

YMCA Apollo Club To Hear Large Variety Of Speakers

Forty-five students selected from applications will initiate a new project sponsored by the YMCA called the Apollo Club.

The project will consist of a series of talks by outstanding professional men from over the state. The program will take place on dinner beginning at 6 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center throughout the semester, said YMCA president Don Warren.

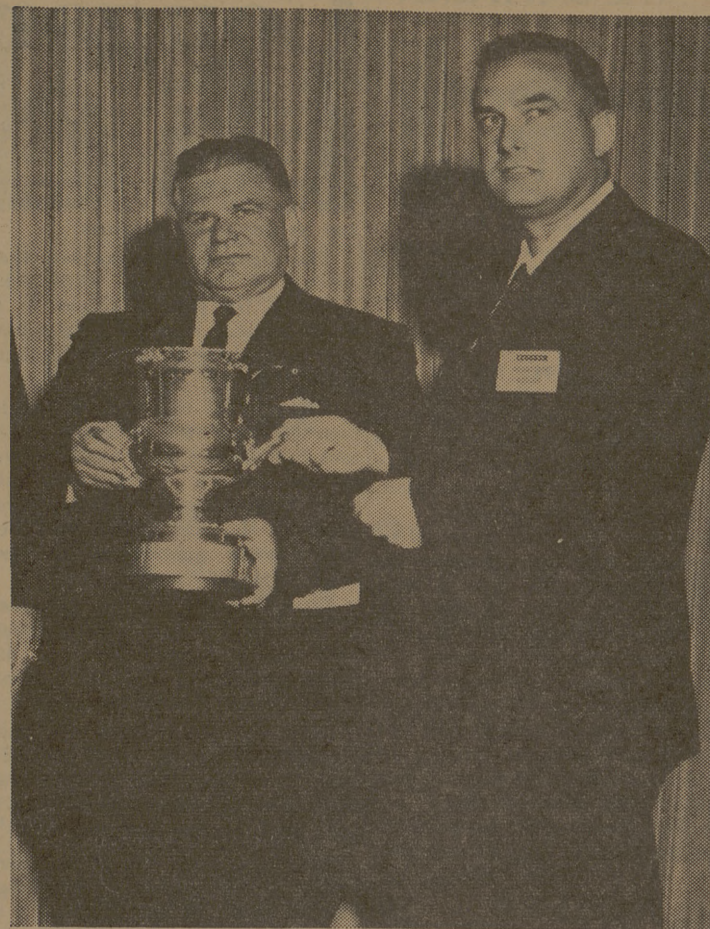

Programs will be over by 7:30. The number of students selected to hear and speak with the guest speakers will be limited to 45, consisting of 10 representatives from each class and five from the graduate school, Warren said. Application deadline has been set for Oct. 7.

The group will be called the Apollo Club and will hear a speaker on the topics "Political Ethics," "Moral Standards," "Science and Religion," and "The Space Age." The programs are planned for Oct. 15, 22, 29 and Nov. 5.

Each member will be charged $5 for the semester which will cover the cost of the meals.

Warren urged all interested men to contact J. Gordon Gay, general secretary of the YMCA, and make application. Selection of members will be based upon the application, Warren said. The selected members will continue through the semester with another group forming the second semester with a new series of topics.

YD's Plan Meeting, Spears To Speak

State Sen. Franklyn Spears will speak on "Patriotism or Extremism" at Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. meeting of the A&M Young Democrats in the St. Mary's student center.

According to Steve Heartwell, club president, "Some projects for the club this year are registration of voters who have turned 21 since poll tax deadline but before Oct. 3, giving help in obtaining absentee ballots for Nov. 3 election, stimulating interest in A&M students for political affairs, and campaigning for the reelection of President Johnson and other Democrat candidates."

Other club officers are Tom Lundsford, vice president; Perry Thompson, publicity chairman; Sam Glenn, corresponding secretary; Tom Cole, program chairman, and Dr. Claude A. Bitner, faculty advisor.

Bryan-CS Gets Convair-240 Flights Oct. 1

Easterwood Field will get its first Convair-240 flights on October 1, announced R. E. McKoughan, president of Trans-Texas Airways.

