

New Campus Organization Made For Foreign Students

An organization to promote greater understanding among foreign students and Americans has been created on the A&M University campus.

The group's official title is the Institute of International Education, Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. William E. Eckles, co-chairmen, announced. The A&M chapter is a member of the Institute of International Education, the oldest and largest non-profit organization in the field of international exchanges of students, scholars and professional people.

Several other chapters are located at schools and colleges in the Southwest. A regional office, one of five in the United States, is stationed in Houston.

The activities of the A&M Hospitality Committee are varied, Mrs. Smith explained.

The groups, for example, will provide transportation for foreign students to visit nearby historical sites, industry, supermarkets, rodeos and other points of interest.

And the committee will provide tickets for musicals, lectures and other cultural activities, or perhaps arrange student visits into American homes as guests of the families.

Arrangements will be made by the local committee to use foreign students as speakers at various group meetings in the Bryan-College Station area.

Programs also are planned for wives of foreign students on the campus, Mrs. Smith added.

The Hospitality Committee's headquarters are in Room 206 of the Counseling and Testing Center, across from Sbis Dining Hall.

Committee membership is composed of individuals and groups in the A&M area interested in the program, Mrs. Smith noted. Advisers include Robert L. Melcher, foreign student adviser, and Dr. Jack D. Gray, foreign program coordinator, both on the A&M staff.

Chairmen of various subcommittees will be announced at a later date, Mrs. Eckles said.

An informal open house will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Counseling and Testing Center. Miss Martha Mewhiter, assistant director of the regional office in Houston, will be present.

Student Custodian Jobs Available

Twenty-three additional jobs as custodians were created for students Monday as the Department of University Services stepped up its program for student workers.

The student program now has 45 jobs available in the various dorms with about 10 jobs still to be filled.

Most of the students work about 10 hours per week.

Jobs for student custodians were begun last year with a limited number of students. Set up by Walter H. Parsons, superintendent of B&U, the program is under the direction of M. A. Bell, custodian foreman.

Lecture Series Opens As Nagy Speaks To 150

Special To The Battalion

The Western nations should exert continual, peaceful tactics to maintain strong pressure aimed at eventually freeing the Central and Eastern European nations from Communism.

This was the message of Ferenc Nagy, former prime minister of Hungary, who spoke Friday night to inaugurate the University Lectures series.

"At the very time," Dr. Nagy said, "when the Western powers had begun the liberation of 600 million people from colonial rule in far-off Asia, 100 million people were forced under Soviet colonial rule. The free world tolerated a situation where a less civilized, less cultured power should colonize nations having a much higher degree of civilization and culture."

Nagy spoke to more than 150 persons, mainly faculty and staff members, in the Chemistry Building Lecture Room.

"The significance of Central and Eastern Europe in Present World Politics" was his topic.

ASCS Conference To Open Thursday

The USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will hold an orientation meeting in the Memorial Student Center Thursday for county committeemen from 44 counties.

W. Lewis David, state executive director of the ASCS, said the session is held to acquaint newly elected county members with the agency's programs, such as marketing quotas, loans and the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The meeting also serves to inform experienced committeemen on latest developments in the program, he said.

A&M Fire Training Chief Set For Memphis Meeting

Henry D. Smith of the Engineering Extension Service at A&M University will attend the annual International Fire Chiefs Association meeting in Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 27-31.

Smith is chief of fire training here. In Memphis, he will meet with fire officials to coordinate plans for the 1964 Texas Firemen's Training School to be held here.

Smith earlier this week was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Sabine-Neches Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers in Beaumont.

Two members of the A&M College of Veterinary Medicine will participate in the Southern Veterinary Medical Association's annual meeting Oct. 27-30 in Chattanooga, Tenn.

They are Dr. E. W. Ellett of the Department of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery and Dr. R. D. Turk, head of the Department of Veterinary Parasitology.

After the conference, Dr. Ellett will present papers to veterinary association meetings Oct. 31 at Roanoke, Va.; Nov. 1, Richmond, Va.; Nov. 3, Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Nov. 4, Atlanta, Ga.

The newly published fifth edition of the book "Diseases Transmitted from Animals to Man" has two chapters written by University personnel.

Chapter 18 on "Fungous Diseases" was contributed by Dr. C. H. Bridges, head of the Department of Veterinary Pathology.

Chapter 14, "Contagious Echinocystis of Sheep and Goats," was prepared by Dr. W. T. Hardy, superintendent of the Sonora station, a sub-unit of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The book contains 967 pages and is a practical summary of the zoonoses. Thirty-one authors from the United States contributed to the volume.

Mrs. Nan Cardwell, head of the A&M College of Veterinary Medicine Library, was to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Regional Medical Library Association Wednesday in Little Rock, Ark.

The session will be held in Little Rock's new medical center.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be a tour of the famed Winrock Farms, owned by Winthrop Rockefeller.

Dr. M. A. Brown of the A&M University Department of Dairy Science will present a paper at the Harvestore Research Forum Nov. 7-8 at Arlington Heights, Ill.

His paper is titled "Texas Harvestore Dairy Research Program."

The forum is sponsored by the A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., which manufactures the upright, blue, glass-lined silos on some of A&M's farm research centers.

Brown said colleges and universities in 20 states will have representatives at the forum.
