"Winning the peace is a lonely battle."

At A&M, winning a football game comes under the same heading. A&M has previously enjoyed a nation-wide reputation for Spirit built up over 86 years. But if this reputation depended on the action of the current crop of students, it would last almost as long as Custer did with the Indians. And if campus chit-chat is any indication, the so-called "two-per center" has become a student with Spirit, while the remaining 98 per cent have forgotten that the word ever existed.

Sure it's easy to have a lot of Spirit when the Aggies are winning. It's always easier to go with a winner. But it takes something special, something that Aggies used to have to stand tall and be proud of a team, YOUR team, when it's losing.

Nobody is trying to pull the wool over anyone's eyes. True that the Cadets have had some bad breaks, but two of the three losses were caused by mistakes that shouldn't have been made. And nobody knows it better than the players themselves.

During a ball game there are 11 Aggies on the field giving their top effort every second with 30 more players on the bench ready and willing to do the same. In the past there has been something called the 12th Man in the stands, in spirit if not in person.

The 1963 A&M football team isn't the greatest team ever to hit Aggieland; neither is it the worst. But, in the language of TV lawyers, the team's record is "immaterial, irrelevant and completely beside the point." What counts is that we are Aggies, they are Aggies and win, lose or draw, they deserve the support of the students.

The ridiculous factor in the sudden drop of Spirit is that A&M has yet to play a home game. Consequently, only a very small percentage of the student body has seen them perform. And, from queries about the campus, too few of the students have even bothered to listen to the games on radio.

Yet criticism of the coaching staff and players pervades the student body like a heavy fog obscuring facts and hanging gloom over a place once famed for its "We've never been licked" attitude.

And there is always the good old standby—"I don't care if we lose every game as long as we beat Texas."

One game has never made a season and never will! This is not a maudlin plea to give the team one more chance—or even seven more chances. No segment of A&M should be deprived of the wholehearted support of the student body if A&M is still a school of which to be proud.

No excuses are being made and none need to be made. It is simply a matter of proclaiming the renowned Aggie Spirit or forsaking it to become lost in a maze of other institutions.

All A&M Freshmen See Action

The A&M Fish may have lost a game Thursday, but they chalked up another type of victory—experience. In the 10-0 loss to the TCU Wogs, 51 freshmen saw action with the A&M team.

Included in the 51-count were seven quarterbacks, four fullbacks, 10 halfbacks, nine ends, eight tackles, seven guards and five centers.

"We were trying to play everyone we had and I think we did. We were trying to substitute by teams and handle the substitution rule correctly. I know we played everyone on scholarship. I plan to play them all again in the next home game," said Aggie Freshman Coach Dick Johnson when asked about the number of players who saw action.

TCU's Wogs won the season opener for both clubs on a field goal and a touchdown, both coming in the final half. End Bruce Alford booted a 40-yard field goal in the third period, while Quarterback Jimmy Duffey tossed an 11-yard touchdown pass to end Bob Bogues in the fourth quarter. Alford also kicked the extra point.

John Worst of Sun Ray gained 22 yards on the ground for the Fish, while Jerry Gipson of Katy and Sammy Ray of San Angelo picked up 20 each.

A&M's passing attack was spearheaded by quarterback Ricky Oehrlein of Houston who completed two of eight passes for 42 yards. QB Harry Ledbetter of Breckenridge completed three of four for 24 yards.

The Fish will host the Baylor Cubs here Oct. 17.

Hank Makes Changes

Coach Hank Foldberg shook-up the A&M football lineup Tuesday in an effort to perk up his squad which has scored only six points while losing three straight games.

Foldberg promoted sophomore Bill Ward to right tackle and senior Jim Keller to quarterback on the first unit and said more changes may be made later in the week.

FOLDBERG said he will use Jim Linnstaedter, displaced as No. 1 quarterback for spot plays.

The present starting lineup has two men listed at each halfback post. Budgie Ford and Tommy Meeks operate mostly on offense and George Hargett and Mike Pittman work on defense.

THE BIGGEST changeup announced was the number of sophomores put on the No. 2 unit, which now has 8 sophomores, 2 juniors and 1 senior.

THE SOPHS are Tuffy Fletch-

Senior left halfback Travis Reagan came out of the 10-0 loss to Texas Tech with a hurt shoulder and was not listed on the three-deep chart. If he recovers in time, he will be in the lineup against Houston here Saturday night.

Foldberg said that a number of other sophomores may see action against Houston.
