

TO PLAY FOR AGGIES

James Selvidge, a six-foot, 220-pound linebacker and center from Tyler has indicated he will cast his lot with A&M next fall on the gridiron. The John Tyler High School graduate was sought by all the SWC schools and the University of Houston.

Gillman 'Delighted' With All-Star Drills

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Football League All-Stars brought their two-a-day drills to an end Tuesday amid Coach Sid Gillman's enthusiasm and word that San Diego receiver Lance Alworth will make the game.

"I've just been delighted," Gillman said of the workouts. "The quarterbacks are throwing well, we're catching the ball and we have a lot of snap."

Gillman said Alworth had received the go-ahead from the team physician to play against the Buffalo Bills in the post-season game Saturday at Rice Stadium.

Alworth brings the All-Stars strength to 40 men.

The All-Stars, who began the week with two-a-day workouts, now will practice once each morning through Friday. The Bills have been going through one-a-days since their first session Monday.

First announcements said Alworth wouldn't play for the All-Stars because of a hairline rib fracture the flashy flankerback sustained in the championship game with Buffalo.

"We'll tape him up real good and protect with extra padding," Gillman said Tuesday.

This year's game boasts a new format. Previously, it matched All-Star teams representing the league's Eastern and Western divisions.

Both Gillman and the new Buffalo head coach, Joel Collier, think the new format and a special rule requiring both teams to use a standard 4-3 defense will add interest to the game.

Under the rule, neither team will be allowed to use a "red dog" defense.

Gillman said the rule helps the offense. "There is no doubt about that. And it should make for a better game for the fans."

Gillman said the 4-3 defense may cause defensive problems at times. But he said the mere one week's practice makes it impossible for the All-Stars to prepare for the blitz.

Turning to the new format, Collier said that in some respects, placing the All-Stars against the league champion Bills "makes the game more meaningful."

Halas Fighting To Keep Staff

CHICAGO (AP) — With four National Football League coaching jobs still open, Owner-Coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears attempted an object lesson Wednesday aimed at keeping his own staff intact.

In Circuit Court, Halas sought a temporary injunction to restrain Bear defensive coach George Allen from fulfilling an already signed contract as head coach with the Los Angeles Rams.

Albert E. Jenner Jr., Allen's attorney, told the court that the allegation that his client was taking along confidential defensive manuals and secret information of the Bears to the Rams was a "red herring."

"Allen doesn't want the de-ful as Bear offensive line coach last season, already has rejected a head coaching job offer from the new Miami Dolphins of the rival American Football League.

Halas views the possible departures of Allen and Mather in completely contrasting manner. Allen, a key personnel man
