

Football's Stingiest Get Test Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's major college football team defense leaders will have the opportunity Saturday to prove they deserve their status.

Four of the first five in total defense in NCAA Service Bureau statistics released Wednesday will be up against stubborn opposition. Only Princeton, second in team defense, has what is regarded as an easy foe, Brown.

Mississippi puts its defense lead on the line against Louisiana State; Florida, third in defense, faces Auburn, one of four unbeaten, untied major teams; Michigan State, fourth defensively, plays defending Big Ten champion Wisconsin, 11th in total offense, and Army, fifth in defense, meets the Air Force, 10th in total offense. Mississippi also is the leader in rushing defense and tied with Princeton in defense against scoring, each having allowed 20 points in five games. North Carolina is tops in forward pass defense and Southern Methodist continues as the punting leader.

North Carolina has yielded only an average of 45.2 yards a game to enemy passers. Southern Methodist's punting average is 44.7 yards.

Mississippi has allowed less than two yards a carry to opposition rushers.

Ohio University has proven the toughest defender against pass completions, having limited the opposition to a 30.3 completion percentage.

Princeton and Florida State are the only teams which have not allowed a touchdown pass.

Gains Starting Post

Waylon Ward, 6-3, 216, has moved up to the first unit left tackle slot for the Arkansas game Saturday in Little Rock. Coach Hank Foldberg made the change after Ray Gene Hinze and Marvin Dawkins suffered injuries against Baylor. Ward came to A&M without a scholarship but made the team through hard work and aggressiveness.

Texas, Ole Miss, Arkansas Favored In Weekend Games

BY MARVIN SCHULTZ

Football predictors across the country will have their work cut out for them this weekend as a great array of gridiron clashes constitute the fall classic. From Philadelphia, where the service teams collide to the great battles in the Midwest, the South and Southwest, the stage will be set for some of the most evenly matched eleven to show their best.

So, on with the predictions . . .
ARKANSAS 26, A&M 7: The Razorbacks get the Aggies in their own backyard. If that isn't enough, add the fact that the Hogs are undefeated through 18 games played in November.

BAYLOR 22, TCU 12: Trull and Elkins combine to blitz the Frogs out of Waco.

TEXAS 26, SMU 6: Texas offensive machine continues to roll, setting up a showdown with Baylor next weekend.

RICE 19, TEXAS TECH 7: After a close defeat to Texas, the Owls get back on the victory trail.

MISSISSIPPI 13, LSU 7: The Johnny Rebs will edge past the Bengal Tigers in this traditional
