15 Take Posts On Roundtable With SCONA

Fifteen leaders in fields of education, industry and government have accepted assignments with A&M University's Student Conference on National Affairs.

The men will serve as roundtable chairman when 150 student delegates from colleges and universities throughout the United States, Mexico and Canada gather here Dec. 11-15.

NAMES OF the main speakers will be announced later. R. Russell Huddleston of San Antonio, SCONA chairman, said. Previous speakers have included Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, congressmen, ambassadors, military and government officials and others.

Theme of this year's four-day conference is "U. S. Monetary and Fiscal Policy: A Taxpayer's View."

ACCEPTING INVITATIONS to serve as roundtable chairman are Dr. Howard A. Cutler, University of Alaska vice president; Dr. Frank W. R. Hubert, dean of arts and sciences at A&M; Dr. Rocco M. Paone, United States Naval Academy; Robert E. Cochran, Houston Chronicle associate editor; William S. Livingston, University of Texas government professor.

Also, V. J. McCoy of Houston, manager of public relations for Shell Oil Co., F. H. H. King, University of Kansas economics professor; Dr. Alfred F. Chalk, head of economics at A&M; Bruce W. Nelan of New York, director of public information and education for Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

OTHER CHAIRMEN include Dr. Stephen L. McDonald, University of Texas economics professor; C. H. Boyd of Freeport, Dow Chemical Co. Magnesium production manager; Dr. Thomas K. Kim, Baker University economics professor; James E. Webb, cultural attache with the U. S. Embassy in Mexico City; Dr. Charles E. Ferguson, Duke University economics professor, and Dr. James A. Morris, dean of business administration at the University of South Carolina.

On the second, third and last days of the conference, eight roundtable groups of 20 students and two co-chairmen will discuss issues concerned with the general theme.

"Job of the chairmen will be to supervise the discussion," Huddleston said, "and see that each delegate has an opportunity to express his or her views."

Second Installment Due Before Sunday

It's time to dig again. The second installment for the Fall Semester is due on Oct. 20. It has been pointed out that the deadline falls on Sunday, therefore, students are urged to pay the installment before leaving for the weekend.

Of course, other than the deadline penalty, there is also the possibility that students will not have money with which to pay after the weekend.

Pastor Talks On Importance Of Agriculture

Learning as much as possible about modern agriculture is one of the first steps in fulfilling spiritual needs of a rural community, an official of the National Lutheran Council said Wednesday at the 1963 Town and Country Church Conference at the Memorial Student Center.

The Rev. Giles C. Ekola of Chicago, assistant secretary of the Council's Church in Town and Country, Division of American Missions, said a knowledge of farming and rural life is essential to relating the church to natural resources, human resources and human services.

Ekola was the first of several keynote speakers to appear on the program, which ends at noon Friday.

The minister urged that pastors and their congregations realize that the agricultural revolution is more important than space conquest. They should try to look at agriculture from the farmer's standpoint for a change instead of the consumer's.

Aggies To Attend Industrial Meeting At Houston Monday

A&M University students majoring in industrial distribution will be in Houston Monday to attend a meeting sponsored by the Houston Industrial Distributors Association.

The meeting will inform the students of the latest developments and opportunities in the field of selling industrial equipment to other industries.

Accompanying the group will be Dr. Everett R. Glazener, associate professor in the Department of Industrial Education.

Glazener said the course was started in the department in 1957 at the association's request, and much of the subject matter was designed by the organization. Industrial sales instruction is emphasized.

DAIRYMAN MAKES APPEAL University Urged Wednesday To Train Farm Directors

A&M University was urged Wednesday to develop a short course to help train boards of directors which have been elected to farm co-operatives.

The appeal came from R. G. Lytle, general manager of United Dairymen of Arizona and the main speaker at the 33rd annual South Texas Producers Association meeting.

The estimated 300 dairymen attending the meeting heard Lytle describe boards of directors as major "decision centers." But too often, newly elected board members know little about detailed functions or administrative procedures of co-operatives, he said. They need to be schooled in decision-making, co-op structure and organizational limitations.

LYTLE DESCRIBED such a short course now being offered by the University of Oregon. The speaker also claimed that the "muscles" of a co-op are composed of money and people.

He added the organization's financial potency stems from adequate reserves for opportunity, adequate operating capital for effective programming and adequate dues for programming. Personnel potency comes from hiring the right man for the job, paying him adequately and making sure his managerial prerogatives are clearly understood.

The South Texas Producers Association, with headquarters in Houston, is one of the most successful co-ops of its type in the nation. It has about 1,500 dairymen members operating in a 57-county area known as the Houston Milkshed.

STPA'S PURPOSE is to promote marketing and consumption of milk and its products.

Dr. I. W. Rupel, head of the Department of Dairy Science, cautioned the members against leaning back and depending on the nation's population growth to take care of the current per capita decline in milk consumption. He said the product must be continually promoted.

He described that there are fewer but larger dairy farm operators in the STPA. Production per op-

Public Utilities Conference Set For A&M Campus

Approximately 135 electrical metermen throughout Texas will attend a public utility conference at A&M University Nov. 4-8.

J. S. Denison, A&M electrical engineering professor and conference director, said the meeting is designed to improve the technical competence of persons who service electrical meters.

