The Trezettes, an A&M Consolidated vocal group, entertained the members prior to Crutcher's talk.

Crutcher has spent every summer since 1957 in either Russia or one of its satellites.

He began his talk with a few jokes which were accepted heartily by the audience.

Smoked Gobblers To Pay Expenses

Smoked turkeys are being sold by the A&M Poultry Science Club to raise funds for club expenses, according to Gary Estep, club president.

Estep stated Tuesday that the U. S. Grade A birds weigh 8 to 10 pounds and may be purchased at the A&M Poultry Center for $1 a pound or ordered to be shipped for $1.25 a pound.

The profits will be used to finance out-of-state judging trips and other club activities, Estep said.

Editor Promises That Review Will Appear By Nov. 14

"After being delayed, the Review will come out no later than the second week of Nov., promises editor David Jones.

The issue will contain a special feature on the six Aggies who won the Congressional Medal of Honor. Jones describes the article as a "real tiger story."

The twenty page magazine will also contain fiction stories, a feature on the A&M Skydivers, rules for the '63-'64 Review writing contest and a Cover Corner.

Representative magazine of the College of Arts and Sciences, the Review is also scheduled to be published in Dec., Feb. and April.

Succeeding issues will contain features on Alpha Phi Omega, the Boy Scout Service Fraternity; a four page special supplement of the poems entered in the '63 poetry contest sponsored by the Bryan-College Station Poetry Society; and interviews with the Brothers Four and the Kingston Trio.

Jones said that anyone wishing to work on the Review should leave his name with the Student Publications office.

Martin Luther Film Set By Protestants

The first part of the film "Martin Luther" will be shown at the All Faiths Chapel Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. under the joint sponsorship of Protestant student groups on the campus.

The Protestant concept of "Authority" related to Luther's principles of the Scriptures as a source and norm of Christian theology will be discussed in a 20-minute discussion following the film, said the Rev. Luther Rostvold, assistant pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Everyone is welcome, added Mr. Rostvold.

The second section of the film will be shown Nov. 13. It will deal with the principle of "Justification by Faith Alone," and the third section will be Nov. 20, on "Priesthood of Believers." Discussion will follow each section.

The groups participating in this program include Lutheran Student Association, Gamma Delta, Wesley Foundation, Disciples Student Fellowship, Westminster Fellowship and United Church of Christ.

Beaumont Aggies Erupt Into Fiery Co-Ed Debate

Rabid Supporter Resigns Position

By DAVID L. MORGAN
Special To The Battalion

BEAUMONT—A regular meeting of the Beaumont A&M Club Tuesday night exploded into a fiery session, as Charlie Babcock, Class of '20, resigned his position as executive secretary of the club and withdrew his support of A&M University and its Association of Former Students.

"I'll pay my dues; I'll try to be a good Aggie," Babcock said, "but I am not going to be any part of A&M College until we get that decision out of the way." Babcock referred to the Board of Directors' April 27 decision to institute limited co-education at A&M.

THIS WAS THE SECOND outburst against the decision by the Beaumont Club. Earlier this summer tempers flared when Bob Rowland, Class of '57, and T. L. Smith Jr., Class of '98, both vehemently opposed to co-education, spoke to the club.

Babcock's views were made clear in an Oct. 29 issue of the "Beaumont Aggie News," the club's regular publication, in which he said he would resign because he had taken "a determined stand against the board's edict of April 27, admitting co-eds to the college." He wasn't expected to get up before the group.

Several members of the club were supporting him with loud applause, but there was considerable dissent.

"I'LL NEVER SEE another football game; I'll never contribute again; I'll never go to the A&M campus again," Babcock shouted.

"That's how serious I am. That's how dedicated I am," he said. "I had a man, a member of the Board of Directors, asking me to 'please don't stop fighting this thing'."

Babcock wouldn't reveal the man's name, however, he said. "This person said that Chancellor Tom Harrington and E. E. McQuillen are heading the drive for co-education . . ."

THE CLUB president, Charles Cook, Class of '49, said that Babcock's remarks didn't necessarily reflect the views of the club as a whole. He allowed Babcock to speak, he said, because he didn't want "to muzzle any one."

In a fiery rebuff to Babcock's impromptu speech, George Morgan, Class of '18, a past president of the club and a past president of the Association of Former Students, called for a sober approach to the problem.

"WHEN I WAS AT A&M in the 1920's and 1930's, we had women attending class and we weren't co-educational," he said. "The fact that we have women there now doesn't make it co-educational." A&M can be co-educational only if there is dormitory space set aside for women students, he asserted.

"What earthly reason is there why my daughter and wife or your wife could not take a few courses at A&M?" he asked. "There is no better supporter of Charlie Babcock than I am, but why would he try to sit up here and kill this thing. A&M College is stronger than all of this: let's unite on this thing; the legislature is not going to change its decision." The 250-man crowd applauded for Morgan as Roland and Babcock sat quietly.

