A&M students cast a record 2,666 votes in the campus elections held yesterday.

It had been announced that the polls would remain open until 8 p. m. Thursday, but at that time a long line of voters still crowded the halls near the machines. The polls remained open until all students waiting had cast their votes.

Of the ten position to be chosen, civilians gained six. Corps students cast 1,616 votes to civilians 1,050.

Gaining the post of Student Senate President was Frank Muller. A member of the Corps, Muller is from McClean, Va. and majors in Pre-Law. He was opposed by Don Warren and Roy D. Johnson.

Vice-president went to civilian Ronald Pate, an accounting major from Waco. Running against Pate were Mike Beck, John D. Gay and Richard M. Dooley.

David Moreman, a civilian veterinary medicine major from Hedley, gained the post of parliamentarian. He ran against Thomas Arnold and Charles E. Wallace.

The office of recording secretary was won by J. Donald Bowen, a civilian architecture major from Abilene. Other candidates were Robert A. Beene and Daniel A. Fischer.

The new head of the student issues committee is Jay Jaynes. From Falls Church, Va., Jaynes majors in history and is a member of the Corps. He was opposed by Robert G. Lee.

The public relations committee will be headed by Eugene Gregory. From Union City, Tenn., Gregory is a Corps student majoring in economics. Other candidates were Sam Henry and Mike Wier.

James Allen will fill the office of student life chairman. He was opposed by William Bukellew and David S. Clifton. A civilian, Allen is an accounting major from Bryan.

William Altman of Odessa will head the student welfare committee. A management major, Altman is a civilian student. Campaigning against Altman was James Bourgeois.

James Benson came out on top as Civilian Yell Leader. From Nacogdoches, Benson majors in accounting. Other hopefuls were Darrell Smith and Harvey Bashor.

George Huber, an aeronautical engineering major from Three Rivers, was elected Agent of the Class of '64.

6 SDX'ers Set For Initiation, Feed Tonight

Six Journalism students are expected to be in Houston Friday for the spring initiation of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society.

The joint initiation of pledges from Sam Houston State Teachers College, University of Houston and A&M will be conducted at 6 p. m. by the Texas Gulf Coast Chapter, a professional branch of Sigma Delta Chi, said Robert P. Knight, sponsor of the A&M chapter.

The initiation will be held at the University of Houston and will be headed by Gayle McNutt, class '58, A&M, who is now state editor for The Houston Post. Following the initiation there will be a banquet at the Continental Hotel where Paul Haney, new voice of the Astronauts, will be the speaker.

Ben Matula, Michael Reynolds and Ray Harris are the A&M pledges who will be initiated.

Blood Drive Ends; 304 Ags Rejected

A final total of 868 Aggies signed up to give blood in the 1964 Wadley Research Institute Aggie Blood Drive. Of those that volunteered, 304 were rejected for reasons such as recent illness, high blood pressure, recent shots or other medication.

The 564 pints donated was far short of the goal of 1,000 pints set for the drive. Had all those willing to give been able to do so, the Aggies would have come very close to their goal, said Alan Peterson, student welfare committee chairman.

Military Rating To Be Given By Inspectors

Col. Denzil L. Baker, commandant of the Corps of Cadets, expressed optimism Wednesday afternoon concerning the outcome of the annual Federal Inspection and Review to be held Friday and Saturday.

"We are expecting a very satisfactory report from the team," said Baker.

Cadets of the Army ROTC and the Department of Military Science will undergo a detailed inspection by officers from Fourth Army Headquarters, Fort Sam Houston. Col. Daniel H. Heyne, Lt. Col. W. F. Moore and Lt. Col. G. T. Vird are to supervise the inspection.

"The inspection will in no way affect A&M's rating as a military college. That is determined in a completely different manner," said Lt. Col. T. A. Hotchkiss, also of the Department of Military Science.

Heyne, Moore and Vird will arrive Friday morning and be briefed by Baker. They will then observe classroom instruction, administrative procedures, training processes and facilities during the day. They will lunch with Baker and Dean of Students James P. Hannigan in the Memorial Student Center.

The inspection team will continue operations Friday afternoon following a briefing by Cadet Colonel Paul Dresser.

Ten more officers from Fort Sam Houston will arrive Friday night. They will aid Heyne, Moore and Vird when they conduct an in-the-ranks inspection Saturday morning at the Corps dorms in the New Area.

The inspection will be concluded by a review of the Army ROTC units at 9:15 a. m. on the Main Drill Field.

