

Russians Will See Randy Orbit Shot

HOUSTON (AP)—Randy Matson, Texas A&M's world record shot putter, will leave July 24 for New York to join the United States track team that meets Russia at Kiev July 31.

Matson will not be able to compete in a meet before then because of the NCAA-AAU fust. The NCAA has told him he can't participate in a meet at Wichita because there will be athletes other than from the AAU. The U. S. team is not large enough to hold a meet among themselves. "There will be some high school boys in the meet," said Matson.

Matson can participate in the Kiev meet because the NCAA does not seek to control its athletes in international competition.

He also expects to get into two more meets before he returns—one in Poland and the other in a Scandinavian country.

Matson threw the shot 67 feet 8 3/4 inches in a special demonstration last week to qualify for the Russian meet. He could not compete in the National AAU meet because of a knee injury, and got into the Russian meet through a special ruling.

Matson, who holds the world's record of 70 feet 7 inches, hopes to hit 70 feet in Russia. He was down to 238 pounds after the season closed in Texas but now has gained back up to 245 and will try to put on more weight before he competes at Kiev.

"I was surprised that I made over 67 feet here Saturday," he said. "I didn't think I was strong enough since losing so much weight."