Educational Board To Hear Request On Economics Text

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Board of Education will hear a request at its Nov. 11 meeting that it reject a high school economics text up for adoption.

The book was recommended by the State Textbook Committee and State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar over protests by three persons that the book is too favorable to socialism and big government.

The appeal will be made by Mrs. A. A. Forester of Texarkana, Roger K. Harlan of Dallas and Mrs. Joan Slay of Fort Worth.

The book is one of three adopted by Edgar and the text panel from a total of six high school economics books. All but one of the six, including two of the adopted books, were protested.

Texas high schools are without new economics texts this year because the board of education found all selections unsatisfactory.

Nobel Prize Given For Science Work

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The last of the Nobel prizes for 1963, in physics and chemistry, were awarded Tuesday to two Americans, two Germans and an Italian.

Maria Goeppert Mayer, 57, of the University of California; Dr. Eugene Wigner, 61, of Princeton University, and Dr. J. Hans D. Jensen, 56, of Heidelberg University shared the physics prize for their research into the structure of the atom and its nucleus.

Two chemists who helped to usher in the age of plastics divided the chemistry prize. They are Karl Ziegler of Muelheim, Germany, and Dr. Giulio Natta of Italy's Polytechnic Institute of Milan.

German-born Mrs. Mayer is the first woman residing in America to win a Nobel Prize in physics and the first woman to be so honored since Marie Curie of France shared the physics award with her husband in 1903.

'64 RE Week Set For Mid-February

The Executive Committee has approved the dates of Feb. 17-21 for Religious Emphasis Week next year.

In a memorandum to J. Gordon Gay, Coordinator of Religious Life at A&M University, James P. Hannigan, dean of students, said that the Executive Committee disapproved the use of Guion Hall for use of Religious Emphasis Week services but approved on-campus religious services being held at the All-Faiths Chapel or YMCA Building on a "first come-first served" basis.

Not since 1962 have religious speeches conducted in Guion Hall during class hours on weekday mornings.

According to the memorandum to Gay, the Executive Committee rejected a request for released time from classes. They re-emphasized the adoption of the following policy last year: "Call to quarters in military dormitories should begin at 8:30 p.m. for the six day week to allow students to participate in the meetings off campus." This, in effect, would be similar to the regular Wednesday evening schedule.

Beekeepers Slate Ethics, Food Talk

Topics such as a code of ethics and a Food and Drug Administration report will be featured at the Texas Beekeepers Association 82nd annual meeting Nov. 11-12 at A&M University in the Memorial Student Center.

J. C. Burgin, A&M entomologist and program committeeman, said the code of ethics session will be a panel discussion at 4 p.m. the first day.

Injured Ag In Fair Condition Following Tuesday's Wreck

Travis H. Small, fourth year veterinary student from Fort Worth and the sole survivor of Monday night's auto disaster that killed four persons, remained in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday night.

Killed in the accident were Larry Rathjen of Lyons, Charles James Phillip of Caldwell, Bobbie Lee Dlabay of College Station and Carmello Castoria of Bryan.

All four of the young men were employees of the A&M dining halls. Castoria was to have begun his first day of work Tuesday.

The accident occurred at 8:20 p.m. one mile west of the campus on rainslick Farm Road 60, said William Swanzey, the investigating Texas Highway Patrolman.

The death car, a 1963 Falcon, was traveling east and Small's Buick was going west when the Falcon apparently went out of control and into a skid, continued Swanzey.

The two cars, welded together, traveled 159 feet before coming to rest on the right side of the road.

Swanzey said that the cause of the accident is still under investigation.

Funeral services for Castoria will be held at 9:15 a.m. at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The Rev. Peter Villani and the Rev. Harry Bilski will officiate.

Burial will be in Mount Calvary Cemetery.

Services for Dlabay will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Callaway-Jones Funeral Home. The Rev. T. J. Valenta will officiate. Arrangements for Rathjen are pending at Woods Funeral Home

Russians Clear U. S. Convoy To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—An Allied official said Wednesday that the Soviets have begun clearing the American convoy they had held for over 42 hours on the Berlin highway.

The official said that the Americans persisted in their refusal to dismount from their trucks and be counted.

The Russians had earlier let a British and a French convoy move from Berlin to West Germany. The Americans were stopped at Marienborn on their way to West Berlin Monday morning.

Soviet forces lifted their blockade of the 44-man U. S. Army convoy after having barred it access to Berlin for 42 hours in a sharp Russian-U. S. confrontation in divided Germany.

The first unit of the 12-vehicle convoy started to move up the 11-mile highway to West Berlin at 2:14 a.m., 8:14 p.m. EST Tuesday, an Allied official said.

The U. S. convoy, returning to Berlin from maneuvers in West Germany, was halted at the Marienborn checkpoint at 8:01 a.m. Monday. Marienborn is just inside Communist East Germany on the border with West Germany.
