A&M awards no special gear or "hitters" such as colored helnets, badges, etc., but wearing a naroon jersey in practice signiies first-team status. "That maon jersey means a lot," says efensive end Jerry Kachtik of io Hondo, "because when you ar one you know you've earned t. You get what you deserve om our coaches." . . . Sophomores Harry Ledbetter of Breck-enridge, who'll start at quarterack against LSU, is a mature, oised youngster. He's married nd has two small daughters. . . . Tackle Jack Pyburn says Ark-sas' defensive line was the ardest to block last season simy "because they were the quickst." Then he adds, "We're gonna e a lot quicker this year, too." . Dude McLean, starting split nd for the Aggies played in the ame backfield with Texas Tech's nie Anderson at Stinnett High. They won the state cham-pionship. . . .

Tom Murrah isn't the first of is family to play guard for the ggies. His uncle, W. E. (Cap)

It's doubtful that any college at A&M in 1919 and 1920. . . . Phil Scoggin, punting specialist from Denison, played one year of junior college football for Murray Aggies at Tishomingo, Okla., where he was a lineback-

> The Aggies will be well represented at the pre-game coin toss in Baton Rouge Saturday night. Coach Stallings has named all seniors on the starting offensive and defensive units to serve as game captains in the 1965 opener . . . Basketballer John Reynolds of Possum Walk, Tex., isn't the only newcomer to A&M football this year. SWC 440-yard dash record holder Ted Nelson is a candidate for split end. The Andrews, Tex., senior gives the position great speed and will force foes into double coverage most of the time. . . .

Starting tackle John Nilson of El Campo and Pyburn really earned their scholarships at A&M. Nilson arrived without a scholarship and Pyburn, of Shreveport, had a one - year, make-good pact. . . . Asked if there had been any temper displays during practice this year, linebacker Joe Wellborn of Tomhall told writers. "Oh, there have been some flare-ups but everyone was too tired to fight." . . .

On moving Eddie McKaughan to defensive halfback, Coach Stallings said, "Ledbetter and McKaughan are two of our better athletes and we didn't want either to be sitting on the bench." . . McKaughan still is the No. 2 offurrah, was an all-SWC guard fensive quarterback.

Academics Netted Biggest Gridder

Texas A&M's excellent academic since I arrived." reputation provided the Aggies with their largest football player on the 1965 varsity squad.

He is Jack Pyburn, a six-foot, six-inch, 225-pounder, from Byrd High in Shreveport, La. He'll be at an offensive tackle post Saturday night when the Aggies kick off the 1965 season against the LSU Tigers in Baton Rouge.

Why did Pyburn pick Texas A&M? "Purely academic," is his two-word explanation. "I wanted to become an architect and A&M had a good architectural school. And, you know, it has become bigger and better

How did he, a Louisiana schoolboy, get away from the LSU Tigers?

"Well, LSU didn't offer me a football scholarship," he explains. "They did offer a one-year track scholarship and Tulane offered a four-year track scholarship."

Pyburn says he wasn't anything special as a high school football player. "I didn't make the first team until I was a senior." But, his team went to the state finals his senior year, posting a 10-2 record along the way.

His size was a hindrance when he wanted to start football in the seventh grade. Shreveport had teams that were set up by age

PHIL SCOGGIN

The Aggies' top punter figures highly in Coach Gene Stallings' plans for a successful season. He is quicker Sweetwater and is kicking even farther than last year's 39.8 yard

He finally got to play on the junior high team in the ninth grade, was on the high school Bteam as a sophomore and was a varsity reserve as a junior.

But, in track, he set a state record with the discus and was better known for that than as a football tackle.

He quickly had that "one-year,
