

Aggies Celebrate Georgia Tech Win

A VICTORY SIGN

Even though yell leaders are not suppose to be dunked in the Fish Pond after an out-of-town win, Aggie fish took advantage of the Georgia Tech victory and dumped yell leader Thomas C. Stone after Monday night's yell practice. (Photos by Gus De La Garza and Elton Jones.)

CONGRATULATIONS, COACH!

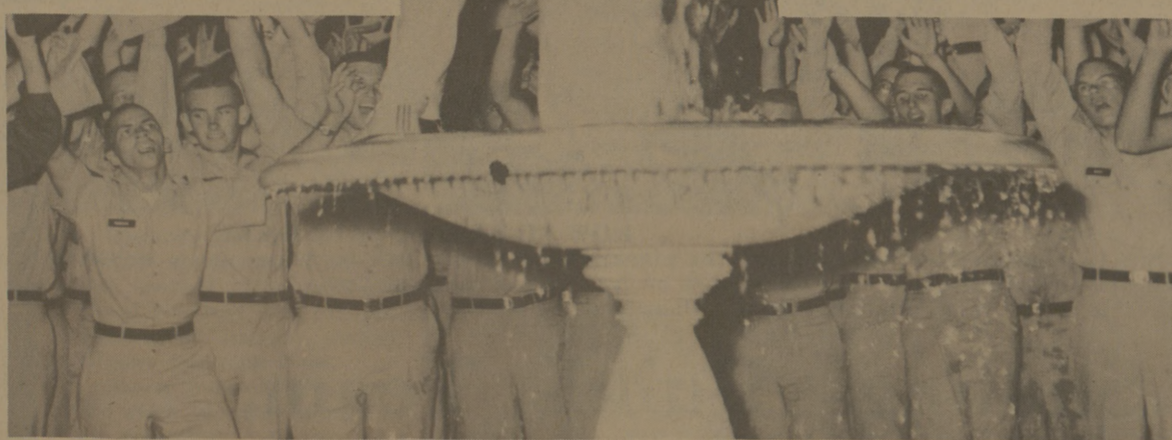

Former Texas A&M System Chancellor M. T. Harrington, left, congratulates Aggie Coach Gene Stallings at Easterwood Airport Saturday night after the Aggies returned from downing Georgia Tech 14-10.

PREPARATION FOR ANOTHER TECH

The 12th Man, enjoying the sweet taste of victory, turned out in full force Monday night for Yell Practice in preparation for the Texas Tech game Saturday in Lubbock.

FIRST ONE TO BE DUNKED

Darrell Smith, civilian yell leader, seems happy after Texas A&M fish dumped him in the Pond after Monday night's yell practice. The fish wild cat as Smith gets a soaking.

FIRST SIGN GOES UP

Company B-2 keeps the spirit up for the Texas Tech game by displaying the first dorm sign. The Aggies play Tech Saturday in Lubbock for the first conference game.

ONE IS MISSING

Water shoots up between Head Yell Leader R. Carey is at left and Darrell Smith is in white uniform. But where is Tifton Simmons? They were thrown in the Fish Pond Monday night and had climbed on the fountain. Rayford
