

A&M University Sociologist Has Theory On Frustration

An A&M University sociologist believes that some of modern man's frustrations stem from both a conscious and subconscious search for absolutes in a world saturated with relatives.

Relatives in this case are not aunts and uncles and cousins and in-laws, although there are plenty of those kind around. When Dan R. Davis of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology speaks of relatives, he means situations that are hard to nail down when the only hammer available is opinion.

The sociologist tries to head off such notions with a short lecture that he calls, "Down Is Up."

"The individual seeks absolutes among cultures often without realizing that he is constantly surrounded by considerations that are relative," the educator says.

More vexation arises when situations tend to be pictured as either black or white and good and bad.

"Many fail to realize that few things are all black or all white, all good or all bad," Davis explains. "Little consideration is given to the many shades of gray existing between blacks and whites." Such absolutes as up and down, he points out, become more elastic when a person considers that the earth revolves and is not flat. What is up at noon is down at midnight, and that which was down is now up.

He says the horizontal concept of up and down is common in this country with such terms as "up north" and "down south." But "down Egypt" refers to the northern portion of the nation, and "up Egypt" refers to the southern portion.

Such ups and downs are associated with river flow direction. In the U. S., the Mississippi runs south. Egypt's Nile River flows north.

"In a world where both social and physical things may be relative, absolutes are rare despite the slide rule, electronic computer and other hardware of technicians," Davis says.

Club Schedules Coin Display, Auction, Prizes

The Bi-City Coin Club of Bryan-College Station will hold its first annual coin show and auction on Sunday at the American Legion Hall in Bryan.

The Coin Club will begin the show at 1:30 p.m. with an auction of coins to begin at 3 p.m. About 100 lots of coins will be offered in the auction.

Admission will be free and everyone invited to see the many rare and beautiful coins that will be displayed. One coin to be shown is "unique" being the only one of its kind ever made. It is valued at $10,000. Door prizes will be given every half-hour starting at 2 p.m. The show will be concluded at 5 p.m. by a drawing for three different lots of coins.

Eta Kappa Nu Sets Initiation, Banquet

The A&M chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, National electrical engineering honor society, will initiate 14 new members Tuesday.

The ceremony will be held at 5 p.m. in the Electrical Engineering Building. Three graduate students, two seniors and nine juniors will join the society.

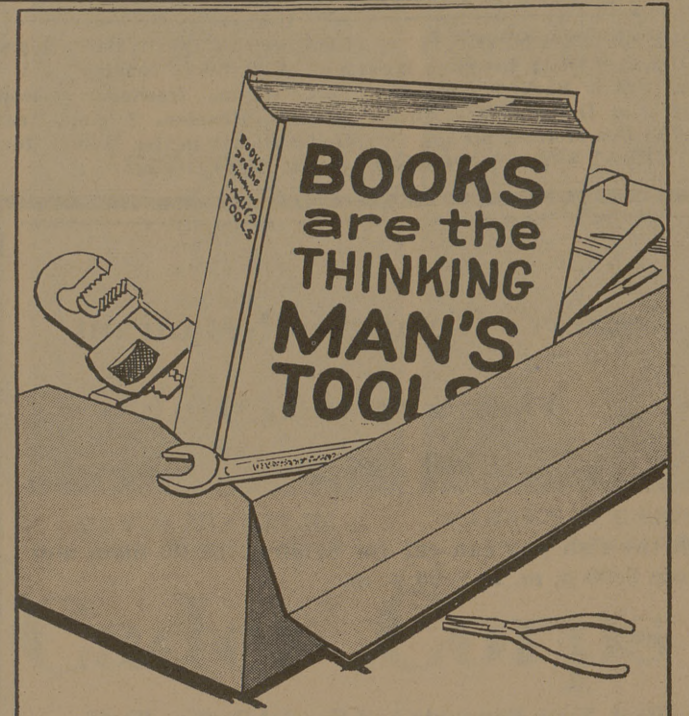

Graduate students are William L. Beasley, Clifford H. Ray and Forrest T. Valentine. Seniors are Gerald H. Lutterman and Lee D. McIntosh.

Juniors being honored are David A. Borg, Ernest A. Boy, David L. Cauthron, Don M. Lyle, Everitt A. Lyons, Daniel F. Mares, John F. Pensinger, Howard T. Russell and Mike Wier.

The initiation will be followed by a banquet at Clayton's Restaurant at 7 p.m. Robert L. Smith, head of the Data Processing Center, will present an after-dinner address.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"Don't forget Tippy's treat!" Even if we're a bit late leaving for church, Susan and Mark must take their paper bag of surprises for Tippy the squirrel. Tippy lives in the park beside the church, and he's one of many happy, heart-warming things that our family looks forward to on Sundays.

We are rearing our children in the Christian faith because we know from our own experience how much it means to young people growing up. Without a right sense of values, youngsters are so likely to get into trouble.

Already Susan and Mark are learning to trust in the loving protection of God, and to turn to Him with their little problems. Through the stories of Jesus they are beginning to understand what it means to follow Him. We pray that this childhood pattern will strengthen and form a steadfast foundation for the whole of their lives. No parents could ask for more.