The 40-seat, air conditioned, pressurized, and radar equipped Convairs will be used on two of the twin cities' flights when new schedules are put into effect on that day by the airline.

The first Convair Flight 482 will land at 6:07 a.m. from Houston and depart at 6:17 for Dallas via Temple and Waco, arriving in Dallas at 8:00 a.m.

The flight's 8:00 a.m. arrival in Dallas will insure travelers of connections with the major jet complexes from the Dallas gateway to the principal cities of the East, West, and Mid-West. It will also feature a Continental Breakfast.

Providing return Convair service from Dallas will be Flight 483, departing that city at 8:02 p.m., arriving College Station/Bryan at 9:47, via Waco and Temple, departing at 9:57 and arriving in Houston at 10:32. This flight will connect with night coach service from Houston to major cities throughout the U. S. The 8:02 p.m. departure time from Dallas is designed to connect from the many flights from all over the United States arriving at that time.

Of special interest to students at A&M is TTA's youth fare, providing for 50 per cent reductions in the price of fares for those under 22 years of age. Trans-Texas now has a fleet of 20 Convair-240s and 23 DC-3s. The total of Convairs will be brought to 25 by the end of the year. TTA serves 57 cities in the states of Texas, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and New Mexico.

A smorgasbord, business meetings and nationally known nutritionist are on the program of the Texas Section of the Institute of Food Technologists fall meeting Monday at A&M.

The nutritionist is M. A. Joslyn of the University of California and president-elect of the IFT. His topic is "Technological Basis of Nutritional Regeneration."

Joslyn is a professor of food technology in the University of California's Department of Nutritional Sciences. During his 36 years in the food field he has been active in promoting the science as a unified scientific discipline.

An international conference on Modern Trends in Activation Analysis will be held on the campus next April 19-22, announced Richard E. Wainerdi, co-chairman of the organizing committee.

More than 400 scientists from areas of the Free World are expected to attend. Already, 61 abstracts have been submitted for presentation by authors from 14 countries, including Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America.

Earl Knebel Visits Education Confab

Dr. Earl Knebel, head of the Department of Agricultural Education, will be participating in the National Conference on Rural Education in Washington, D. C., this week.

Knebel will be assigned to the workshop committee on Vocational and Technical Education. Of particular interest at this time is clarification of new policies and programs pertaining to recent legislation as a result of the enactment of the National Vocational Education Act of 1963.

This conference is sponsored jointly by the Department of Rural Education of the National Education Association and the U. S. Office of Education.

Graduate Dean Has NSF Applications

Students interested in attending A&M as National Science Foundation Cooperative Graduate Fellows for 1965-66 should act immediately, Graduate Dean Wayne C. Hall announced.

Dean Hall said interested students may obtain application packets from C. M. Loyd, NSF coordinator, in the YMCA Building.

Experiment Station Meeting Experts 500

About 500 persons will gather here Oct. 7-9 for the annual Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Staff Conference.

Discussions will be focused on the general conference theme, "Communications." Broad areas to be covered within the theme are communication as a basis for understanding, how others view agriculture, self examination and the administrative view.

K. R. Tefertiller of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, general program chairman, said the first day's program starts at 8 a.m. with registration in the Memorial Student Center. President Earl Rudder will deliver an address of welcome.

The first subject matter speaker is Bryan Phifer, communications specialist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., who will talk on "The Scope of Communication."

Among other subjects and speakers are "Organization Factors that Influence Communication" by Larry Sarbaugh, publication information officer for the USDA in Washington; "Meaning of Meaning," Mason Miller, director of the Institute for Extension Personnel Development at Michigan State University; and "Writing What You Mean" by Phifer.

The Oct. 8 program begins with a discussion on "Communication in Industry and Agriculture" by Frank Atchley of the National Grocers Manufacturers in New York.

"Mass Media and Agriculture" is the topic Dave Shanks, managing editor of the Austin American Statesman. State Representative David Haines of Bryan will talk on "Legislation and Agriculture."

George L. Mehren, assistant secretary of agriculture, USDA, will outline "The Broadening Role of Agriculture in Our Changing Society," and R. E. Patterson, Experiment Station director, will discuss "Agricultural Perspective in Texas."
