Squadron 10 grabbed two of four intramural championship titles decided in competition late last week and early this week.

Squadron 10 stole into the limelight of Class B activities by capturing both the flag football and horseshoes championships.

In the finals, Company E-2 fell prey to Squadron 10, 2-1 in the horseshoes match Tuesday afternoon.

It was Squadron 7 that dominated Company C-3 in the Class A basketball finals to win the title by a 58-31 score. Walton Hall won similar honors as they outscored Hart Hall, 43-37, to win the Class C basketball crown.

Members of the Squadron 10 Class B horseshoes team were David McCannon, Jimmy Heath, Kenneth Bennet, Phil Newton, Jon Thompson and Tommy Mosman.

Those on the Squadron 7 Class A basketball team were Eugene Briles, Butch Willingham, Carl Druibert and Mike Hallaburka. Charles Powell, Tifton Simmons, Lloyd Piper and Mike Starek were the other team members who had a hand in the victory.

Playing their way to the title for Walton Hall in Class C basketball was Ronald Stuart, Jim Wood, Bob Marrows and P. H. McKinnis. Others were F. S. Nieto, W. T. Weber and W. L. Rodgers.

Longhorns Prepare For Frog Invasion

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Writer Texas Christian's angry Horned Frogs make one last stab at glory Saturday when they collide with the nation's No. 1 team, Texas, in a game of great meaning to Southwestern Conference football.

MUCH WILL BE AT STAKE—Texas' high position among the nation's colleges, a certain tie for the conference championship and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

But there's just as much at stake for the disappointed Horned Frogs. They could salvage a season of heartbreaks and derision if they could stage the upset for which they have become famous.

NO ONE EXPECTS them to, but it was like that in 1959 and 1961, and the Frogs felled Texas when its dreams were the brightest.

The battle at Austin, where Texas hopes to make it nine straight and a clinch tie for the title, heads an otherwise lackluster schedule.

IN ANOTHER conference game, Arkansas and Southern Methodist, both already eliminated from the race, get together at Dallas. Neither now has any ideas of a bowl game. The other two conference members — Texas Tech and Baylor — have clashes with outsiders.

BAYLOR PLAYS Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference in the last inter-sectional game on the schedule for the season. The league stands 13-7 in this kind of warfare and can lose little prestige should Baylor fall.

Kentucky has lost five, won two and tied one and doesn't appear up to handling the Golden Bears with their great passer, Don Trull. But Baylor is bound to be in a letdown after the supreme but losing effort against Texas in the conference's big game last week. A flat football team can be prey for most anybody.

TEXAS TECH, hoping to finish ahead for the season — the record now is 4-4 — meets Texas Western at El Paso in a night game. Texas Western has a 2-5 record and doesn't look like a tough test.

Texas wouldn't lose everything if it were upset by Texas Christian. The Longhorns still could get into the Cotton Bowl by beating A&M on Thanksgiving Day. But the No. 1 ranking and a clear-cut conference championship would be knocked from under them.

RECORDS do not indicate Texas Christian is capable of beating Texas. The Frogs lost to Baylor 32-13 and to Arkansas 18-3. Texas beat Baylor 7-0 and Arkansas 17-13.

But this game always is a tough one for Texas. In Darrell Royal's six year tenure as coach at Texas, TCU is the only team he isn't ahead of. The record is 3-3.

The only other game that looks close is Southern Methodist and Arkansas.

Aggies Could Steal Rice's Title Hopes

By JIM BUTLER
Battalion Sports Editor

Where, oh where, has the little owl gone? Down defeat in quips. At least that will be the goal of the Aggies when football players, commandos, gladiators and cadets descend on the Bayou City Saturday to pay a daylight visit to Rice Stadium.

Maybe the Cadets can convince the Owls that their owl won't dance with them if they lose the game. At any rate the Aggies are in the mood for an upset and Saturday may be the day. Hank Foldberg's hard-fighting crew can claim to only one victory and a trailer full of bad breaks.

The Owls will have to face a young team that has six games under its belt and experience against some of the nation's best elevens. Though the record doesn't show the Aggies are much improved over the team that dropped a 23-3 decision to the Birds last year.

Starting halfback Budgie Ford, leading ground runner for A&M, has already run for 31 yards more than any Aggie last year and didn't break into the first unit until the fourth game.

No. 1 field general Charles LaGrange has surpassed 1962 passing high by 43 yards on four less completions. A Rice win Saturday will make Coach Jess Neely a winning coach in Southwest Conference history. He tied with Matty Bell at 136. Bell compiled his record in 23 years, five of them at A&M, while Neely is in his 11th season, all at Rice.

Rice is tied with Baylor for second place in the SWC behind the undefeated Texas Longhorns. The Owls stand 5-2 on the season, losing to Penn State and Texas.

The Cadets will have a chance to spoil a possible tie and a bowl bid for the Owls.

Foldberg has high regard for the Owls. "Rice is a pretty darn good football team. They have a strong group up front. They have a good running game and a good throwing game. And they always seem to be 'up' for the Aggies."

The Owls have a strong 1-2 punch at quarterback with juniors Walter McReynolds and Benny Hollingsworth. The same duality applies at fullback with Russell Wayt and Piper handling the chores.

Foldberg calls Wayt "as hard running fullback as we see." And Piper was one of the conference's leading rushers until an injury kept him out of the last two games.

The saying that a good football team is strong up the middle certainly holds true for Rice with perhaps the best center-linebacker in the conference to go along with the depth at quarterback and fullback.

Malcolm Walker, 6-4, 240-pound junior, is fast, smart and he played outstanding games against Texas and Arkansas and has been consistent all season.

Rice's starting ends—John Sylvester and Jerry Kelley—are familiar names to the Aggies. Each caught a touchdown pass against the Cadets last year.

The Maroon will be going with the same starting line that faced Arkansas and SMU. Aggies to watch will be LaGrange, Ford and a couple of promising sophomore linemen—Joe Wellborn and Bill Ward.

Wellborn came from nowhere to oust senior Ray Kuhn from his linebacker position and has been a standout both offense and defense in the last three games.

Ward is one of the top candidates for Sophomore Lineman of the Year in the SWC and the only Aggie with a chance for a post-season award.

Kickoff time is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday in Rice Stadium, providing the Aggies don't borrow it between and then.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: STANLEY "PETE" CLOW

Following staff-assistant training, Stanley Clow (A.B., 1958), or "Pete" as he likes to be called, was made Commercial Manager of the Sedalia, Missouri Business Office of Southwestern Bell.

The Sedalia office serves approximately 18,000 customers in five different towns. This takes a wide variety of management talents, and Pete has proved his versatility. He is accountable for results in five primary fields: sales, collections, good customer service, work volume and public relations. He directly supervises all personnel responsible for the success of these operations. Even more important is the need to improve constantly the quality of service by tailoring general practices to local situations. The greatest personal reward to Pete is seeing his recommendations put in effect . . . recommendations that mean better operations and better service.

Pete Clow, like many young men, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.