The inspection team will retire to a conference with Baker and Hannigan, after which, the inspection will be considered closed.

The Department of Military Science will be notified later whether or not they received a satisfactory or unsatisfactory rating.

MSC Directorate Gives 25 Awards

Twenty-five students and 11 other persons received awards at the annual Memorial Student Center Council and Directorate banquet at A&M University Thursday night.

Six of the students received the MSC's distinguished service award. Included in the top award list are:

Michael Lee Ilse and Jack Herff Miller of Corpus Christi; Marion Wesley Leftwich, Jr. of Lubbock; Robert Wallace Wimbish of Milford; Howard Martin Head of Richardson, and Lawrence N. Garrett of San Antonio.

The distinguished service honor also was presented to Dr. Travis Parker, Capt. Bobby Dudley, Dr. W. F. Krueger, Reagan Brown and Dr. Charles Hall, all A&M faculty-staff members.

John Lindsey of Houston, A&M Former Students Association president, also received the MSC's top award.

Leading men in the fields of unit records, computing and data processing will be the speakers at the 9th annual College and University Machine Records Conference to be held at A&M University Monday through Wednesday.

Approximately 400 persons have pre-registered for the conference, said Don F. Morrison, program chairman. He added that 153 colleges, representing 27 states and Canada, will be represented.

Morrison said five special flights have been planned from Dallas and three from Houston to accommodate the registrants. Also, he said, each has planned a couple of stand-by planes. Trans-Texas Airways has planned for the special flights to be made in 40 passenger Convair planes.

Theme for the conference is "New Horizons Through Thought" and topics for the meeting have been arranged so the registrant many attend meetings within his interest. The topics are arranged under the heading of unit record, computing and data processing. Each will host speakers who are authorities in the field.

The conference will begin at 8 a. m. Monday in the Ramada Inn, conference headquarters, with a welcome speech from A&M University President Earl Rudder. Rudder will be followed by Jack R. Woolf, president of Arlington State College, who will give the keynote address entitled "Data Processing For Educational Management."

Woolf will discuss the use of data processing for achieving objectives in the management of academic programs from the viewpoint of the president's office. He will give ideas of the "total System" concept and the interrelationships of teaching activities, student records and fiscal records.

Dr. Robert Fano, Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor of electrical engineering, will transmit data through a Western Union Telex unit from the Ramada Inn, through the Memorial Student Center, which will relay it to Houston, and from Houston to MIT. Calculations will be made at MIT and transmitted back to the Ramada Inn within seconds. This will be presented Tuesday morning at 10:45 during a talk by Fano on the "Progress Report On Project 'MAC.'"

Project "MAC" is Multiple Access Computer, similar to the telephone system where several people may be using the telephone at the same time but only the persons talking to each other are aware of the use.

Jim Baker of Price Waterhouse and Company will discuss "Data Processing Audit Trials" at a Monday morning general session. He will point out audit trials and control requirements for a mechanized data processing system from the viewpoint of both the auditor and systems man.

Total University College Operating System will be discussed Monday morning by Richard A. Mason of International Business Machine, Inc.

Spring Picnic Set

The Apartment Council will hold its annual spring picnic in Hensel Park Saturday from 2:30 to 6 p. m.

Each family has been asked to bring a picnic lunch, and free ice cream and cokes will be furnished. The picnic will include a drawing for free prizes and is open to all married students living in Hensel, College View and the project houses.

A charge of 50¢ per family will be made to all families not presenting a Civilian Student Activity Card.

Student" will be a topic Monday afternoon. Jack Thornton, IBM director at Baylor University, and Robert Gates, coordinator of the National Education Act, Florida State, will deliver the lecture.

Other general session talks will be concerned with a discussion of a total University-College Operating System; Mass Systems Complex and Data Transmission, Theories of Information Retrieval, Data Processing Curricula and Library Circulation.

Tuesday afternoon's general session topics are Where To By 1984, DocuTran Scanner-Student Data, The Use of "pert" in Education and Data Processing in Public Education.

State of the Art of Automatic Scheduling and Registration will be the final topic which will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Morning sessions will be divided into the field of interest.

Foreign Students To Visit Houston

Forty foreign students from A&M University will be in Houston Saturday and Sunday as guests of Houston's Institute of International Education.

The students will be entertained by Houston families, Mrs. Fred E. Smith, chairman of A&M's International Hospitality Committee, reported.

A highlight of the Houston visit will be a tour of the Manned Spacecraft Center.
