Belgian Politics Is New Book Subject

Dr. E. Ramon Arango, of the Department of History and Government, is author of a new book believed to be the first English-language study of contemporary Belgian politics. "Leopold III and the Belgian Royal Question", which, is being released by the Johns Hopkins Press.

The royal question divided Belgians during the 1940s until they almost reached a state of civil war. Bitterness still lingers.

The question concerned the powers of the King as constitutional monarch.

"I've been told this is the first English-language study of contemporary Belgian politics and the first in other than polemics of the royal question," Arango said.

His study considers the monarchy as it was before the question developed, the events that created the question and the post-war struggle between King and Government for public support, and finally speculates upon the nature of the monarchy since 1950.

"The question," Arango said, "forced Belgian to consider the costs of disunity and thus has caused them to clarify the limits of agreement and disagreement and has thereby strengthened the cohesion of Belgian society and stabilized the political process."

The royal question gained sharp focus in May, 1940 as Belgian fell to the German armies. The Government fled into exile in England to continue the fight. Leopold III remained behind.

The question of who was right became a sharp issue once Belgian was freed.

As is often the case with researchers, Arango began with one problem and then another gained his full attention. In 1958 he went to the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium as a special student and a Fulbright grantee.

Physicist Receives Fellowship Grant

Jack G. Couch of A&M University has been awarded an Oak Ridge Fellowship, and starting Jan. 27 will be doing research at the famed nuclear science center in East Tennessee.

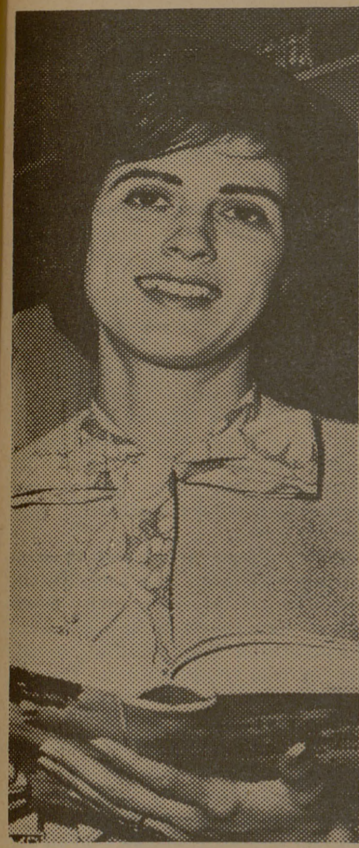

Couch's research studies will complete requirements for a Doctor of Philosophy degree in physics. Chairman of his faculty committee is Dr. John A. McIntyre.

The doctoral student has completed all of the courses required for a doctorate and teaches part time.

At Oak Ridge he will be assigned to the electronuclear division and his general research field will be neutron transfer reactions. The one-year fellowship award is renewable.

Couch graduated from Utah State University in 1958 and a year later completed a master's degree at Vanderbilt University. He taught physics at the Church College of Hawaii before coming to A&M in September, 1961, to begin doctoral studies.

Vocational Education Future To Be Main Conference Topic

The role ahead for vocational education will be one of the main topics heard at the annual Area 3 Mid-Winter Conference of Vocational Agriculture Teachers Friday and Saturday in the Memorial Student Center.

Kenneth C. Welsh, superintendent of the West Columbia Public Schools, will discuss the subject the afternoon of the first day.

The program starts with registration at 1 p.m. with an address of welcome by Dr. W. J. Graff, Dean of Instruction.

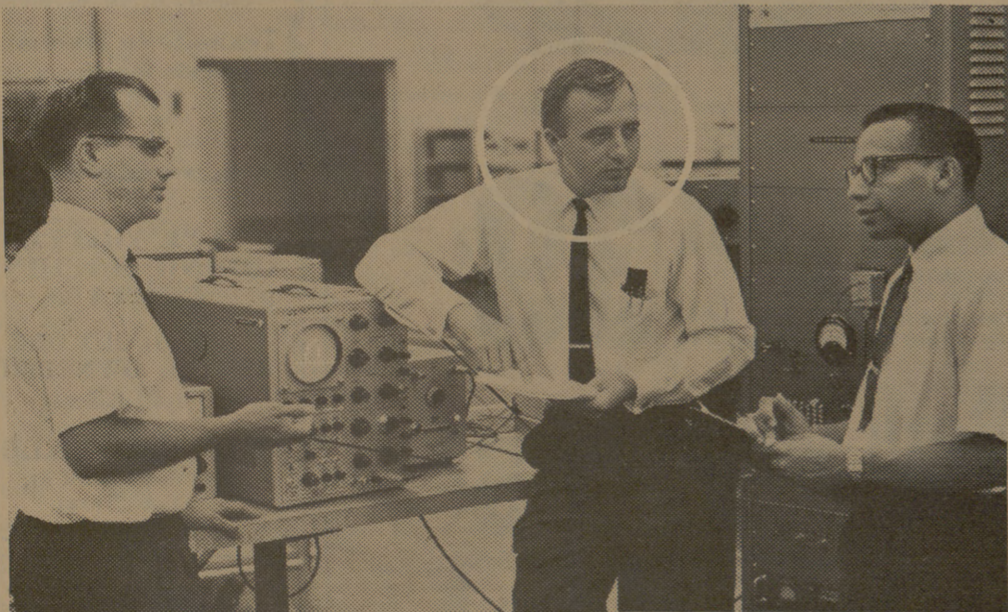

Graff will be followed by a talk on "Looking Ahead" by Price Hobgood, head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, and Dr. Morris Bloodworth, head of the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences.

Other discussions are scheduled by officers in the Future Farmers of America, Texas Young Farmers and the Texas Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association.

Most of Saturday's program is devoted to workshop sessions. Subjects to be covered are building and grafting by Fred Brison and associates in the horticulture section; feeding livestock, Bill Holtzapfel and Joe Tocquigny, Department of Animal Husbandry; judging meats, Dr. Gene King and Dr. Zerle Carpenter, Department of Animal Husbandry; pregnancy testing of cattle, Dr. A. M. Sorenson, Department of Animal Husbandry; and farm shop, Dr. Earl Webb and Bill Aldred of the Department of Agricultural Education and Department of Agricultural Engineering.

Tom Huck sought scientific excitement

He's finding it at Western Electric

Ohio University conferred a B.S.E.E. degree on C. T. Huck in 1956. Tom knew of Western Electric's history of manufacturing development. He realized, too, that our personnel development program was expanding to meet tomorrow's demands.

After graduation, Tom immediately began to work on the development of electronic switching systems. Then, in 1958, Tom went to the Bell Telephone Laboratories on a temporary assignment to help in the advancement of our national military capabilities. At their Whippany, New Jersey, labs, Tom worked with the Western Electric development team on computer circuitry for the Nike Zeus guidance system. Tom then moved on to a new assignment at WE's Columbus, Ohio, Works. There, Tom is working on the development of testing circuitry for the memory phase of electronic switching systems.

This constant challenge of the totally new, combined with advanced training and education opportunities, make a Western Electric career enjoyable, stimulating and fruitful. Thousands of young men will realize this in the next few years. How about you?

If responsibility and the challenge of the future appeal to you, and you have the qualifications we seek, talk with us. Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.
