

A&M Marine Study Could Aid Project

By DAVID RIDEOUT
Studies made by A&M students in marine ichthyology this semester may prove to be valuable when the Trinity River is dredged and opened up for commercial shipping.

Recently the marine ichthyology class, headed by Dr. R. J. Baldauf, associate professor of wildlife management, made the first of a series of field trips planned for this semester. Samples of marine

Faculty-Staff Club Holds Dinner Dance

The third of the year's four dinner-dances of the Faculty-Staff Club will be a costume affair. It is set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in the Memorial Student Center Assembly Room, according to W. J. Eckles, committee chairman. All season ticket holders and others are invited to attend. Dick Baldauf's Aggieband Combo will furnish dance music. Individual tickets may be bought at the MSC Main Desk until 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Oceanography Prof Leaves For Indian Ocean Cruise

Dr. Louis S. Kornicker will sail the Indian Ocean in search of information useful in understanding conditions on earth eons ago. He left the campus recently for a Thursday date with the sailing vessel Te Vega in Ceylon, large island just off the tip of India. The cruise ends May 1 in Madagascar.

Kornicker's specialty is geological oceanography. Aboard the two-masted, 134-foot Te Vega, he will collect ostracods, microscopic crustaceans.

"I'll be after the living materials. The distribution and ecology of the ostracod is useful to geologists studying ancient rocks," Kornicker said. He explained that he is learning more of the contemporary ostracod, its distribution

Bible Study Slated

The First Baptist Church of College Station is holding a Bible study this week on the Book of Ephesians. The study, which continues through Thursday, is held each evening from 6:45 to 8:15.

There are separate classes for Adults and Young People, Intermediates, Juniors, Primaries, Beginners and Nursery.

AH Students Gain Stock Show Work

A&M University animal husbandry students will be gaining valuable knowledge in the art of fitting and showing animals in the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Feb. 19-March 1.

The students are members of the Saddle and Siroin Club, which sponsors their stock showing efforts at the Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth shows.

The experience has paid off since the club started the project in 1956. Exhibitors in the organization have returned from the shows with an impressive array of championships and high place ribbons. At Houston this year, the Aggies will have one Hereford steer, two Angus steers and a cross-bred steer. The students do not exhibit breeding animals.

The Saddle and Siroin Club began the program seven years ago by borrowing $500 at 6 percent interest from Joe R. Lemley of San Angelo, a livestock broker and rancher. Lemley graduated from A&M in 1943 and was a judging team member.

Foreign Market Talk Set Today

The staff and students of the College of Agriculture have been invited to hear George J. Dietz, Director of Market Development for the Continental Grain Company, present "Some Comments on the Expanding Foreign Market for American Farm Products."

This discussion will begin at 4 p.m., Tuesday, in the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center. A question and answer period will follow the presentation.
The Continental Grain Company is handling the sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union. Dietz has been involved in this transaction, and is aware of the aspects of the issue.

Toland noted that women are now in charge of the American families and that man "has depreciated." About five male juvenile offenders are reported for each female, the speaker also reported.

Toland Blames Youth Crime Rate On Dads

A Bryan youth counselor, Robert A. Toland, has pointed the accusing finger at the American father for the nation's increasing rate of juvenile delinquency.

His observations were made Monday at the 38th general school for policemen, sponsored by the Engineering Extension Service's Police Training Division.

Juvenile delinquency has increased in the previous 10-year period by as much as 800 percent, Toland commented.

Seacat To Address Engineering Group

Dr. Russel H. Seacat will speak to the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 301 of Bolton Hall.

Seacat, a member of the Electrical Engineering faculty at Texas Technological College, and an A&M graduate, will discuss a theory of network analysis he has developed. The title of the speech will be "Applications of Teussner's Method of Network Analysis."
