

Dresser Named Top Cadet

Paul A. Dresser Jr., colonel of the Cadet Corps during 1963-64 has been chosen A&M University's nominee for the outstanding Army Reserve Officers Training Corps graduate in the nation during the year ended Aug. 31.

The nomination of Dresser, former San Antonio resident whose parents now reside in Corsicana, was announced by Lt. Col. Thomas A. Hotchkiss of the Army ROTC instructor staff.

Dresser was graduated last May with a degree in history. He distinguished himself scholastically and through service as a class officer and in other extracurricular activities.

The son of Col. and Mrs. Paul A. Dresser, 2003 W. Third Avenue in Corsicana, is a graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio.

Presentation of the Hughes Achievement Trophy to the outstanding Army ROTC graduate of the year is scheduled in December by the Secretary of the Army.

The new, perpetual award trophy weighs more than 100 pounds. Appropriate mementos will be presented to the winning individual and to his school for permanent retention.

The selection process begins at the university level and continues through each of the six Army Commands to the national level, Hotchkiss said.

Dresser began active duty as a Regular Army second lieutenant of artillery after graduation from A&M and is attending professional schools before taking an assignment in Germany. He goes to the basic airborne school at Ft. Benning, Ga., for final training before going overseas late in October.

As a student he completed his academic career with an overall grade point ratio of 2.54 on a scale of 3 and won membership first in Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honor society, and then in Phi Kappa Phi, senior society honoring students within the top one-tenth of their class scholastically.

ALONG THE CAMPAIGN TRAILS

Johnson Warns Of Ranting, Promises Cut In Excise Tax

President Johnson promised the nation Tuesday a cut in excise taxes and warned of "those who rave and rant about the dangers of progress."

"We will not permit federal revenues to become a drag on our economy," the President told steelworkers in reference to an excise tax cut.

Johnson spoke to the 12th biennial convention of the United Steelworkers of America in Convention Hall, the place where he was nominated for president last month.

He said his administration would help the poor, the helpless and the oppressed of the nation through a program of medical care for the aged under Social Security, through strengthened unemployment compensation and minimum wages, and through fair, just and equal opportunity for all Americans.

Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater carried his campaign to Texas Tuesday night and charged that the Democrats stumbled into a war in South Viet Nam they do not know how to end.

He made other charges: That Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is trigger-happy and has recklessly committed the United States to war in Viet Nam.

That President Johnson is using files of the Internal Revenue Service to coerce persons.

That Johnson's vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, wants to do away with the oil depletion tax allowance.

That medical care for the aged under Social Security system would bankrupt the system.

"They have lost the peace," Goldwater said of the administration in a speech for delivery at Odessa. "And what does my opponent have to say?"

"He says: 'Let us continue.'"

Goldwater said President Johnson's urging means, "Let us continue losing our sons and grandsons in a war thousands of miles away — a war this administration has stumbled into and does not know how to end."

Jack Crichton, Republican candidate for governor, said Tuesday Gov. John Connally had tried to mislead the people about GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater's stand on law enforcement.

Inquiries Invited For Danforth Aid

Inquiries about the Danforth Graduate Fellowships, to be awarded next March, are invited now, according to Dr. Wayne C. Hall, dean of the Graduate College.

The fellowships offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a PhD in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applicants may be single or married, must be less than 30 years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

Approximately 120 fellowships will be awarded in March. Candidates must be nominated by liaison officers of their undergraduate institutions.

AEC Fellowship Details Available

Details of the Atomic Energy Commission Special Fellowships in Health Physics program for 1965-66 graduate study here and nine other universities have been announced. The program is administered by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Dr. Vernon Bishop serves as the A&M fellowship advisor. He is an assistant professor in the Department of Nuclear Engineering and campus radiological safety officer.

The AEC fellowships provide a basic annual stipend of $2,500 with dependency allowances available. The fellowships are renewable. Students fill summer assignments at an AEC facility with A&M students to serve at the National Reactor Testing Station, Idaho Falls, Idaho.

TASA To Discuss School Relations

The first meeting of Area 1-C of the Texas Association of School Administrators will be at 9 a.m. Thursday in Room 425 of the Academic Building on the A&M campus.

Approximately 20 area school superintendents will attend the organizational meeting to hear a discussion of the topic "Superintendents and School Community Relations."

Calvin Hibler, consultant from the Texas Education Agency, will be a special guest at the meeting.

Warren Commission Report To Be Released Sunday

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — The Warren commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will be released for use by newspapers, television, radio and other media at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, the White House announced Tuesday.

