

New recognition for an enviable combination of scholarship, military attitude, campus leadership and personal qualities has been won by seniors who are advanced cadets in the ROTC. They have received distinguished Military Student ratings.

Each of these young men has demonstrated in several ways and many persons outstanding qualities. Lt. Col. T. A. Hotchkiss said.

coveted, newly-awarded badges are John Ballard, Stephen Bauer, Bob Bell, James Bourgeois, Sidney Brown, Albert Clay, Andras Csagoly, Paul Davis, James Durbin, James Fuchs, Terrance Gent and James Graham.

Others include Richard Hennessy, Ernest Holloway, Conrad Isom, Tom Johnson, Eric Jones, H. P. Jones, Neil Keltner, Gilbert Kretschmer, Tom McConnel, Robert McGaughey and Wallace Migura.

Also included are Frank Muller, Horace Rektorik, John Rose, Ronnie Schott, Tom Seely, Leonard Stefens, James Stepp, Frank Tovey, Lloyd Trainer, Albert Vernon, Charles Wallace and John Warren.

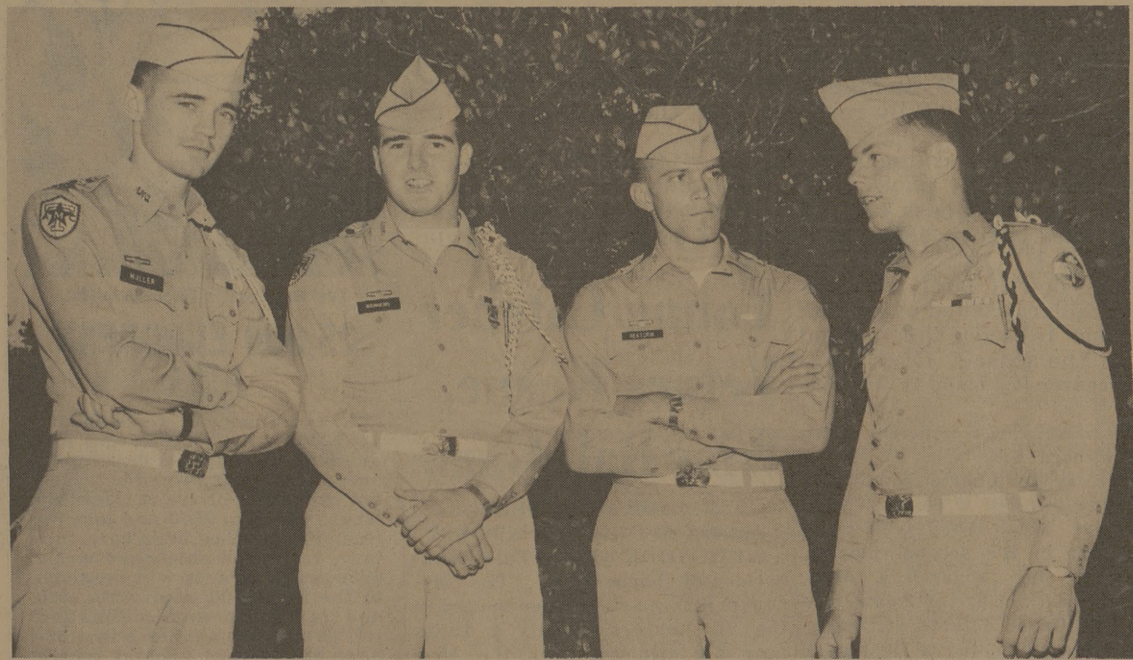

The 35 students who are majoring in varied fields of academic study rank in the upper half of their class scholastically, in the top third of the military science class and also the top third of the Army ROTC cadets attending summer camp at Fort Sill, Okla.

The honored A&M seniors, upon completion of this year of studies at the same high level of achievement, may apply for Regular Army commissions on the same basis as graduates of West Point.

569 students were designated Distinguished Students for the spring semester 1964, according to a report issued by the registrar's office. This figure shows an increase of 28 over the 1963-64 fall semester.

To be designated a Distinguished Student a student must post a grade point ratio of 2.25 or better, take at least 15 hours, and have no grade lower than C.
