

Conference Action Requires Athletes Keep D+ Average

DALLAS (AP) — An athlete in a Southwest Conference school will have to average at least D-plus in his studies in order to meet new NCAA requirements.

Most Southwest Conference members already have a higher average on entrance requirements but not on maintenance of the average.

Faculty representative of the conference wound up a special meeting Monday by approving a table designed to determine the predicted grade point average of all prospective athletes who will enter the member institutions in the future.

They left for a later meeting the implementation of that part of the NCAA provision that pertains to maintenance of the minimum grade point average, which under the NCAA's new rule is 1.6. A 4.0 grade is the maximum, thus 3.0 would be B, 2.0 would be C and 1.0 would be D.

The new NCAA rule stipulates that all incoming athletes must have a predicted minimum grade point average of 1.6 to obtain an athletic scholarship and must maintain the same average in order to retain the scholarship and participate.

In other action, the conference passed implementing legislation for policies on scholarship limitations approved previously. Starting with February matriculation, athletic scholarships will be granted for a maximum of two years, subject to renewal.

Midwest Puts 3 Schools In Top 4 As Michigan State Holds No. 1 Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After five years the pendulum of college football power seems to have swung back to the Middle West.

The latest national standings, based on a weekly poll by The Associated Press, showed three midwest teams Tuesday among the top four, with Michigan State No. 1 for the third consecutive week.

Behind Michigan State comes Arkansas and then follow Nebraska and Notre Dame.

Michigan State and Notre Dame clash at South Bend Nov. 20 in a game that many observers believe will decide the national championship. The top-ranked Spartans are unbeaten and untied in eight games and the Fighting Irish have built up momentum since their lone early season loss to Purdue.

The South and Southwest, which more or less dominated the poll in recent years, haven't shown the same over-all strength during the current campaign.

The Arkansas Razorbacks, with 20 straight victories, continue a powerful factor in the national race, but Alabama, in fifth place, has lost one game and tied one; Tennessee, No. 8, has tied two and Kentucky, in 10th, has lost two.

The last Middle West team to win the national crown was Minnesota in 1956.

Michigan State, which made Iowa its eighth straight victim 35-0, drew 32 of the 51 first-place votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 482 points. Ten points are given for a first-place vote, nine for second and on down the line.

Arkansas got 14 No. 1 votes and 459 points, Nebraska, four first-place votes and Notre Dame, one.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points:

- |                        |       |     |
|------------------------|-------|-----|
| 1. Michigan State (32) | 8-0   | 482 |
| 2. Arkansas (14)       | 8-0   | 459 |
| 3. Nebraska (4)        | 8-0   | 406 |
| 4. Notre Dame (1)      | 6-1   | 381 |
| 5. Alabama             | 6-1-1 | 288 |
| 6. Southern Cal.       | 5-1-1 | 240 |
| 7. UCLA                | 5-1-1 | 170 |
| 8. Tennessee           | 4-0-2 | 96  |
| 9. Missouri            | 5-2-1 | 94  |
| 10. Kentucky           | 6-2   | 73  |

Water Polo Season Opens With Horns

A&M's water polo team will open its season Thursday in College Station against the University of Texas. The first teams will begin play at 8 p.m. while the second unit will start at 7 p.m.

The Aggies are the defending Junior National AAU Champions, and according to Swimming Coach Arthur Adamson, the team should be strong again this year. The Cadets returned all but three men from last season's champions.

Texas returns to water polo competition this year after dropping the sport for several seasons. Coach Adamson said, "We expect them to give us a good match because they will probably have four or five California boys on their team, and right now Southern California is the 'hot bed' of water polo."

American League batting champion Pedro Oliva of the Minnesota Twins led his team in runs batted in last season with 98. Jimmie Hall was next with 86.

Nonexistent 'Ted' Nelson Made Hit In 2 Ag Sports

Track record books and football rosters to the contrary there is no such person as Ted Nelson at Texas A&M University.

Oh, there's a little guy (5-8 3/4 and 155 pounds) who set a SWC

440-yard dash record of 46.6 a season or so ago and he's on the Texas A&M football squad this year. Everyone calls him Ted Nelson and he answers to that moniker.

Ask the real Ted Nelson to stand up and the little guy won't rise.

He knows that he really is Freddie Arnold Nelson and that he's been fooling people nearly all his life. Even his father and mother call him Ted, but they know better.

When he was born his mother wanted to name him Ted. His father wanted to name him Freddie Arnold. His father got his way, legally, but his mother also got in her licks. She called him Ted from the day he was born. Ted's oops, . . . Freddie Arnold's older brother started calling him Ted, too. Finally, when he was in about the second or third grade, his Dad gave up and started calling him Ted.

"Sometimes when I'm in a hurry and forget, I even sign "Ted" to my checks. The bank doesn't always honor them, either. Legally, I'm Freddie Arnold."

Nelson, along with a few fast-footed youngsters, put Andrews High School on the track map a few years ago. Under the able coaching of Max Goldsmith, Andrews set a couple of national high school relay records and Nelson was the key cog on those baton units.

He also played some halfback for the football team but never did consider himself much of a football player. In his last game, however, he scored four touchdowns against Pecos and the shortest run was about 45 yards.

Track, however, was and still is his first love. He came to Texas as A&M on a track scholarship and he set the SWC 440-yard dash record his junior year in the conference meet at Lubbock. He finished his track eligibility last spring and nearly everyone, including myself, thought his collegiate athletic career was over.
