Pension Fund Highjinx Told To Hoffa Jury

By The Associated Press

A government witness testified Tuesday that Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa promised him approval of a $5 million loan from a union pension fund if he would help extricate Hoffa from a sinking business venture.

The day was also enlivened by the placing of a federal guard around U. S. Dist. Judge Richard B. Austin, after an anonymous telephone caller told police someone would try to kill the judge.

Two U. S. marshals were assigned to guard the judge in his courtroom and six other stood watch over corridors leading to his chambers.

There were no incidents in court as the witness, Stanton D. Sanson of Bal Harbour, Fla., described the alleged Hoffa proposal.

Hoffa and seven other defendants are accused of defrauding the pension fund of more than $20 million in loans and getting a million-dollar kickback from the persons who received the loans.

Sanson testified that Hoffa wanted him and his associates to take over Sun Valley, Inc., a financially troubled retirement homes development in Brevard County, Fla., in which he said Hoffa was deeply involved.

The witness said Hoffa told him Sun Valley was in considerable difficulty and Hoffa wanted a reputable firm to take over the development "and do something with it."

By JOHN WRIGHT
News Editor

If you have not liked the way the Student Senate has conducted itself in the past, you can vote Thursday for the men you think will be able to best perform their jobs as senators in the future.

For Thursday is the day for electing fellow students to the 27 positions to be decided that will complete the Senate for 1964-65.

Forty-nine students registered for those 27 positions before filing closed on the afternoon of May 5.

Twelve Student Senate chairs and 15 members of the election will be decided in the election. Election commission candidates will be elected by the class system but only by class members in the college that they are seeking to represent.

North Texas Ranch Empire Is Contested

By The Associated Press

The mighty Waggoner ranch empire, a major factor in North Texas economy since 1865, may be splintered in a welter of legal actions pending in district court here.

Albert B. Buster Wharton Jr., heir to the fortune of Electra Waggoner, died in 1963 after filing a suit to enable him to sell about a third of his trust holdings. Since then, four file folders full of cross suits, petitions, amendments and other court causes have been tacked on to the original cause.

Some heirs claim the original trust established by W. T. Waggoner in 1923 was illegal and invalid. Some are trying to remove directors of the various trusts, including former Navy Sec. Robert Anderson.

Ney Sheridan, Jr., Vernon lawyer for some claimants, said "This will probably be in litigation at least 5 or 6 years." Sheridan estimated the total value of the various Waggoner holdings — including a 797-square mile ranch near Vernon — at "$35 to $45 millions."

In 1923, W. T. Tom Waggoner decided to form a trust to leave his three children. The heirs were Electra Waggoner Wharton, who died in 1925; Paul Waggoner, only survivor of the three and still a resident of Vernon; and Guy Waggoner, who died in the early 1950s.

Young Republicans Choose Officers, Outline Programs

The Young Republicans Club of Bryan-College Station held elections for the coming school year at a brief meeting Monday night in the New Wesley Foundation Building.

Everett Lindstrom was elected chairman of the organization for the 1964-65 school year. Lindstrom is a junior in the Corps at A&M University. He is a landscape architecture major from Channelview.

Bill Giesenschlag, a history major from Somerville, was elected vice-chairman and Joe Edelbrock was named the new secretary. Edelbrock is from Midland and is a math major.

Lindstrom commented on the fine year the club has just completed under Robert Eubank, the outgoing chairman. He pointed out that during the last year the club has featured Republican senatorial and gubernatorial candidates, including Aggie-ex Jack Creighton.

Next year's programs were outlined by Lindstrom, including a membership drive contest now in progress and "Goldwater-64" bumper sticker parties. He said that the club will work very closely with the senior party in the November election campaign, distributing literature and soliciting votes.

Lindstrom said the fall term would be started with a kick-off steak fry.

Rusk Tells NATO Of Cuban Trouble

Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked the Western Allies to send non-military aid to South Viet Nam and to isolate Cuba to head off a new world crisis. He also saw potential danger to the West in the Moscow-Peking dispute.

He urged the isolation of Cuba economically, politically, socially and even spiritually to prevent Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime from subverting other Latin-American countries.

Rusk told the opening session Tuesday of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Foreign Ministers that a new crisis over Cuba would affect the whole Western world. This was aimed at such NATO nations as Britain and France who trade with Cuba despite the U. S. economic embargo of the island nation.

