

JETS Await Engineering Tests Results

Officials of the Junior Engineering Technical Society anxiously await results of engineering aptitude tests given throughout the state.

J. G. McGuire, assistant dean of engineering and state coordinator for JETS, said the tests will be graded by a national testing firm and returned to counselors for interpretation in about a month.

McGuire said 620 high school students Saturday took the tests administered at 43 National Engineering Aptitude Search Centers in Texas, surpassing the anticipated 500 participants.

Twenty students from Bryan, College Station, Brenham, Caldwell, Iola, Bremond and Norman took the tests at A&M.

Alvin Myer, assistant state coordinator for JETS, said the local turnout was considerably less than the 86 who were tested here last year.

Airplane Aids In ITS Talent Search

An estimated 2,500 miles of flying during February awaits members of the talent committee for the Intercollegiate Talent Show set for 6:30 p.m. March 5 in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Richard Conner, chairman, said members of his talent committee and advisers will audition talent at 23 universities or colleges in a search for "the best talent that can be found."

Nineteen of the universities or colleges will be visited via airplane. Automobile trips are scheduled for auditions at the University of Texas, Southwestern University and Prairie View A&M, adding several hundred driving miles to the flying total. Baylor University talent has already been auditioned by the committee.

Conner said the best 10 acts will be chosen for the Intercollegiate Talent Show, which also will feature the winning group of the Aggie Talent Show and the Kilgore Rangerettes.

Tommy Hemphill, a senior from Evant, will pilot a chartered four-place plane for all the trips. Conner, Wesley Leftwich, Bill Harraway and Charles Segrest, all talent committee members, and several other members as yet unannounced, will join advisers Bob Boone, Bert Thompson or Charles Gore, in staging the auditions.

First of the talent ventures is set for Feb. 5-6-7, when the committee visits McMurray, Abilene Christian, Hardin-Simmons, Texas Tech, Eastern New Mexico State, and San Angelo State College.

TCU, SMU, Arlington State, Texas Woman's University, North Texas State, University of Oklahoma, University of Arkansas, Arkansas State Teachers College, Stephen F. Austin and East Texas State are scheduled for visits the following weekend.

A swing into Louisiana is slated for the third weekend of the month to visit Louisiana State University, Tulane and Loyola Universities.

Conner said his committee is hoping 5,000 persons will attend the show. Tickets will go on sale two weeks prior to the show in the Student Programs Office of the Memorial Student Center. Tickets will be sold in the mess halls Monday and Tuesday preceding the show. Booths will be set up in front of the Post Office at the MSC two days before the show.

8 Universities To Coordinate Geosciences

Further plans concerning a coordinated effort research in the geosciences in the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean by eight cooperating universities will be talked Friday in a meeting on campus.

The daylong session was announced by Graduate Dean Wayne C. Hall who represents A&M on the Interuniversity Committee of the Gulf Universities Research Corp.

Rice University Chancellor Carey Cronelis is chairman of the committee which has met at intervals for eight months to plan and implement a coordinated effort to undertake research no single university could accomplish.

The committee is composed of one representative each from Florida State University, Louisiana State, Southern Methodist, the University of Texas, University of Houston, Rice and A&M.

Police Training Scheduled

The 39th session of the General Law Enforcement Course at A&M will open Monday for an estimated 25 participants. The course will be taught five days a week through Feb. 19.

Wallace D. Beasley, coordinator of police training, said the 140-hour course is designed to give the police officer information and skills in modern methods and techniques of law enforcement. Basic skills and knowledge for the rookie, as well as new ideas and broader concepts for the more experienced officer are included, he said.

Riot control and firearms training have been added to the course this year. Other offerings include police responsibility and duties, authority of police, public relations, patrol methods and procedures, police tactics, law of evidence and case preparation, criminal law, criminal investigation, preservation of evidence, traffic control and traffic law, accident investigation, and juvenile control.

Classes will meet in the Memorial Student Center for instruction by Beasley, Ira Scott and Bill Caffee, police training staff members.

Two field trips are set during the course. Participants will tour the Department of Corrections in Huntsville and the Department of Public Safety in Austin.

The course is sponsored by the Engineering Extension Service of A&M in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency.
