That football game in Austin last Saturday night probably created a greater stir than any event in college football this season.

The Porker victory deflated Texas' no. 1 bubble and cleared the path for a possible undefeated Arkansas season. It adds increased luster to the Ag-Razorback tilt here only a week and a half away.

On the surface, the Hogs seemed to have only a slim chance going into the Longhorn ball game. Their opening victory over Oklahoma State was an unimpressive four-point squeaker. The next weekend Tulsa outfirsted them 22-6 but came up short on the scoreboard.

Their SWC wins over TCU and Baylor were ample but not eye-catching.

Meanwhile, the Orange was flying high, wide and handsome with big win after big win. They warmed up on Tulane, 31-0, and followed up with a 23-0 shutout of Texas Tech in a virtual hurricane. Oklahoma was 28-7 and their closest game was an 11-point triumph over Army.

Texas was meeting Arkansas in Austin and the professional oddsmakers tabbed them 13 point favorites. The Razorbacks pulled the game out, though, and it was a monumental upset of a far superior team. Or was it?

Closer investigation reveals that the relative strength of the two clubs was grossly distorted by the nature of their schedule.

First, Arkansas' two brothers, Tulsa and Oklahoma State. Neither team has been defeated since their losses to the Hogs.

Tulsa's Golden Hurricane has averaged 50 (yes, fifty) points a game in their three post-Razorback encounters while allowing only ten.

And Oklahoma State? The Cowpokes on consecutive Saturdays have branded Iowa State, Missouri, and Colorado.

Now let's take a look at the other side of the coin. Tulane's Green Wave has yet to wash ashore a victory this season. Texas Tech was hammered, 25-10, last Saturday by a Baylor team Arkansas disposed of by eleven points.

What about mighty Army? The Cadets have yet to win since their scintillating opening triumphs over Boston College and the Citadel. Last week Virginia strafed them, 35-14.

Even the Boomer Sooners fail to provide Texas any consolation. Big Red now stands 1-3 for the season and has a 40-14 pasting from Southern Cal on their record.

We will now put our magnifying glass back into our briefcase and take our seat again.

Your witness.

Fish Invade Cub Den Tonight

The A&M Fish Football team will meet the Baylor Cubs at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Waco.

This will be the second game of the season for both clubs. The Cubs lost their first contest to the Texas Shorthorns in the last thirty seconds 10-7, while the Fish dropped their opener to the TCU Wogs, 40-21.

The feldgling Aggies beat the Cubs 27-20 last year in a wild offensive duel in Kyle Field.

The Fish will be slightly handicapped by a rash of minor injuries. Among the first year Aggies who are hobbled by injuries are fullback Jackie Benesh, quarterback Gary Kempf, center Roy Gunnels, guard Ronnie Knott, and tackle Howard Van Loon.

Fresh Coach Dick Johnson expects most of them to be ready for limited duty Thursday night, Johnson tabbed tackle Bobby Lowe as Baylor's outstanding lineman and halfback Allan Flowers as their backfield ace.

"The Fish have ironed out a few problems and are better prepared for the Baylor game," continued Johnson.

"Guard Jerry Brasuel and fullback Robert Cortez have looked real good in workouts this week."

Cortez also backs the line and handles the placekicking chores. Left-footed John Stultz does the punting.

The Fish will continue to use the three team substitution system they employed in the Wog contest.

The Fish go by bus to Waco Thursday and will return home after the game.

Mike Mistovich will handle the radio play-by-play, starting at 7:25 p.m. on KORA.

The Fish starting line-up: Ends - Mark Weaver (220), Victoria and Grady Allen (195), Nacogdoches.

Tackles - Ray Holtz (240), Johnston and Ricky Paris (230), Dallas Kimball.

Guards - Jerry Brasuel (215), Lubbock and Bill Barker (200), Baytown.

Center - Rod Moss (218), Ed-couch.

Quarterback - Gene Harvey (205), Victoria.

Halfbacks - Bill Sallee (185), Midland and Rusty Harris (155), Abilene.

Fullback - Robert Cortez (192), San Benito.

The second team:

Ends - Mac Smith (195), Weatherford and Richard Shamblin (190), Dallas South Oak Cliff.

Tackles - Dickie Muehr (215), Welmar and Howard Van Loon (230), Rotan.

Guards - Ronnie Lammert (210), Katy and David Langseth (190), Pasadena.

Center - Charlie Billman (195), Clifton.

Quarterback - Frank Hooper (185), Tulia.

Halfbacks - Ronney Menn (195), Rockdale and Dan Schneider (190), Trafford, Pa.

Fullback - Covey Ben Griffin (183), Emory.

Russians Gain In Medal Race

TOKYO (AP) — Russia was expected to cut heavily into the American medal lead Thursday and had an opportunity to surpass the United States with three days of competition remaining - as judo and gymnastics began to take over the spotlight at the Tokyo Olympics Games.

In the remaining sports such as boxing, canoeing, judo and gymnastics Russia has a medal potential of over 30, and possibly close to 40. The United States, meanwhile, is limited to heavyweight Joe Frazier of Philadelphia in the boxing finals, its favored basketball team and few entries of medal caliber in the other sports.

Russia, which took three medals Wednesday in gymnastics, has 23 entries remaining in that sport, has seven men in the boxing finals and seven competitors in the running for canoeing medals.

The Soviet Union's strength in the final stages of the Games began to become evident after the final track and field program led to two U. S. gold medals and a second disappointment for high jumper John Thomas.

Bob Hayes of Jacksonville, Fla., and Henry Carr of Detroit anchored relays to world record-shattering victories Wednesday and five swift skippers in yachting helped swell the U. S. medal total to 86 - the highest American level in the four Olympics since the Soviet Union entered competition.

Yankees Place Three Players On Baseball All-Star Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees placed the most players, outfielder Mickey Mantle, catcher Elston Howard and second baseman Bobby Richardson, on the Associated Press' annual major league baseball All-Star team. But two Los Angeles pitchers, Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Dean Chance of the Angels collected the most votes.

Koufax, winner of 19 games before he was sidelined for the season by a sore arm in the mid-August, polled 77 votes as the outstanding left-hander. Chance, a 20-game winner for the Angels, drew 71 as the top right hander in the balloting by 85 baseball writers.

Others named were first baseman Bill White of the World Series champion St. Louis Cards, third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, shortstop Jim Fregosi of the Angels and outfielders Willie Mays of San Francisco and National League batting champion Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh. The voting was based on regular season performances.

In all, six National Leaguers and four American Leaguers were selected for the first team.

The NL, however, placed seven on the second team to the AL's three.

The voting was one-sided for each position except outfield and shortstop. Fregosi, who batted .277, edged Aparicio, a .266 hitter and the stolen base leader with 57, by 11 votes. Fregosi had 35 votes and Aparicio 24.
