

Grad Planning Consultant For JFK Gravesite

Harold L. Adams, a 1962 A&M graduate, was recently selected as the planning consultant for the permanent grave of the late President John F. Kennedy.

The Aggie ex, a native of Palmer, Texas, and presently a staff member of John C. Warnecke and Associates, a Washington architectural firm, has also received several other assignments from the Kennedy family.

Adams has also been named planning consultant for the proposed Kennedy Memorial Library. Past assignments include the designing of the Lafayette Square Project, a $30 million development of Lafayette Park and two blocks of historic buildings across from the White House. While working on this project, Adams was chosen to design and supervise construction of a four-story addition to the home of the then Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Several major problems faced Adams and his associates with the Kennedy grave. First of all, the site was still simply a grave and had to be treated as such. The monuments should reflect the Presidential office but not evaluate Kennedy or his programs. Adequate provisions had to be made for visitors and ceremonies, and the grave had to reflect the strong relationship between the Lincoln Memorial given by its location and should complement the overlooking Lee-Custis Mansion.

The final design has been decided upon and now Adams must follow it to completion, scheduled for 1966.

Before his present assignment Adams had been securing information on the existing presidential libraries for a report used as the basis for the Kennedy Library. He attended meetings in May with Jacqueline Kennedy and other architects involved in designing the library.

The job for Robert Kennedy's house involved living as well as working with the attorney general and his wife, their eight children and numerous pets.

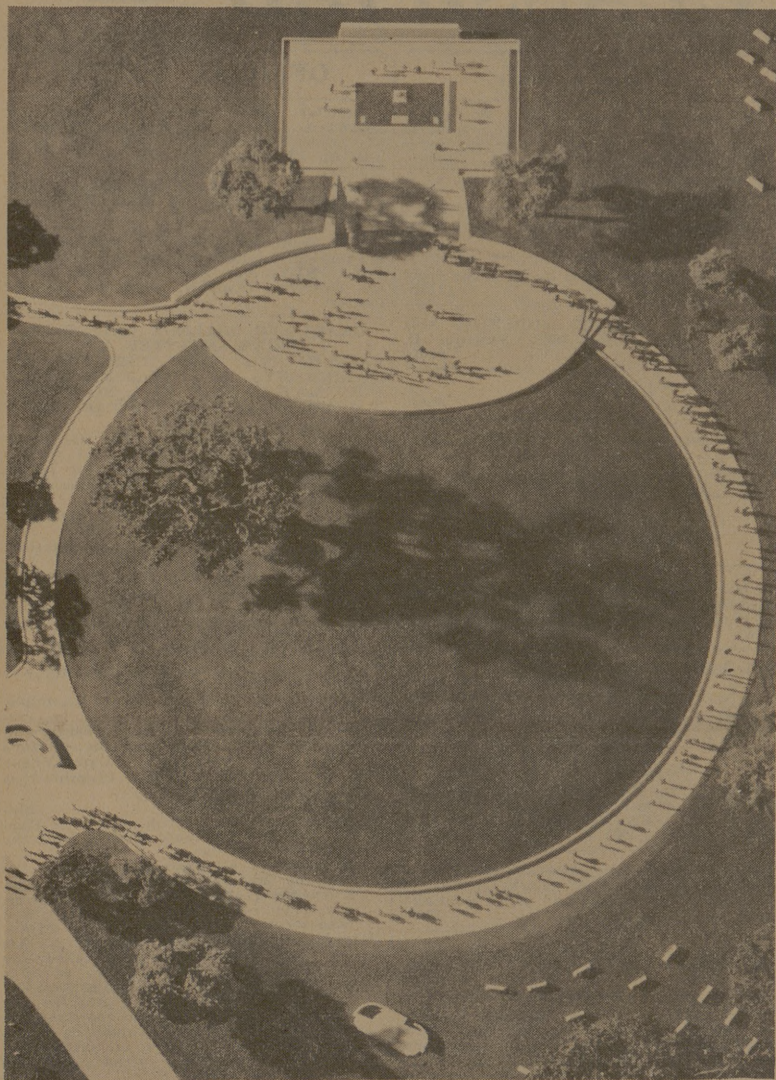

At A&M Adams was a distinguished student and editor of "Architect Plus." He also received several awards for his outstanding designs.