Press secretary George Reedy announced the release hour at a briefing attended by about 15 newsmen.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and the six other members of the presidential investigating commission created nearly 10 months ago are scheduled to present the massive report — known to be more than 700 pages long — to President Johnson at the White House on Thursday.

The report will go on sale at the government printing office Monday, immediately after publication of its contents in Monday morning newspapers.

Hard-bound copies will sell for $3.25 and paperback copies for $2.50 each.

This includes only the commission's "summary report," covering a chronology and analysis of the tragedy in Dallas last Nov. 22, the commission's findings as to the perpetrator, and other subjects of investigation, together with a number of illustrations and appendices. The commission's findings are expected to support the conclusions of Dallas police, Texas authorities, and the FBI that the assassin was Lee Harvey Oswald.

Application Deadline Nears For Fulbright Scholarships

Students interested in study abroad next year with a Fulbright Scholarship or other U. S. Government grants under the Fulbright-Hays Act need to act quickly.

Completed applications are due not later than Oct. 25 in the office of Dr. J. M. Nance, campus program adviser. He heads the Department of History and Government with offices in 203 Nagle Hall.

Details of other programs for study in Latin American nations or for teaching assistantships in India and Italy also are available at Nance's office.

"The Fulbright grants are primarily for first year graduate study, although many advanced students are given awards," Nance said.

Chosen as a Fulbright Scholarship winner for 1964-65 was William Dean (Bill) Lebetter, an A&M graduate in physics. He was named to a scholarship at the University of Oslo.

Approximately 900 Fulbright grants, 45 Joint U. S.-Other Government grants, and 89 Travel-Only grants will be available to scholars who wish to pursue graduate study in 51 foreign countries.

"For most of these countries," Nance said, "a working knowledge of the language of the country in which study will take place is required, but for others only English is necessary." Other requirements include United States citizenship and a bachelor's degree by the beginning date of the grant.

Selections are made on the basis of academic and, or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan and personal qualifications. Preference is given to candidates who have not previously lived or studied abroad and are under the age of 35 years.

Nance said additional grants for Latin American study in 1965-66 will be available. Recommended fields of study for the grants are the social sciences, political science, history, law and the humanities. Among the countries involved are Bolivia, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala and Venezuela.

Organization Completed For Peace Corps Council

Organization of the university Peace Corps Advisory Council has been completed for the new year, Dr. G. M. Watkins, council chairman and director of agricultural instruction, announced.

A&M President Earl Rudder named the original faculty-student council to coordinate planning for visitations of Peace Corps teams, the testing programs and related matters.

Watkins succeeds Dr. Dan Russell, who retired in late summer, as council chairman.

Represented on the council are the four colleges and military, civilian and graduate students.

The faculty members include professors J. P. CoVan, engineering; W. D. Kutach, agriculture; A. R. Stephens, arts and sciences, and R. D. Turk, veterinary medicine. The University Information Office is represented by Henry L. Alsmeyer Jr.

Students serving this year include David Graham of Bay City, representing the Corps; Frank E. Bergen of Chillicothe, civilian representative, and Larry J. Ringler of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, graduate student member.

A Peace Corps team from Washington, D. C. will visit here from Sept. 28 to Oct. 4.

Peace Corps staff members, including returned Volunteers, will be on hand to explain the purpose, programs and future plans of the organization and to accept applications from interested juniors, seniors and graduate students.

Non-competitive aptitude tests will be given several times daily to applicants. Questionnaires must be completed before taking the tests. They are available at most post offices and may also be obtained in advance from Watkins.

If an organization, group or club wishes to have a Peace Corps representative speak and answer questions, arrangements should be made at once by calling Watkins at VI 6-5701.

Tuesday Night Silver Taps Honors Aggies

Silver Taps was held Tuesday night for Roberto Payan, Elmer Henry Beutnagel and Mohammad T. Islam, A&M students who died during the summer.

Payan was killed in a bicycle-accident in the 2000 block of Texas Ave. at 3 a.m. May 30.

The 20 year old freshman architecture student from Matamoros was struck from behind. According to Bryan police, the impact took place 13 feet, six inches from the curb in the inside line.

At the time of the accident Payan was accompanied by two fellow Mexican students. Neither was injured.

Islam, 27 year old graduate student in agronomy, became seriously ill and died Aug. 28. He was from East Pakistan.

The nature of Islam's disease and cause of death were not determined.

Details concerning Beutnagel's death are vague. It is believed that the junior chemical engineering major from Blanco died in a swimming accident in the Gulf of Mexico sometime late in August. Sources state that he was sucked under by the undertow of some type of vessel.
