

Peace Corps Takes 6 Aggies

Six Aggies are serving as Peace Corps volunteers and four others have completed service, the Washington headquarters has reported to the Peace Corps Advisory Council.

The faculty-student council now is busy with details of the week-long visit starting Monday of a Peace Corps team. The team will speak to groups, interview students and give tests.

"All Aggies who have served or are now serving in the Peace Corps and who have been heard from report satisfactory experiences," Dr. Dan Russell said. He was chairman of the advisory council until his recent retirement from the faculty.

Peace Corps headquarters lists Aggies overseas as including Carl T. Goldenberg and Harold G. Lyerly, both stationed in Thailand; Thomas M. Maxwell, Malaya; Don R. Reynolds, Philippines; David B. Sandefer, Dominican Republic, and Edward R. Weber, Tanganyika.

Service has been completed by John Bond, who served in Ethiopia; John A. Geistweidt, Dominican Republic; Nelson L. Jacobs, Brazil, and Joseph R. Preston, Peru. The Peace Corps observed its third anniversary in March with approximately 10,000 volunteers at work in 46 developing nations of the world.

While Americans are continuing to volunteer for the Peace Corps in record numbers, Peace Corps officials said, the demand still exceeds the supply, particularly in such skill areas as teaching, agriculture and health.

On March 1, 1961, the late President John F. Kennedy issued an executive order establishing the Peace Corps on a "temporary pilot basis." At that time he sent a special message to Congress recommending that the program be placed on a permanent basis. Congress approved the Peace Corps Act in September, 1961. Fifty-one volunteers arrived in Ghana that fall.

Today Latin America has the largest Peace Corps contingent with 4,175 volunteers; Africa is second with 3,065; the Near East, North Africa and South Asia have a total of 1,615 volunteers; and the Far East has 1,200 volunteers.

Of the volunteers serving overseas, 52 percent are in the field of education — from elementary to university level. About 20 percent are working in rural community action projects, 9 percent in health, 7 percent in agricultural extension work, 8 percent in urban community action, and 3.5 percent in public works.

LET ME TELL THE PEACE CORPS STORY . . . returned volunteer Burt Swanson, left, tells Joe A. Bowles, center, and John W. Collins of his experiences on Cyprus.

A&M Researcher Plays Major Role

An A&M scientist has had a major role in a study on radiation pasteurization of fruits grown in the South. He is Dr. L. R. Richardson, head of the Agricultural Analytical Services of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The researcher participated on a 19-man team from industry, government and southern universities in a six months investigation of effects and influences of radiation on grapefruit, oranges, peaches, strawberries and tomatoes.

The study was made under an Atomic Energy Commission contract to the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board.

Richardson prepared the "wholesomeness" portion in a section of the report covering radiation and food technology. Participating with him in this area were Dr. R. A. Dennison, University of Florida; Dr. John J. Powers and Dr. J. G. Woodroof, University of Georgia; and Dr. E. C. Maxie of the University of California.

Other sections of the report include irradiator concepts and costs, marketing and economics, packaging and health and safety.

Joseph Machurek of the AEC's Division of Isotopes Development, said the Atlanta-based Southern Interstate Nuclear Board is an agency established by interstate compact among 17 states of the Southern Governor's Conference. The board seeks optimum development of nuclear energy, space and related technologies in products and processes for economic and social advancement of the region.

Consolidated Band Sets Sale, Carnival

A calendar sale and a carnival will mark the beginning of the 1964-65 school year for the A&M Consolidated High School Band.

The calendar sale, to be held Oct. 3, will be an all day house-to-house campaign conducted by the band members. Profits from the sale will go towards purchasing new band uniforms and equipment.

The carnival will be held Oct. 10 on the Patranello Slab near the high school, following a supper at 5:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The event, jointly sponsored by the Band Boosters Club and the College Station Lions Club, is open to the public.

Catholics Change Deacon Policy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted approval Tuesday of a historic change to allow mature married men to become deacons, with many of the duties of priests. But it refused young single men the right to marry after entering the diaconate.

