

Read To Receive $200 Scholarship

An A&M University senior majoring in accounting will receive a $200 scholarship award Tuesday night, from the Houston chapter of the Financial Executives Institute. He is Charles H. Read, of the Lovelady area in East Texas. Read will receive the scholarship award from C. G. Hayward, chairman of the education committee of the Houston chapter and an executive of the Cameron Iron Works Inc., at a chapter meeting in Houston.

This is the second year that a A&M student has been honored by the Houston chapter.

The award is given for outstanding scholarship and other achievement to a student nominated by a faculty committee.

"Read has made an excellent scholastic record and has demonstrated himself in every way to be a leader," Dr. John E. Pearson, head of the School of Business Administration, said.

The Aggie senior has won Distinguished Student listing for academic achievement each semester since he entered A&M in 1960.

Read was graduated from high school at Groveton where he was a class officer and an athlete. At A&M he has served as a member of the Civilian Student Council.

Read plans to enter the industrial accounting field after graduating next May.

The Financial Executives Institute is composed of comptrollers, auditors and accountants from the management area of finance in industry.

USDA Cites Vet Students' Exam Scores

The College of Veterinary Medicine has been notified by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that its 1963 graduates made the nation's highest average score on an accreditation examination.

Dr. Edgar McMurray, assistant to the dean of veterinary medicine at A&M, said all graduates of all veterinary schools take the Civil Service-type test to qualify as co-operators with the USDA's Animal Disease Eradication Division.

Most veterinarians work with the ADED's various disease control programs, he said.

The College of Veterinary Medicine, one of 18 in the nation, produced 51 graduates this year.

Dr. F. P. Jaggi, head of the Veterinary Public Health Department in the college, is attending the U. S. Sanitary Livestock Association meeting now underway at Albuquerque, N. M. He will return Friday.

Temple Veterans To Attend Game

A busload of veterans from the Veterans Administration Center at Temple will attend a football game here for the 17th year in a row when the Aggies play Baylor University Oct. 26.

P. L. (Pinkie) Downs, Jr., official greeter for A&M University, said the veterans will be guests of the university and its Department of Athletics.

Downs, member of the class of 1906, is the man who organized the trip 17 years ago.

Downs said the veterans will sit in reserved box seats on the cinder path along the west side of Kyle Field.

He said the dining halls, headed by Frank Nugent, will have noon and evening meals ready for the group.

Harley D. Mitchell, chief of recreation for VA Center, said the bus will arrive at College Station at 11:30 a.m. Mrs. Margaret Wade of the VA will be trip supervisor.

Coming To Campus

The folk-singing Kinston Trio will make their appearance on the A&M campus Monday at 8 p. m. in G. Rollie White Coliseum. The group, billed as one of the entertainment world's most popular groups, is being presented as a special Town Hall attraction.

Transportation Institute Prof Addresses Ohio Seminar

John P. Doyle of the Texas Transportation Institute addressed Congress to appoint a commission "to study and present a complete new transportation act in tune with the realities of today."

Doyle, A&M's McDonald professor of transportation, cited problems confronting the transportation industry and called on Hill to enact it."
