AMONG THE PROFS

Ag Economics Professor To Participate In Seminar

Dr. Bardin H. Nelson of the A&M Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology has been invited to participate in an Office of Economic Opportunity seminar Friday and Saturday in Washington, D. C.

The professor will discuss implications of his "Poverty Program" research titled "Factors Related to Levels of Living of Families in Low Income Areas of Texas and the Southeast."

The sociologist's work was conducted as a regional project which involved cooperative research among sociologists at various land-grant schools throughout the South. He was chairman of the group for two years.

Nelson said he hopes to impress Office of Economic Opportunity personnel with the contributions which institutions such as A&M can make to sociological programs.

PROFESSOR EMERITUS

Dr. Charles LaMotte, whose recent retirement ended 33 years of teaching at A&M and 40 years in Texas education, has been named a professor emeritus of biology.

The honor recommended by the head of the Department of biology and the College of Arts and Sciences is in recognition of LaMotte's "distinguished record of service as a member of the faculty," President Earl Rudder said.

LaMotte filled varied professional assignments and also participated in many civic groups during his years as an A&M faculty member. He was honored in several ways.

FREIGHT RATES GROUP

Maj. Gen. John P. Doyle, Macdonald Chair Professor of Transportation at A&M, has been designated by Governor John Connally to represent Texas on "The 10-State Grain and Grain Products Freight Rates Committee." In addition to Texas, the committee includes Kansas, Montana, Oklahoma, Colorado, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Minnesota.

At an organizational meeting in Manhattan, Kan., this week, which Doyle attended, the Committee adopted the following statement of purpose:

"To promote the establishment of transportation rates from this state region that will protect grain producers and encourage retention and development of milling and other processing industries urgently needed to maintain a competitive position in the production, processing, and marketing of grain products."

Dr. James A. McCain, President of Kansas State University, named permanent chairman of the committee.

Doyle feels the work of the committee with transportation rates on grain products will be beneficial to Texas crop and livestock interests and to the Gulf ports.

MALCOLM X

Murderer Sought

NEW YORK (AP) — A police official said Wednesday detectives have dug up information on the Malcolm X assassination "as to who may be responsible."

Asst. Chief Inspector Joseph L. Coyle foresaw no imminent break in the case. But he declared: "I hope to have a break in the very near future."

He declined comment when asked if investigators know the identities of the assassins, who put 13 gunshot wounds into Malcolm's chest in a spectacular weekend slaying.

Meanwhile, a bomb threat forced evacuation of the Harlem funeral home where Malcolm's body is on public display.

In Chicago, police also were kept on edge by telephoned threats they guarded Elijah Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslims, which Malcolm was ousted in a delivery to Muhammad's house. A suspicious crate intercepted proved to contain a grandfather clock.

An anonymous man called Unity Funeral Home at Eight Avenue and 126th Street in New York and said, "A bomb will off at 1:15 p.m."

The two-story building was evacuated for 20 minutes while bomb squad members searched in vain. Similar threats were received Tuesday - but before public had been admitted to the mortuary.

Another threat was directed at Harlem's Faith Temple, mentioned as a possible site of Malcolm's funeral. Police searched it in vain after an anonymous male caller told the pastor's wife, "If Malcolm's funeral is held there, we will bomb the place."
