College Station Girl Named Sweetheart

By GLENN DROMGOOLE
Battalion Editor

The Texas Aggies looked to home base Sunday and picked Miss Cheryl Ann (Cheri) Holland of College Station as Aggie Sweetheart for 1965-66.

Cheri, a 19-year-old sophomore at TWU, won the honor over nine other finalists who participated in an action-packed weekend that included A&M's first home victory in two years.

The new sweetheart, now pinned to 9,000 Aggies, will be presented officially to the A&M student body during halftime ceremonies of the A&M-TCU game in Fort Worth Saturday.

"I love them all," the blue-eyed, dark-haired music major said when she was announced. "There's nothing in the world I had rather be than Aggie Sweetheart."

"I hope to do as well as Joanna Leister," she added. "All the Aggies love her and she has done a wonderful job."

Cheri, 34-22-35, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis R. Holland of 514 Kyle here, is 5-3 and weighs 108 pounds.

Her mother is an editor with Agricultural Information and her father is employed with the U. S. Post Office.

A graduate of A&M Consolidated High School in 1964, Cheri has lived in College Station all her life. She was homecoming queen, FFA sweetheart and a majorette in high school and was a semifinalist for Miss Teenage America in 1963.

The new sweetheart hopes to attend graduate school after she finishes at TWU, with intentions of teaching voice in college.

She is a member of the modern choir, choralliers, opera workshop, a class officer, the Future Teachers Association and a dormitory counselor at TWU and has a 2.31

grade point ratio (3-point system.)

Escorts for the sweetheart competition included:

—Roland Smith, Student Body president.

—John Rodgers, MSC Council president.

—John Gay, deputy Corps commander.

—Glenn Dromgoole, Battalion editor.

—Eddie Carpenter, YMCA Cabinet president.

—Terry Norman, Civilian Student Council president.

—Norris Cano, Senior Class president.

—Craig Buck, SCONA XI chairman.

—Harris Pappas, Election Commission chairman and social secretary of the Senior Class.

—Ken Will, Air Division executive officer.

—Gerald Heep, Dormitory 19 president.

The sweetheart finalists named Cano as Mr. Congeniality. Smith pinned the new sweetheart and presented her with an orchid lei. Rodgers gave her a gift from the MSC Council, and outgoing sweetheart Johanna Leister gave her an Aggie pennant.

4 Committees Get Budget Approval By MSC Council

By GERALD GARCIA
Battalion Managing Editor

Four Memorial Student Center Council committees had budgets totaling $6,879.43 approved Monday night.

The four committees are the Flying Kadets, Leadership Training, Talent and Travel. These committees will have to pay the money back to the council because the money used for the budgets was taken from the revolving fund.

Talent committee was appropriated $3,775 for the promotion of their activities. The committee told the council that the Intercollegiate Talent Show might be moved to Saturday night instead of Friday night. It has been scheduled for March 5.

Leadership Training received $1,004.43; Flying Kadets, $1,000 and Travel, $1,100.

In other business, the council: Approved seven more prospective speakers for the eleventh Student Conference on National Affairs. The speakers are Dr. Frank N. Trager, professor of International affairs from New York University; Charles T. Vetter Jr., information coordinator, office of public information, U. S. Information Agency;

Col. A. N. Griffiths, Order of the British Empire, graduate of Oxford University; Carl T. Rown, immediate past director, USIA; Col. Napoleon D. Valeriano, graduated from Philippine Military Academy; Robert Goralski, state department correspondent for NBC news; Andrew H. Berding, Eisenhower's assistant secretary of state for public affairs and Cong. Olin E. Teague, chairman of veterans affairs committee.

Added Sen. Ralph Yarborough to the speakers list.

Filing Opens Today For SCONA Posts

Students desiring appointment as Texas A&M delegates to the eleventh Student Conference on National Affairs may apply through Oct. 20.

Applications may be filed at the Memorial Student Center director's office, the main desk of the MSC, the Commandant's office and the Student Affairs Office in the YMCA.

Prospective applicants must have reached junior classification and must have an overall grade point ratio of 1.5. Students must also have achieved a 1.5 GPR for the previous semester and must not be on any type of probation.