Tech Students Plan Reception Before Game

A reception Saturday starting at 6 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center will honor students and ex-students from Texas Tech.

Bill Jackson, president of the Tech Ex-Student Association in Bryan and College Station, said they are expecting at least 300 Tech students and ex-students to register before the ballgame between A&M and Texas Tech Saturday night.

Marion Crow, president of the Houston Association reported that there will be two chartered buses with Tech ex-students coming from Houston.

The Tech graduates set up this association with the idea of receiving students and ex-students from Tech on the A&M campus to give them a meeting place and to make them feel more at home, said Jackson.

Class Play, Show, Football Scheduled For Consolidated

The 1964-65 school year is well under way at A&M Consolidated High School and the month of October is far from short on special events.

The Consolidated Tigers continue their football campaign Friday night as they journey to Navasota, returning home Oct. 9 to play host to Hearne. Both games are scheduled for 8 p.m.

"The Hungry 3," a hillbilly show, will be presented by inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 7 in the high school auditorium.

The high school junior class will present "Arsenic and Old Lace" Oct. 22 and 24 in the high school auditorium. The sponsor of the play is Mrs. Jan Austin, high school speech teacher.

Society Gives Folklore Aim

"Everyone knows the story about the car that was dismantled and carried to the roof of a dormitory here, but no one knows whose car, which dorm, or when it happened. You can't pin it down; this is folklore," said Jim Pye.

Pye, chairman of the John A. Lomax Folklore Society, cited familiar examples of A&M folklore in outlining the society's chief project for 1964-65 at the group's Monday night meeting in the Memorial Student Center.

The society, named for the well-known folk-singer who taught here in 1905, will begin collecting campus folklore this semester. The bulk of the material will be recorded in the society's archives, while some of the more unusual stories will be collected for publication.

Pye also reported on the success of the summer folk concert presented in cooperation with the MSC Summer Program Directorate and discussed tentative plans for concerts this semester.

Aggies To Release State Fair Results

Nine journalism and agricultural journalism majors will be at the State Fair in Dallas, Oct. 10-25. They will be working with the Fair Livestock Publicity Office.

Eddie Davis, Tommy DeFrank, Elias Moreno, Gerald Garcia, Tom Hargrove, Mike Reynolds, David will work closely with the press and provide outline information for news photographers.

Stiles, Leroy Shafer and Jack Mooney will each spend four days collecting facts and figures on livestock judging. In addition, they

Grant Study in Language Available Now

Students and faculty now may obtain information on scholarships in East. for the study of a "great many critical foreign languages."

Thomas E. Comfort announced. is chairman of the university's National Defense Education Act Modern Foreign Language Fellowship Committee.

"Generous grants to undergraduate and graduate students wishing to study these languages are available." Comfort said. There also is a limited number of awards available for post-doctoral candidates.

Undergraduate awards are limited to the summer of 1965 while other fellowships are available for the summer plus the 1965-66 academic year. Stipends range upward from transportation, plus $400 for the eight-week term of undergraduates.

Comfort urged interested persons to contact committee members. They are Lloyd C. Taylor, history; Eric C. Hunter Jr., English; James W. Edmondson, agricultural economics; Jack P. CoVan, industrial engineering, and Comfort of the Department of Modern Language.

Foreign Service Career Application Deadline Nears

Students interested in careers with the Foreign Service of the United States Department of State who wish to take the annual examination must act promptly, Dr. J. Nance said. He is advisor for state department affairs.

Applications for the examination must be received by the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington, D. C., not later than Oct. 9, Nance said. The examination will be given Dec. 5.

Foreign Service officers are diplomats specially selected and trained to assist the Secretary of State in preparing policy recommendations to the President and carrying out the foreign policy decisions. The officers aid United States citizens abroad, assist this country's businesses in international commerce, and negotiate treaties and agreements on many subjects, Nance said.
