CAMPUS BRIEFS

Marketing Society Names 2 Scholarship Winners

The announcement of two scholarship winners and election of the A&M Marketing Society president for 1965-66 highlighted a banquet here Wednesday night. The event climaxed the sixteenth annual Sales Clinic, a day-long event which attracted 500 persons, mostly students.

James H. Kauffman, a junior from Georgetown, was elected Marketing Society president. He also was announced as one of two winners of a Houston Sales Executives Club H. W. Peters Memorial Scholarship Award.

The other winner of a scholarship was William C. Atkinson, a junior from Dallas.

Each scholarship is for $250. The Sales Clinic featured five sessions. Sales executives from Houston and one from Dallas were the speakers.

The clinic is sponsored by the Department of Marketing of the Texas A&M School of Business Administration, the Houston Sales Executives Club and the Marketing Society.

The Saddle and Sirlon Club is sponsoring the annual Freshman-Sophomore Judging Contest Saturday.

All scholastic freshmen and sophomores are eligible to participate in judging classes of livestock, meats and wools. Registration for the events will begin at 1 p. m. in the Lecture Room of the Animal Industries Building.

Freshmen will answer written questions on the classes to be judged while sophomores will give oral reasons for judging on three classes of livestock, one set of written reasons on a meat class and answer questions on wool classes. The members of the senior judging team will judge the contest.

Plaques will be awarded to the top three freshmen and sophomores at the Saddle and Sirlon Banquet May 7. The T. D. Tanksley Award will also be given to the high individual in swine judging.

Wildlife Attend Meet
Five Texas A&M wildlife management students are attending the 12th annual meeting of the Southwestern Association of Naturalists (SWAN) Thursday-Sunday in New Orleans, La.

The students are John R. Meyer of Indianapolis, Ind.; Van Conner of College Station; Pat O'Brien of Lubbock; L. S. Ford, Jr., of Andrews; and Les Bugai of Seguin.

Meyer and O'Brien will present a paper, "An Activity Study of Radioisotope - Tagged Lizard, Sceloporus Undulatus Hyacinthinus." They conducted the study with Hanley K. Smith, wildlife student from Sarasota, Fla., last fall.

Bugai is attending the meeting as a delegate of the A&M Fish and Game Club.

SWAN is an organization composed of biologists from the southern and southwestern U. S. According to Meyer, several members of the A&M Department of Wildlife Management are active members of the association.

Ben E. Dial of Dallas, a sophomore wildlife management major at Texas A&M, is the author of an article in the current issue of the Southwestern Naturalist. Dial's article gives his accounts on the range of reptiles and amphibians in Northeastern Texas.

Brooks J. Koegh, Keene, N. Dak., president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.
Dean E. Patterson, college of agriculture, Texas A&M.
Fred Wulff, Brady, Texas, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Campbell said Koegh, Patterson and Wulff would speak during opening sessions, Farris would speak at lunch and Secretary Mehren would address a banquet on July 19. Doll will summarize the conference on Tuesday.

Twenty-seven ranchers, feeders, marketmen, editors, packers, retailers and economists will participate in workshops during the conference. More than 400 persons are expected to attend.

The conference, third in a series on beef industry topics inaugurated by the American National, will be jointly sponsored this year by the American National, the Department of Animal Science and Agricultural Economics and Sociology at Texas A&M, and the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

The meeting will wind up Tuesday evening, July 20, following concurrent sessions on cattle and beef futures and on feeding beef breeding cattle conducted by College personnel.

All sessions will be at the Memorial Student Center on the campus, although housing is also being arranged at nearby motor hotels. Room reservations may be made through Campbell at 801 E. 17th Ave., Denver, Colo.

He was first licensed to preach as a Methodist lay preacher in 1940 and was ordained in 1948. In 1953 he became a Congregational minister and has served churches in New York, Illinois, Wisconsin and Texas, including one year as minister of Emerson Unitarian Church in Houston.

The Askews are the parents of one boy and four girls and have interests in many areas including scouting, sports, theatre and other art forms.

Rev. C. Eugene Askew, minister of All Souls Congregation Church in Houston, will address the Unitarian Fellowship in College Station Sunday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Askew has chosen for his topic "Yes, I Would Want My Daughter to Marry a Negro."

Among the honors conferred upon Rev. Askew are a National Methodist Scholarship for the highest scholastic standing at the Chandler School of Theology of Emory University in Georgia; an award at the Yale Divinity School for special knowledge of the Bible, and for three years from 1951 to 1954 he was awarded a scholarship from Emory University for graduate study at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University.
