

Aggie Five Trips Owls, 69-60

By LANI PRESSWOOD
Sports Editor

The Aggies outlasted a weak Rice team Wednesday night to capture an unimpressive 69-60 triumph in the first round of the Bluebonnet Bowl Classic in Houston.

The stubborn Owls were in the contest all the way, trailing by only six points with 3:26 left in the game. Sophomore forward Doug McKendrick collected 19 points to help keep Rice close.

Both teams fell victim to some of the strangest refereeing of the season. Again and again the officials called traveling on the mystified players. There were also a highly abnormal amount of calls for free throw over-anxiety on the part of rebounders during charity shots.

The dismal first half ended, 26-21, in favor of the Cadets. They tried only 20 field goals that first 20 minutes, sinking nine. A combination of things produced the sluggish first half.

Coach George Carlisle had his Owls play a cautious, deliberate game. The whistle-tooting slowed the action down. When you throw generally sloppy basketball in with the other ingredients, you come up with a product somewhat lacking in fan appeal.

A&M took the lead at 12-11 on a field goal by Bill Gasway and never trailed afterwards.

The Aggies came into the second half with a 26-21 advantage. John Beasley popped in a pair of quick field goals and it looked like the defending SWC champs were off to the races. Three Owl fielders soon narrowed the gap to 30-27 and it was anybody's ball game again.

A spurt midway of the last half gave the Aggies a wide enough margin to keep the Owls at bay the rest of the contest. The hot streak came with the score at 38-34. When it ended the Ags owned a comfortable 52-38 advantage, their largest of the night.

McKendrick kept connecting for Rice and his team was able to keep the issue in mild doubt right down to the last three minutes. Metcalf sent his quintet into their stall game and it again proved effective.

The win gives A&M a 6-1 record and leaves Rice 0-4. Thursday night at 9 p.m. the Cadets try Houston for the second time this week.

Jack Hurlbut Appointed As New Assistant

Jack Hurlbut, a Texan who played at Alabama, today became the fourth member of Coach Gene Stallings' football staff at A&M.

In announcing the hiring of Hurlbut, Stallings said, "I feel that Jack will be a great asset to our staff. First, because he is a native Texan and also because he played offensive quarterback and defensive halfback, giving him all-round background for coaching. Too, I'm sure he'll do an outstanding job recruiting."

The 23-year-old Hurlbut was born in Houston and was graduated from Aldine High School. He attended Rice his freshman year and then transferred to Alabama where he earned two varsity football letters.

He was graduated last spring and coached the junior varsity and swimming at Galveston Ball this fall.

"This is the best thing that has ever happened to me," Hurlbut said in regard to being named to Stallings' staff. "It's a great break for me and I feel real fortunate to get the opportunity to work for coach Stallings."

Most of Hurlbut's action at Alabama was as a defensive back and Stallings coached the defensive secondary.

Hurlbut, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milan Hurlbut of Houston, is married to the former Gail Galloway of Houston.

Hurlbut is the fourth assistant named by Stallings. Others were Elmer Smith, Loyd Taylor, and Don Watson.

Civilian Gridders Triumph In Twelfth Man Bowl Clash

By BOB SPIVEY

A sparse crowd of 650 witnessed the end of Corps domination of the 12th Man Bowl Wednesday.

The Civilians scored once in the third quarter and added another score in the fourth period to down the puncheonless Corps, 14-7.

The Civilians, led by hard running fullback Pete Brostek, racked up 13 first downs to the Corps' 2.

The Cadets drew first blood with 6:45 left in the third quarter when 6'5", 225-pound tackle David Pen-dry blocked a Jim Gattis quick kick and galloped untouched into the end zone for the best military offensive effort of the day. Halfback Carl Richter added the extra point and the Corps led 7-0.

The Civilians marched 67 yards in seven plays the next time they had the ball to even the score. Quarterback Bill Murphy hit wingback Pat McKinnis on a 27-yard pass play to keep the drive alive. Brostek went over from the one-yard line. Murphy then ran a bootleg for the two-point conversion. The offensive minded Civilians were not satisfied with their lead so the hardnosed Civilian defense held the Corps once again. The offense then came back to march 43 yards in eight plays for the final score.

Another Murphy-to-McKinnis pass took the ball to the two, and halfback Ronny Sanford went in for the score with 30 seconds left. A pass to McKinnis was wide and the two-point try was incomplete.

College Grid Attendance Up

NEW YORK (AP)—College football, led by Ohio State University, smashed all attendance records in 1964, soaring to an all-time high of 23,354,477.

Figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau Wednesday showed that attendance at the nation's college football games increased by 1,117,383 over the 1963 season, a jump of 5.02 per cent.

A total of 22,287,094 watched the college football teams in action in 1963.

It marked the 11th successive year that college football crowds increased over the previous season.

In the 11 years, attendance climbed 40 per cent over the 1953 total of 16,681,731.

Ohio State attracted 583,740 to its seven home games, the most for any one season by any school. It was the seventh straight year that the Buckeyes led all schools in attendance. They averaged 83,391 spectators, topped only by Michigan's 84,159 in 1957. The Wolverines played six home games that year.
