Trials & Tribulations
Of An Aggie's Day

It was a normal day at Texas A&M:
 The late-sleeping civilians cursed the Corps for awaking them at 6:30 a. m.
 The early-rising Corps cursed the civilians for sleeping late.
 Scrambled eggs were served for breakfast in the Sbisa cafeteria for the fourth straight month.
 Civilians and Corps finally found something which they could agree upon—their dislike for the scrambled eggs served in Sbisa for the fourth straight month.
 The chimes on the MSC and the B&U whistle scheduled to go off at 8 a. m. were five minutes apart.
 Ranger had to leave his favorite spot on the steps of Nagle Hall while hundreds of sleepy Aggies cursed 8 o'clock classes and stumbled past him.
 Fifty students brought newspapers into government class to have something to read for the next 50 minutes.
 Two students brought opera glasses into chemistry lecture so they could see what was going on from the back row.
 "Old Army is going to hell," was quoted for the 10,000th time this semester.
 Plans were made to paint outfit insignas on the water tower by 200 fish.
 Plans were made to keep students off the water tower by 5 KK's.
 The 200th car this week discovered the parking lot behind the ME shops was not a thoroughfare.
 Noon traffic was piled up two miles at the traffic circle.
 The elevator in the YMCA building went on the blink again for the 20th time this year.
 The Coke machine in Puryear Hall was broken for the second day.
 There were no parking places outside the MSC.
 And 8,500 Aggies said their daily "I hate this damn place."
 It was a normal day at Texas A&M.

"Where Aggies Trade"

— Sound Off —

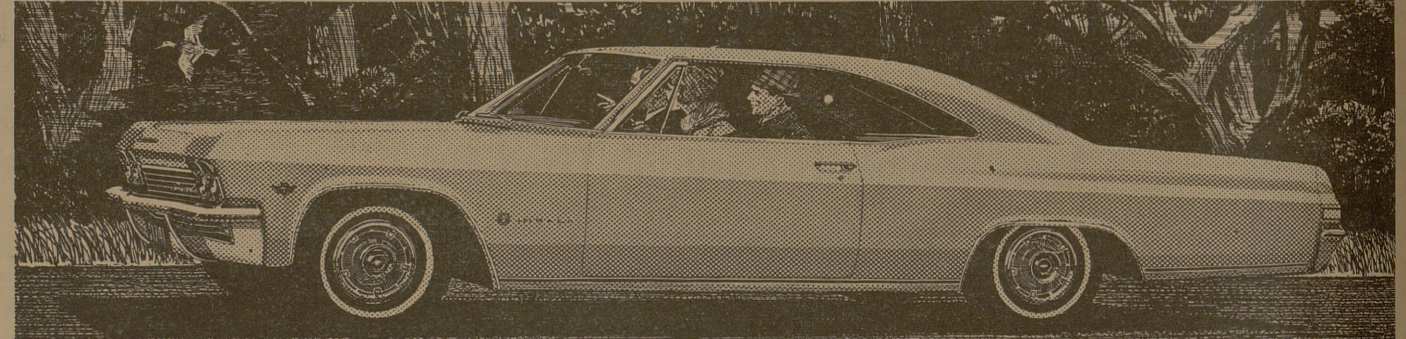

Editor, The Battalion:
 The Texas A&M University System is indeed fortunate to have a Board of Directors handling its affairs who have the foresight and imagination to continually forge Texas A&M University into a superior institution of higher education. It is time that we stop bickering over trivialities, at least momentarily, and clear the haze in order that we may realize the true purpose of Texas A&M University and the Texas A&M University System: to study and teach the higher branches of learning.
 School traditions and spirit are definitely needed for a well-rounded institution. No one can deny this fact. But traditions come and go, as does the student. As Aggies, we have deep within our hearts a supreme spirit, known only to us. But, because Texas A&M University is an excellent university, we also have knowledge. This knowledge is not to be selfishly hoarded. Neither should the facilities used to teach and study be hoarded.

 It is true that the reorganization of an expanding business is temporarily costly; yet, the outcome is beneficial for all concerned. Education is big business. The Texas A&M University System is a multi-million dollar business; and, it is indeed expanding. The name change, possible ring change, and other incidental involved in the organizational shuffle proposed for the System will not destroy the individuality, prestige or traditions of Texas A&M, ASC or any of the other colleges in the System. But, the increased efficiency, better coordination, and resulting improvements, will be highly beneficial and rewarding to all the schools involved. Remember, "clothes make the man," but they can only accent his character and ability to be a man.

 To be a leader, one must be aggressive and receptive to changes involved in advancement. The reorganization of the Texas A&M System will forge an educational framework destined for state and national leadership.
 Let us not resist; let us lead.

Discover the difference in the '65 Chevrolets (As different from other cars as they are from each other)

CHEVROLET—As roomy a car as Chevrolet's ever built. Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe

When you take in everything, there's more room inside this car than in any Chevrolet as far back as they go. It's wider this year and the attractively curved windows help to give you more shoulder room. The engine's been moved forward to give you more foot room. So, besides the way a '65 Chevrolet looks and rides, we now have one more reason to ask you: What do you get by paying more for a car—except bigger monthly payments?

CORVAIR—The only rear engine American car made. Corvair Corsa Sport Coupe

You should read what the automotive magazines say about the '65 Corvair. They're wild about its ride. They think there's nothing else this side of the Atlantic that can touch its styling. They say if you haven't driven a new Corvair Corsa with a 180-hp Six Turbo-Chargaarged! you just don't know what you're missing.
