offer the opportunity to give "to all our people."

Seventy-five persons at the breakfast in the MSC also heard Dean William J. Graff stress the campaign theme of "one day's pay" for support of the 15 agencies.

System Chancellor M. T. Harrington and President Earl Rudder appeared in a letter to the workers "for every cooperation in the drive."

The Chest Board set the campaign pace with each director contributing one day's pay. Dr. Groneman turned over $485 from the board to Pieter Groot, campaign treasurer, at the kickoff breakfast.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

A&M Fire Safety Record Rates High

National Fire Prevention Week is being observed on campus this week.

Pamphlets concerning facts about fires and fire prevention are being distributed on campus.

Gilbert B. Eimann, Fire Chief and Fire Marshall, said Monday the regular fire department was to have held a practice fire drill Tuesday. Besides this drill and the distribution of pamphlets, no other observance of the yearly event has been scheduled.

Eimann said he hoped next year to have a more extensive program. ACCORDING TO EIMANN, A&M's fire safety record is far above the national average. Only a small number of minor fires have been reported this semester.

With the winter season near, however, Eimann has warned local residents about overloading electrical circuits and heating systems.

"Most of the fires at this time of the year are due to people failing to check heating systems before turning them on after a period of disuse," Eimann noted.

NATIONAL FIRE Prevention Week originated as the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871.

It was originated in 1911 as Fire Prevention Day by the Fire Marshalls Association of North America to encourage public interest in fire safety. On recommendation of a National Fire Protection Association committee, it was extended to a week in 1922.

Fire Prevention Week is always the Sunday through Saturday period in which falls Oct. 9, the date of the Chicago disaster.

Senior Wool Team

Set For KC Meet

The A&M University Senior Wool Judging Team leaves Thursday to compete in Kansas City's American Royal Livestock, Oct. 11-19.

Jack Ruttle, A&M animal husbandry instructor and team coach, said the group will participate in a judging contest Sunday with about 11 other teams representing major agricultural colleges and universities in the United States.

Team members are Clifford Spaeth of Doss, Billy Reagor of Llano, Joe Sagebiel of Willow City and Ronnie Rugh of Bandera.

Ruttle said the team will hold a practice workout in a Kansas City wool warehouse before the contest.

University Lectures Set For This Year

Several people will visit the campus this academic year on a new program to be known as the University Lectures. Announcement of the program was made Monday by Dr. R. W. Barzak, assistant dean of the Graduate College, which sponsors the series.

Four lecturers definitely are coming to A&M, and there is "a good possibility" of two other accepting invitations, Barzak said. The series opens Oct. 18 with a speech by Dr. Ferenc Nagy, prime minister of Hungary until the Communist coup in 1947.

THE SECOND lecture is scheduled Dec. 4. Speaking will be Dr. Harry Harlow, professor of experimental psychology at the University of Wisconsin Primate Laboratory. His studies on social behavior have been reported widely in professional and popular publications.

Dr. Mark Van Doren, longtime professor of English at Columbia University and a prize-winning poet, will visit A&M April 7. SPEAKING MAY 7 will be Dr. Bentley Glass of The Johns Hopkins University faculty. A distinguished biologist, he is a former president of the American Association of University Professors.

Members of the University Lectures Committee include Professors J. W. Amyx, petroleum engineering; H. M. Monroe, Jr., history; R. D. Turk, veterinary parasitology; J. N. Weaver, entomology; B. J. Zwolinski, chemistry, and Barzak.

A&M is participating in the cooperative venture of 20 colleges and universities to bring outstanding lecturers to Texas campuses. Through this plan, a lecturer may be invited to visit more than one campus.

"The A&M University lectures program is planned," Dr. Barzak said, "to give the faculty, students and the general public the opportunity to hear renowned authorities speak on subjects of broad social, political and intellectual interest."

Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomson of U. S. Dist. Court said he had imposed no prison sentence on Boykin because of the defendant's age and failing health.

100 Junior College Students Attend Journalism Meet Here

About 10 delegates from 15 junior colleges left A&M Tuesday after participating in the 11th annual Texas Junior College Press Association meeting, said Dr. John C. Merrill, A&M associate professor of journalism and conference director.

The students were welcomed to the campus Monday morning by Dr. Frank W. R. Hubert, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Delbert McGuire, head of the A&M department of journalism, filled in as the opening session for Dr. Clyde R. Nail, San Antonio College vice-president, yearbook was unable to attend due to illness.

Later Monday, students attended newspaper and yearbook sessions for tips from professional journalists on reporting, editing and layout.

D-Eon Priest of Houston, Taylor Publishing representative, discussed obligations and responsibilities of yearbook and staff members and yearbook preparations.

THE NEWSPAPER GROUP heard comments on editorial pages from Mrs. Edith King of San Antonio College. Other newspaper speakers Monday include Mrs. Jeneanne Johnston, Odessa College; Roy Owen, Allen Military Academy; Mrs. Maxine Wells, San Angelo College and Bob Knight, Guy Horton and Bill Wilson of A&M.

A highlight of the meeting was the awards banquet held Monday night. Abe Reid, Kerrville cartoonist provided the lighter side of

New FFA Group To Meet Tuesday

The Freshmen Collegiate Future Farmers of America Chapter will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 229 of the Chemistry Building. This meeting will be held to introduce senior chapter members to the freshmen, said Bill Jackson, freshmen chapter advisor.

The chapter met for the first time Sept. 24, when they elected officers and started work on a constitution. Jackson said freshmen who had outstanding F.F.A. work in high school could join even though they are not majoring in agricultural education.