The United States is determined to continue aerial reconnaissance of Cuba, Rusk said, pointing out this could lead to as serious a confrontation as that in October of 1962, when the Soviet Union introduced missiles in Cuba. Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler of Britain agreed with Rusk's proposal for nonmilitary aid to boost morale among civilians in South Viet Nam, where the United States is supporting a war against Communist guerrillas.

Butler conceded that there was a difference of views over Cuba, a reference to the sale of British buses to Cuba. But this did not alter the fact that the aims of the Allies are the same and that the NATO countries are determined to help Latin American countries protect their security, he declared.

Robles Gains Win In Panama Vote

PANAMA (AP) — Government candidate Marco A. Robles scored an upset victory in Panama's presidential election on the basis of nearly complete returns announced Tuesday night.

The national electoral tribunal figures gave Robles an insurmountable 11,000 vote margin over twice deposed ex-President Arnulfo Arias.

Arias had been the slight favorite in most unofficial polls prior to Sunday's voting.

There was no immediate reaction from the Arias camp.

Barry, Rocky Take Nebraska, W. Va.

Republican voters in West Virginia were giving a strong endorsement to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's bid for the GOP presidential nomination in early returns from Tuesday's state's preference primary.

But in similar voting in Nebraska Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, while leading the field, was running into stiff write-in vote competition, particularly from Richard M. Nixon.

In both cases Rockefeller and Goldwater, avowed candidates for the nomination, were the only names on the ballot. The difference was that write-in votes are counted in Nebraska, but not in West Virginia.

In returns from 50 of Nebraska's 2,148 precincts, Goldwater had 2,240 votes. Write-in from the same number of precincts showed 1,231 for former Vice President Nixon, 717 for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and 70 for Rockefeller, and 45 for four others.

In West Virginia, in returns from 151 of 2,664 precincts, Rockefeller had 3,931 votes, about 70 per cent of all the GOP votes cast in Tuesday's gubernatorial primary.

There were no Democratic presidential primary tests in either state, although President Johnson was getting a solid write-in vote in Nebraska. With 97 precincts reporting he had 2,651, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy 116 and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama 87.

Republican delegate conventions also were held in Rhode Island and Missouri Tuesday.

In Rhode Island 14 delegates were to be chosen, with the party organization expected to battle attempts by backers of Goldwater and others to increase their strength on the nominally uncommitted delegation.

Missouri Republicans elected six more GOP delegates. Two were instructed to vote for Goldwater and two more said they favor his nomination. Two were listed as uncommitted.

FORMER STUDENTS

It Doesn't Take Long

By GLENN DROMGOOLE
Managing Editor

A 1962 graduate of the A&M School of Architecture appears to have a bright future ahead of him.

Since he received his diploma here, Harold L. Adams has been working his way to the top in the architectural field.

Upon graduating from A & M Adams went to work with John Carl Warnecke and Associates, a firm of architects and planning consultants. Now he practically heads the Washington office for his employer.

Adams' current project is the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Library. He has been securing information on the existing presidential libraries for a report which will be the basis for the Kennedy Library.

While working on the projects

Adams has visited the Truman Library in Independence, Mo., the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan., and the Roosevelt Library in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Last May Adams worked with the late President in selecting a site for the library; since then he has devoted much of his time to the project. He recently attended meetings with Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and the 18 other architects involved in designing the library.

This project was not the first opportunity that Adams had to work with JFK. The Aggie architect and the late President first met while Adams was working on the Lafayette Square Project, a $30 million development of a park and two blocks of historical buildings across from the White House.

After Kennedy's death, Adams was named to the design team for the Memorial Grave in Arlington National Cemetery. Another of Adams' projects dealing directly with the Kennedy family was the designing and supervising construction of a four story addition to the home of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

A graduate of Palmer High School where he was valedictorian of his class, Adams was a distinguished student and a member of Alpha Rho Chi, architecture honor fraternity at A&M.

He also served as editor of Architecture Plans and won several awards for outstanding design. Adams has demonstrated that there is room at the top for young men in the world today. By taking advantage of available opportunities, by doing efficient work and by putting out a little extra effort, doors are opened to the young person.
