

Adult Short Courses Stress Newest Agriculture Trends

A&M University is in its sixth year of conducting special adult education programs to help keep farmers and ranchers abreast of technological changes.

What size electric motor should be used for a certain job? What are the latest techniques in oxy-acetylene welding? When are the optimum times to fertilize an improved pasture?

These are just a few of the areas covered in the university's short courses held in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency in Austin.

The courses, known as the Agricultural Education Specialist Program, are administered by the A&M Department of Agricultural Education and conducted through local high school vocational agriculture teachers. The Texas Education Agency provides about $130,000 per year in support.

Saddle & Sirloln To Hold Banquet

Outstanding students and livestock men will be honored during the annual Saddle and Sirloln Club Banquet and Cattlemen's Ball Friday at A&M University.

The banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom and is followed by the Cattlemen's Ball.

Joe Sagebiel of Fredericksburg, club president, said the banquet is held to honor top Saddle and Sirloln members, livestock judging team members and animal husbandry majors.

Sagebiel said PhT degrees (Put Hubby Through) will be awarded to wives of graduating seniors. Another feature is the selection of a club sweetheart at the Cattlemen's Ball.

and agricultural engineer with the Department of Agricultural Education, said the purpose is to assist public schools in fulfilling adult education responsibilities at the local level.

He said the agreement between A&M and the Texas Education Agency provides for specialists from various university departments in the College of Agriculture as course instructors.

Jaska emphasized that the program does not duplicate short courses now conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Instead, the adult education activities supplement Extension Service efforts.

The main difference between the two is that Extension Service courses usually last a day or less, while the adult education program has a minimum of 12 hours of instruction spread over about four days.

The adult education program is also held for regular organized adult farmer or State Association of Young Farmers groups.

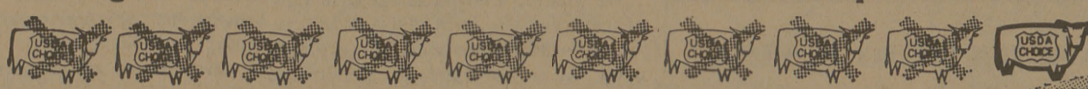

Boy Saved From Hollow Tree

James Stokes, 15, is hauled out of a hollow tree at LaHabra, Calif., after he was trapped upside down for nearly three hours. Firemen, unable to pull Stokes out at first, sawed off the upper half of the tree in order to free the youth. He was treated for minor cuts and released. (AP Wire-photo)

"MAN MUST SACRIFICE BEFORE HE CAN BE AN ARTIST"

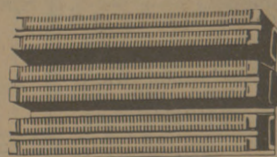

says budding painter as he gives away his REMINGTON LKTRONIC II LOOK AT WHAT HE GAVE UP:

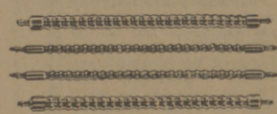

Freedom: The cordless feature. Those built-in, rechargeable energy cells that let you shave anywhere without a plug. Forget to recharge? There is a cord. Just plug it in and shave on the spot.

Efficiency: 348 cutting edges of hard, durable high-carbon steel. Specially honed on an angle, they slice whiskers off without ploughing up skin.

Convenience: 756 slots in the big shaving head gather whiskers. Feed them to the cutters faster. Make short work of shaving.

Comfort: The REMINGTON Roller Combs. 4 of them. Right on top of the shaving head. They push skin down, pop whiskers up into cutters, so they're stroked off gently. With a cord, without a cord, there just isn't a faster, more comfortable way to shave.

The thought of giving up the LKTRONIC II is enough to make a man want to become a teacher.

The REMINGTON LKTRONIC II may cost a little more than most electric shavers. That's because it's worth more.