Interviews will begin Friday and will continue through Oct. 22. Two faculty-student committees of the MSC Council and Directorate will screen applicants and nominate 24 students as official delegates — 16 American students and eight foreign students.

SCONA XI, scheduled here

Dec. 8-11, has for its topic "The Far East: Focus On Southeast Asia (The Challenges of A Dynamic Region)."

Delegates may nominate themselves or be nominated by the dean of each degree-granting college, Commandant of the Cadet Corps or the Director of Student Affairs.

Students Needed For Committees

Students interested in serving on committees for the eleventh Student Conference on National Affairs Dec. 8-11 should attend a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Student Center.

Committee chairmen will report on results of summer work and also on the summer fundraising drive.

All current SCONA members must attend the meeting in order to be confirmed or reassigned to committee positions.

Air Base Shakeup Revealed

The transfer of Waco's James Connally Air Force Base from the Air Training Command to the Technical Air Command will not interfere with the transfer of the base to Texas A&M in 1966, Air Force officials in Waco have announced.

Base commander Col. Charles B. Lingamfelter announced the administrative shakeup over the weekend in Waco.

The facility, to be abandoned by the Air Force after July, 1966, was transferred to A&M last spring for the purpose of creating James Connally Technical Institute, the state's first high level technical vocational training center.

The navigator training program currently administered from Connally will be completed by April 20, 1966. After that date the base would have begun close-out operations in preparation for the transfer to A&M.

Under the new setup the Tactical Air Command will take over the base shortly after January 1, 1966, and will keep it in operation from the time the navigator training program is completed until the facility is delivered to A&M.

Rr. Roy Dugger, A&M vice president and director of the Institute, said that he expects the same friendly relationship between the Tactical Air Command regarding the starting of the new technical center.

"And the change from one major air command to the other will not interfere with the prospect of developing a public junior college alongside or in connection with Connally Tech," Dugger said.

The Air Force command reorganization is expected to prove beneficial to A&M in that the Technical Institute will not have to absorb the initial burden of maintaining the entire facility at the start outset.

First courses of instruction at the Institute will begin in the early spring of 1966 and by next September 15 to 18 technical courses will be offered.

Air Force personnel did not comment on whether the shake-up would affect plans for 12th Air Force headquarters.

Biological Sciences Addition Receives Board Approval

The Texas A&M Board of Directors approved this weekend construction and repair contracts totaling $2,532,185, including more than $2 million for building and equipping the proposed Biological Sciences Building Addition.

A general construction contract for $1,997,991 was awarded to Stokes Construction Co. of San Marcos for the structure. Related contracts went to Taylor Manufacturing Co. of Taylor, $277,896 for wooden furniture, and Kewaunee Manufacturing Co. of Adrian, Mich., $45,485 for metal furniture.

See related stories Page 4. The Board appropriated $45,000 to prepare preliminary plans to air condition and renovate the 12 dormitories and Duncan Dining Hall in the south dorm area. A $15,000 study of sites and plans for a new auditorium was also authorized.

B-W Construction Co. of Bryan was awarded an $11,980 contract for press box improvements to the Kyle Field pressbox.

A $23,978 contract for acoustical ceiling and lighting improvements to the Military Sciences Building was given to the W. E. Kutzbach Co. of Bryan.

The Board granted an $83,448 contract for construction of a cotton research and drying facility at the main agricultural experiment station to B-W Construction Co.

A cost study to relocate utility lines for expansion of veterinary medicine facilities was authorized, and bids were advertised for repairs to the Nuclear Science Center reactor pool.

Concessionaire rights at A&M athletic contests for five years was awarded to S&S Distributing Co. of Bryan. A three-year contract for operation of a rent-a-car concession at Easterwood Airport was given to Texas Services, Inc. of Bryan.

The Board also authorized a study of means to improve power exchange lines between the campus electrical generating plant and the Bryan generating system.

In other Board action, a $31,407 contract was granted for painting and remodeling of Prairie View A&M's Minor Hall, and funds were appropriated to plan a new girls' dormitory and to air condition Ferguson Hall and a dining hall.
