

More than 150 students from eight colleges and universities in the Southwest will attend the Student Leadership Conference near Palestine Sept. 4-6.

Among the speakers will be Kenneth Hobbs, Lubbock attorney; Dr. John D. Lawson, associate dean of students at California State Polytechnic College, and Preston M. Bolton, Houston architect.

The three-day Lakeview meeting, sponsored by A&M University, is designed to train students for leadership roles, David Fox of Mart, conference chairman, reported.

Members of the A&M faculty and administration, including President Earl Rudder, also are on the program.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m., followed by Dr. Lawson's talk on conducting meetings and conferences. Terry Oddson of Dallas, an A&M senior, will welcome the delegates.

The students will face a panel of university administrators from A&M, including President Rudder, Dean of Students James P. Hannigan, Dorsey McCrory, director of A&M's Development Fund, and a member of the Board of Directors, to be announced later.

The prospective student leaders also will hear from a panel of former college students during a session entitled, "If I Were in College Again."

The four-member panel includes John Lindsay of Houston, president of A&M's Former Students Association; John Watson, Dallas architect; Reagan Burch, Houston lawyer, and Dr. Richard Wainerdi, associate dean of engineering at A&M.

W. E. Eckles, director of A&M's executive development school, will discuss "Attitudes and Skills of Leadership," and Architect Bolton will talk on the community leader's responsibility toward the development of the performing arts.

Dr. H. O. Kunkel, associate director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, will serve as the "wrap-up" speaker. Devotional will be given by the Rev. N. B. Crawford, Lakeview pastor.

FOOTBALL TOP NEWS

Archives Receives File Of 1914-15 Battalions

Football training was hard but informal back in 1914 when Texas Aggies hunted alligators, fished and swam while at a training camp near Houston. The 20 players later won six of their eight games in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

"The football squad reports a glorious time (at camp) . . . The fellows reported two alligators being caught," a reporter wrote for the first issue of The Battalion, the campus newspaper, after classes began in September.

Details of the football camp and the assumption of duties by President W. B. Bizzell were major stories for the first issue.

A complete file of the student newspaper for 1914-15 has been given the A&M University Archives by Austin E. Burgess of 3221 Milton Avenue, Dallas. He edited the newspaper that year while completing studies in agronomy. Burgess now is retired.

"We have a lot of copies of The Battalion's special issues, but no other complete file for an academic year," Archivist Ernest Langford said. He noted the file contains a history of A&M written by Burgess and appearing serially.

"This is generally accepted as the second history written of Texas A&M," Langford said.

Burgess also sent other materials pertaining to campus life of 50 years ago.

Sports occupy much of the space in the weekly, six-page issues of The Battalion of 50 years ago but there was other news.

Completion of the electric interurban linking the campus and near by Bryan was a major event.

"A number of the Bryan cadets are taking advantage of the bettered service by living in their homes," the newspaper reported.

Plans for a Corps of Cadets trip to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition finally fizzled.

In one issue The Battalion bragged about recent campus improvements including three dormitories and six other buildings.

"We are even beginning to acquire a few luxuries; before commencement we shall be able to desert the muddy road and take to concrete sidewalks," the paper editorialized.

But it was football news that drew much of the space during the fall.

The team coached by fabled Charlie Moran and captained by Tyree Bell defeated such teams as Austin College, Texas Christian University, Rice Institute and Oklahoma A&M. The Haskell Braves scalped the Aggies while a game with Trinity University ended in a tie.

"Real football playing was out of the question. It was all the players could do to keep from getting stalled in the mud," The Battalion reported after the final game. The Aggies did overcome the mud enough to defeat "Ole Miss" 14-7 in a game played at Beaumont.

"Mississippi was out-classed, and on a dry field the Farmers would have piled up a large score," the newspaper claimed.
