Boone To Attend Music Conclave

Robert L. (Bob) Boone, director of the Student Programs office and music coordinator for A&M, will attend the Association of College and University Concert Managers meeting Dec. 13-16 in New York City.

Boone said the concert managers will discuss price variances for booking agencies, scheduling of campus entertainment, and mutual problems. The managers will also attend several concert and theater presentations, which will enable them to better schedule performers next year.

Dr. Harry P. Kroitor, associate professor of English, has published a poem, "Mother," and a short critical commentary in the first issue of "Poet and Critic," Fall, 1964.

"The poem parodies the 'pattern poem' technique as well as itself by creating, by the way the words are arranged on the page, an ambiguous visual image," Kroitor said. "The criticism of two other poems in the journal is part of its workshop approach."

Food, Clothing Purchasing To Increase

The volume of consumer food purchases will continue to expand, food is expected to continue to be a bargain, and retail clothing prices are expected to increase slightly.

These trends were predicted last week at the 42nd Annual Agricultural Outlook Conference at Washington, said Mrs. Eula J. Newman of the A&M Extension home management specialist.

Food expenditures this year are increasing sharply and are totaling around 80 billion, nearly 5 per cent above the 1963 level, Dr. Stephen J. Hiemstra told the group of 126 home economists and agricultural leaders from state Extension Services and land grant universities.

The outlook for 1965 is for continued expansion in food expenditures, though at a reduced rate, he said.

"This year's increase in food expenditures is partly because of price increases, partly because of increased population, to larger consumption of food per capita, and partly because of more and higher priced marketing services," he said.

Continued strength in incomes and the economy in general was predicted by Hiemstra, who pointed to the exceptionally large increase in consumer incomes this year.

Food is one of the better buys in this nation, said Rosalind C. Lifquist of the Economic Research Service.

"Today we are purchasing more of the foods we like, more foods that are partially or wholly prepared for the table, and more foods the year around than we did even a few years ago—yet the share of take-home pay going for food is at an all-time low," she said.
