

Hank Says U of H Wanted Win, Then Scrambles Lineup

By TEX ROGERS
Sports Editor

Coach Hank Foldberg said Tuesday the reasons for the 10-0 loss to Houston were individual breakdowns in the offense and a team that wanted to win more than the Aggies. Then he announced a scramble in his lineup for A&M's SWC opener with Texas Tech Saturday.

"We had a lot of breakdowns individually, especially on offense," the Aggie mentor said. "But a lot of that can be contributed to youthfulness. I think a lot of the boys were looking ahead to Texas Tech, but that's no excuse. Houston just wanted to win more than we did."

The coach then said he wasn't discouraged over the loss and that he expects the Maroon to rebound against the Red Raiders.

"The boys' attitude is in good shape," he told his weekly news conference. "We have some good, competitive athletes on the team and they're not going to take anything lying down."

The most prominent changes in the Aggie lineup, after two football games, as announced by Foldberg were:

1. Sophomore Dan Westerfield to right offensive halfback ahead of Tommy Meeks.

2. Ed Breeding, sophomore from Jacksboro, ahead of James Drennen at defensive left end.

3. Ray Gene Hinz from defensive left tackle to offensive right tackle, with the possibility of the 220-pound senior playing both ways.

4. Offensive left tackle Melvin Simmons to defensive left tackle.

5. Defensive right guard Don

Koehn ahead of sophomore Harvey Ermis.

6. Sophomore defensive right halfback Mike Phillips to offensive right halfback.

7. Defensive end John Poss to offensive left end.

8. Defensive left guard Tom Krichmer to offensive left guard.

The Aggie mentor also said that defensive tackle Bobby Evens will not be in play Saturday night because of an injured ankle.

Sophomore Lindy Endsley will start in place of Evens.

Jim Willenborg, A&M's veteran defensive safety, will be on hand for the Raiders after missing the Houston encounter with foot trouble. Whether he handles the punting chores depends on the condition of his foot.

Foldberg recalled the previous week's action and noted A&M's play on defense.

"Defensively, we don't have too much to get upset over," he said. "But offensively, we couldn't control the ball."

From the defensive platoon the coach singled out linebacker Joe Wellborn, halfbacks Mike Devine and Mike Pittman, and end Ed Breeding.

Hank also seemed more than pleased with the team's passing, "even though we missed so many against Houston."

"Heck," he quipped as he leaned back in a chair, "we're supposed to be poor passers around here. But (Danny) McIlhany is leading the conference with 14 completions, and we had seven passes dropped in Houston."

The subject finally swung to

Texas Tech with Foldberg saying:

"Tech has a real good club, and they're strong. They might have been a time you 'stop Donny Anderson stop Tech,' but not anymore. We have two fine runners in back Jim Zanios and Andy Halfback Johnny Agan is a fine outside runner and Tom son is the only quarterback in conference who is hitting 50 per cent. We'll have to improve football to beat them."

NL Pennant Race Gets Hotter; Cards Take Phils, Reds Lose

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The streaking St. Louis Cardinals climbed into a share of the National League lead Tuesday night by whipping Philadelphia 4-2 and dealing a near-fatal blow to the Phillies' slim pennant hopes.

The Cardinals' seventh straight victory boosted them into a flat footed tie with the Cincinnati Reds, who lost 2-0 to Pittsburgh, and left the fading Phillies, beaten for the ninth straight time, 1½ games off the pace.

The Cardinals and Reds each have four games remaining while the Phillies, two behind the leaders in the loss column, have only three left to play.

After Wednesday night's series finale against the Phils, St. Louis finishes up with three at home against the last-place New York Mets. The Reds play the Pirates twice before meeting Philadelphia in a final two-game set.

St. Louis left-hander Ray Sadecki won his 20th game but needed relief help from Barney Schultz as the desperate Phillies threatened time and again after falling behind in the early innings.

When Don Larsen of the Houston Colts blanked the Philadelphia Phillies on Sept. 3 it marked his first shutout since May 30, 1959. Larsen once pitched a perfect World Series for the Yankees.

ARE ALL GREAT CHEFS TEMPERAMENTAL?

We can't really say if they're all temperamental... but we know about the chef at Ramada Inn! His disposition is so miserable... his voice so loud and abusive... if his food wasn't so spectacular he'd be out of work tomorrow! Temperamental isn't the word for him. But the way he prepares a steak! Easily angered? Salads like you've dreamed off! Mean and sassy? Well, we didn't hire him because he was a nice guy.

Randy Writes Thanks For Support In Trials

Editor's Note: Randy Matson, 19-year-old Aggie shot-putter, is now in Tokyo, Japan preparing for the 1964 Olympic Games next month. Randy's ticket to the Games was a second-place effort at the Olympic Trials in Los Angeles, Sept. 12. Before and after the Trials, the young star was besieged with telegrams and letters from Aggies all over the nation, giving him support and congratulations. In appreciation of this, Randy wrote the following letter to John Lindsey of Houston, president of the Association of Former Students of Texas A&M:

Dear Mr. Lindsey,

I really appreciate your and all Aggie support this last year. It has helped me reach a goal in athletics that I have dreamed of for a long time.

I must have received 40 telegrams and letters from ex-students the week of the Olympic Trials. It is really a good feeling to know people are thinking about you and are pulling for you.

Since I will never have enough time to thank each person individually, I would appreciate it if you could thank the A&M Clubs for me. I know for sure that no athlete had more support than I did in the Trials. I hope I can represent Texas A&M well in the Olympics. Thank you again.

Yours truly,
Randy Matson

Football Cycle Terminated As Uzzell Returns To End

BY LANI PRESSWOOD
Assistant Sports Editor

Senior letterman Billy Uzzell has now completed the gridiron cycle.

The 191-pounder was originally an All-District end at Eagle Lake High School. He enrolled at Wichita University and was shifted to quarterback. He transferred to Aggie and as a quarterback but lined up most of last season at halfback.

During spring drills he was moved back to split end and has held down the starting berth at that spot ever since.

"I definitely like split end the best," says Uzzell succinctly.

The mathematics major has adjusted so well to the move that he has emerged as the leading Aggie pass receiver of the young season. He has snagged five aeriels thus far with an average gain of 10 yards a reception.

Uzzell had a major role in the 81-yard Ag touchdown drive against LSU this season. He pulled down two passes on the TD march, both good for key first downs.

The Bengals also felt Uzzell's presence last year. In that contest, Uzzell hit Travis Reagan with a halfback pass which gave the Cadets their only score of the game.

This season the passing chores have been turned over to two-year letterman Dan McIlhany.

"McIlhany is the best quarterback A&M has had since I've been here," relates Uzzell. "That includes running, passing, and everything else a quarterback has to do."

Like most Aggies, Uzzell would like to forget about last Friday night's encounter with the University of Houston.

"I think that one will go down as our off game of the whole year. We've got that bad one out of our system now."

What about the Texas Tech clash Saturday?

"This is a real big game for all of us and we want it real bad. We've got a good football team and we still have confidence in ourselves. This afternoon we had our best workout since spring training."

The likeable Aggie wingman is not Eagle Lake's only claim to fame. The town is known as "The Goose Hunting Capital of World."

Some 120,000 geese annually flock into the area.

A once-popular song starts "My Heart Goes Where the Goose Goes."

Billy Uzzell hopes to see formation of them flying over his in about three months.