"The instruction to be presented is planned by utility company officials to meet their needs," Denison said. "One phase of instruction will be presented newcomers and another will be given to advanced metermen and supervisors."

Today's Thought

Our world speaks much about love, but is characterized by lovelessness. Lack of love and loneliness seem to go together. It need not be so with us, whatever our need, if we will but remember God's love.

Tessies Welcome Cadets To Campus

A Southwest Conference Football Game with Texas Christian University, the first Corps Trip of the year, the presentation of the Aggie Sweetheart, and a yell practice and bonfire with the Tessies of Texas Woman's University are just a few of the highlights that pack the coming weekend.

A warm Tessie welcome to the Fort Worth-Denton area for the Aggies on the Corps Trip Friday night signals the beginning of the three days' festivities, announced Harlan Roberts, president of the A&M student body.

The A&M students will be welcomed to the TWU campus with a reception to be held in the Student Union Building at 8 p.m. A dance will follow from 9:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. Immediately afterward, Lowry Woods will be the scene of a yell practice and bonfire at which the Aggies will teach the War Hymn, Spirit and yells to their dates. The Aggie Sweetheart, the contest finalists and Mr. Congeniality will also be introduced at that time.

A holiday has been declared on the TWU campus, Saturday, and the girls are very anxious to make the Aggies feel at home, concluded Roberts.

No Silver Taps Wanted

Students are reminded, however, to leave in plenty of time if they wish to attend these activities. Safe driving and speed limits should be observed, for strict enforcement of traffic on the almost construction-free route to Fort Worth will be maintained by the Department of Public Safety.

Texas Highway Patrolman, Sergeant Paul Allen, highway supervisor for the Bryan area, said that because most of the student body will be on the road to Fort Worth, the highway patrol will maintain strict enforcement of road laws and that all available mobile radar units on the route will be in action.

Two miles of construction at Hillsboro and two miles of construction at Waco are the only notable detour areas on the straight route to Fort Worth via Highway 6 and Interstate 35, said Milton Pack, permit clerk of the local State Highway Department office.

The department is pleased that no Aggies have been seriously hurt or killed in the Bryan area this year and the department will do all in its power to maintain this record, added Allen.

Corps Parades Saturday

The Corps of Cadets will assemble on East Weatherford Street between Jones and Elm Streets at 9:30 a.m. Saturday for their parade through downtown Fort Worth. The Corps will march west on Weatherford to Houston Street, south on Houston to 10th Street, one block east on 10th to Main. They will then proceed north on Main to 1st Street, then east on 1st to the 500 block where the units will be dismissed.

The reviewing stand will be in front of the Hotel Texas at 8th and Main Streets. The Corps will march in the following order: Corps Staff, the Combined Bands, 2nd Brigade, 3rd Brigade, 1st Brigade, 2nd Wing, and 1st Wing.

Aggies Meet Sweetheart

The half-time ceremonies at Amon Carter Field, adjacent to the TCU campus, are to be highlighted by the presentation to the student body of Miss Nanette Gabriel, the Aggie Sweetheart chosen on the A&M campus during the past weekend. As the Aggie Band forms her name, Richard Moore, president of the Civilian Student Council will present her with a bouquet and Paul Dresser, Corps Commander, will kiss her.

Students should be in the stands by 1:30 Saturday afternoon in anticipation of the pre-game warmup and the kickoff against the Horned Frogs of TCU at 2 p.m.

Kingston Trio Due Monday For Town Hall Appearance

The Kingston Trio, appearing at G. Rollie White Coliseum Monday at 8 p.m., has had six "gold records" since they started singing together in 1961.

The trio consists of Nick Reynolds, Bob Shane, and John Steward, who took Dave Guard's place in 1961 when Guard decided to solo.

Reynolds was graduated from Menlo College, Menlo, California, in 1957 with a degree in business administration. It was at Menlo that he met Shane.

SHANE WAS BORN in Hilo, Hawaii, where he sank to his own accompaniment in his leisure time and occasionally played at parties.

After graduating from Menlo College, Shane returned to Hawaii to work for Sears-Roebuck. His reputation as a performer spread, however, and he returned to the mainland where he joined Reynolds in the group that became the Kingston Trio.

ALTHOUGH JOHN STEWARD has been singing with the Kingston Trio only two years, he has been connected with them since 1958 when he was singing on the same program as a group of less familiar folk singers. Stewart was unsatisfied with the rock 'n' roll singing he had been doing. The Trio recognized his talent and were so impressed that they encouraged his interest in folk singing.

Steward has taken a high interest in what he considers a lack of awareness in American youth. He is at the head of an organization known as the "Quiet Fight" which

CS United Chest Extended In Effort To Meet Goal

COLLEGE STATION — College Station's United Chest drive has been extended through Friday and campaign tempo intensified to raise $18,000 for 15 community agencies.

Drive chairman Chris H. Groneman said that about $13,000 of the goal had been collected Wednesday. The extra day of solicitation was added to put the drive "over the top," Groneman said.

"We cannot fail to support these 15 deserving agencies," Groneman challenged. "We have always met their needs and must do it again this year."

Campaign workers were urged to follow up contacts who had not contributed and suggest they give post-dated checks.

Groneman asked that collections be given to drive treasurer Pieter Groot by 2 p.m. Friday for tabulation at a board meeting that afternoon.
