Princeton
Yale Meet
96th Time

NEW YORK (AP) — It is 96 years ago since Princeton and Rutgers invented what now is known as American football. The rivalry was intense then and will be again Saturday when these ancient foes meet. That's about the only thing that remains the same, everything else has changed including the probable winner.

Rutgers won that first game but this time Princeton is the pick, perhaps by the same margin as the Tigers' 10-7 triumph of a year ago. There's added interest this season because twin brothers are the rival captains. Paul Savidge is a guard and the Princeton leader, Pete Savidge, is a center and the Rutgers captain.

Another pick for the coming weekend: Purdue over Notre Dame: The Big Ten Boilermakers have burst previous Notre Dame bubbles and will do it again.

Lamkin Aspires
To Coaching Post

Six years ago, when he was a freshman at Early High on the outskirts of Brownwood, Tex., Ken Lamkin made two major decisions.

He decided he wanted to become a coach and he fell in love with Texas A&M.

It'll be a couple of years or more before he'll begin a coaching career but it shouldn't be long before Aggie football fans take Lamkin to their collective hearts.

Lamkin is a square-jawed, alert-eyed, crew-cut blond who carries about 190 pounds on a six-foot frame. And, he's due to be a starting defensive tackle for the Aggies Saturday night against Georgia Tech.

Ken decided he wanted to become a coach because "the happiest people seemed to be those who worked with other people like teachers and coaches. Football was my whole life so I decided to become a coach."

An older brother had attended A&M and two cousins had been graduated from A&M but it was the school itself that sold Ken. "I visited the campus and saw the Aggies play two football games when I was a high school freshman and I just fell in love with Aggieland."

Lamkin was a dandy high school player who performed at tackle, center, halfback, fullback and linebacker and when he'd completed his eligibility at Early High, a number of college recruiters were waiting in the wings to woo him.

"I visited Texas and Texas Tech, in addition to A&M, but the final choice was not a hard one to make."

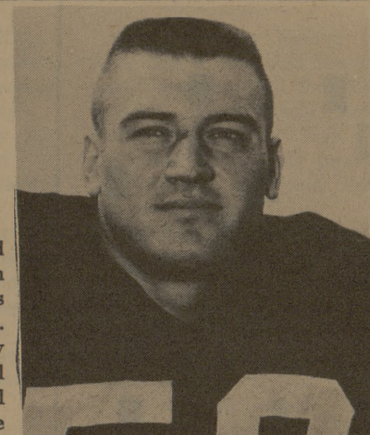

Lamkin, who weighed about 190 in high school, too, tries to play down his reputation as a schoolboy standout. "I was 30 pounds heavier than anyone on our team and bigger than most of the opponents and I could run over a lot of people. There were some I couldn't though."

Did he ever consider trying the backfield in college? "Oh, no! I knew I was too slow."

Ken was a center-linebacker on the 1963 A&M freshman team that had a 4-1 record and he was a reserve linebacker for the varsity last year. Last spring he won a first-team offensive tackle post but this fall he was moved to the defensive tackle slot.

A 190-pound tackle isn't large by college standards. "We don't have a lot of size anywhere on our team this year," Ken explains, "but quickness is more important anyway and we're gonna be quicker this year."

A junior this season, Ken will have to wait a while before joining the "happy" lodge of coaches. Until then he'll concentrate on being a quick, hard-nosed defensive tackle for the Aggies.

Ernest Maggoire
AP Lineman Pick

(AP) — Ernest Maggoire was better than perfect against Texas A&M Saturday. As a result the defensive end for Louisiana State was named the Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press today.

The senior 22-year-old veteran from Norco, La., helped the Tigers, seventh ranked in this week's Associated Press college football poll, to a 10-0 victory by blocking a Texas A&M punt and falling on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown.

Charlie McClendon, LSU coach, praised Maggoire after the game.

Language Class
To Open Monday

A new class for beginning students of the International Language Esperanto will begin at 4 p.m. Monday, in Room 305 of Goodwin Hall. The class will meet one hour a day, one day a week for 16 weeks with day and time to be arranged. There is no tuition charge.

Esperanto is a simple, constructed language developed in the late 19th century to facilitate international communications; it is spoken today by several million people in Europe and the more advanced countries of Asia and Latin America. Although five to 10 times easier to learn than any other language (its grammar consists of 16 invariable rules; its official vocabulary contains only around 5,000 word roots), it retains all the expressiveness of any national language.

A petition to be presented before the United Nations, supporting Esperanto as the best means of international communication, has already gathered signatures from over 30,000,000 people, including those of almost 1,000 large national and international organizations throughout the world.
