

Intramurals Are Rolling Again

By BOB PALMER

The first week of intramurals for the second summer session at A&M finished Tuesday with all the teams performing at least one game.

The softball competition, divided into two leagues, has 11 teams playing. The number of teams playing remains the same as last semester, but three new teams have joined while the two Vet teams and the one from Henderson Hall have withdrawn.

League A is comprised of the teams from Dorm 21, along with those from Walton Hall, the Bio Chems, College View, and the Chemistry majors.

League B's six teams come from Dorms 20, 19, 22, and 15; Hensel Hall and the PE majors.

Charles Shaw, who umpires the games, saw the action shaping up this way: "League A I expect to be a hot race down to the finish, but league B should be competition between Dorm 19 and the PE majors."

The competition in bowling has more teams active this semester than last.

Those represented in Bowling are Dorms 20, 19, 15, 22, and 21, along with Walton Hall and the Bio Chems.

More interest has also been shown in Golf this term. Two tournaments are being carried out, a singles match and a doubles. Nineteen golfers are in the singles and 11 in the doubles.

The organizers of the teams in each dorm or organization are: Steve Pedigo, 15; Rich Grossenbacher, 19; Don Simmons, 20;

Fred Baldarrama, 21; Ray Roesner, 22; Banny Clancy, Walton; James H. Gunter, College View; Gary Carsey, Hensel; Herb Brown, PE majors; Larry Puleo, Bio Chem; and Charles Reed, Chemistry majors.

For those students who have not joined a softball team and want to, they may still join by seeing the organizer of the team they wish to play with.

The standings as of Tuesday are:

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL ACTION

This Intramural softball action took place Wednesday evening between College View and the Chem majors. This is part of the play in League A that will help determine the eventual champion for summer softball intramurals. A playoff between the two league winners will complete the program.

Meet The Grid Staff

Coach Don Watson

Don Watson, a diminutive half-back who specialized in speed during his collegiate playing days at A&M, coaches the quarterbacks on the Aggie staff headed by Gene Stallings.

Watson was born in McAllen, Texas, but played his high school sports at Franklin, Texas, where he won all-state honors.

He was one of the famed "Junction Boys" under coach Paul Bryant and won football letters in 1954-55-56.

Watson won National Back-of-the-Week honors, was honorable mention All-American, and played in the Blue-Gray game in 1956.

His first coaching job was at Virginia Tech where he was an assistant for three years. Then he moved to the University of Houston for a two-year stint, worked one year at Tulane University, and for the past two seasons he was offensive coach at South Carolina.

In announcing the hiring of Watson, Stallings said: "In my opinion, Don Watson has a very excellent football mind and is very dedicated in his work. His work in several different phases of coaching will make him even more valuable."

Watson said, "I feel this is a great challenge to return to Aggieland on Coach Stallings' staff. I am dedicated to working for him and A&M's football program, and I'm just tickled to be back at my old school."

Watson's big game for the Aggies came in his junior season at TCU as the Aggies posted a 19-16 victory. The little (5'10", 155) speed merchant caught one touchdown pass and scored the winning TD on a 51-yard broken-field scamper.

Watson is married to the former Boots Berry of Sinton, Texas. They have two children; a daughter, Kelly Lee, 6, and a son, Bobby Don, 4.
