

New-Looking Horns Challenge Aggies

Cadets To Seek 8th Win Saturday

Shelby Metcalf, Texas A&M's head mentor, gave a sigh of relief heard throughout the Southwest Conference Saturday night after the University of Texas had upended the high-flying Texas Tech Red Raiders, 87-74.

After the Longhorns had stunned TCU, 77-75, Tuesday night, Metcalf's mood was heard through the basketball world.

"It looks like the Longhorns have found the winning combination and are really fighting back," Metcalf said after learning of the Horns' win over the Frogs.

Metcalf's surprise over the Aggies, who currently hold a commanding three-game bulge in SWC play, will host the "new-looking" Longhorns in G. Rollie White Coliseum at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Coach Harold Bradley's Longhorns have been scrambling all season, but did give the Aggies their biggest scare during the first round of conference action. Saturday's game will open second-round play for both teams and Texas will bring a 3-4 norm into the game, while the Aggies hold a perfect 7-0 conference record.

In the first meeting between the two bitter rivals, Texas held a 15-point lead, 44-29, in the first half before A&M got moving and downed the Longhorns, 64-57.

The Horns did the same thing to TCU that A&M did to them. They were behind by four points at the half, and by as much as 12 with 10 minutes left, but pulled the game out on a jump shot by Dale Dotson with three seconds left.

Against the Red Raiders, the resurging Longhorns used a sagging 1-2-2 zone that completely stopped the heralded Dub Malaise and Bob Glover. Malaise only scored seven points, while Glover was held to three by the "new" Longhorns.

One of the big reasons the Texas Longhorns have shown such a great improvement since the semester break is the addition of Noel Stout to the starting lineup and an improved defense.

The junior guard, a transfer from Lon Morris, "playing his second fine game in a row sparked a Steers' rally in the TCU game," wrote Fred Sanner of the Austin American sports staff.

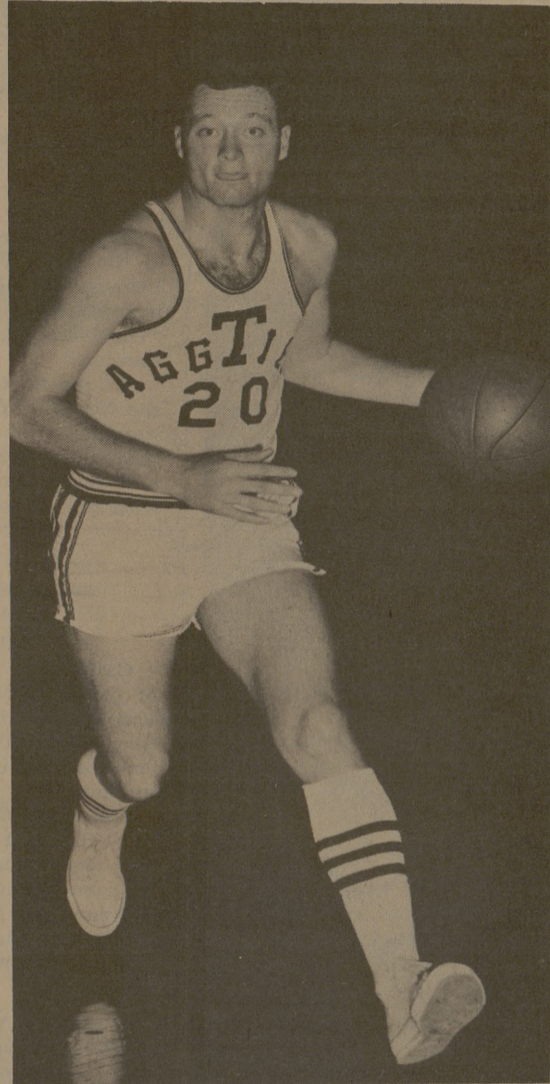

Stout will team with Paul Olivier, Dotson, Charley Turnbough and Mickey White in the Longhorns' starting lineup.

BALL-HAWKING AGGIE

Dick Rector, junior letterman from Dumas, will be one of the starting guards against the University of Texas Saturday night in G. Rollie White Coliseum. Rector is the Aggie forgotten man on the floor, but when it comes time for the big play he is usually in the middle of the affair.

A&M DEFENSIVE WIZARD

Dick Stringfellow is the Cadets' top defensive man. He limited Baylor's Jimmy Turner and TCU's Jim Evans to one field goal each. "That Stringfellow!" marveled TCU's coach Buster Brannon after the Aggies beat TCU. Stringfellow will start at a forward post against the University of Texas Saturday night in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Aggies Sign 5 More In Recruiting Battle

Waco High's heralded Leslie Dickson was signed by the Texas Aggies as the recruiting battle for high school football players continues.

The Aggies also picked up the signatures of four players from San Antonio.

Dickson, 6-2, 220-pound tackle, was named to the Waco News-Tribune's Super Centex team and is considered one of the state's top prospects.

The San Antonio signatures were picked up from Wayman Lightfoot, a 6-2, 205-pound center; Walter Mohr, 6-0, 200-pound guard; Tommy Chaffee, a 6-2, 220-pound tackle; and Bob Young, a 6-3, 185-pound end. All of the San Antonio prospects are from MacArthur High School.

During the first month of the hockey season the Boston Bruins used three goal tenders — Ed Johnston, Gerry Cheevers and 20-year-old Bernie Parent.

Clock, Timer Work Together In Tech Game
Is there a jeweler in the house? This might easily have been the plea of Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf and Texas Tech Coach Gene Gibson in Tuesday's cage tussle at G. Rollie White Coliseum.
Late in the freshman game between A&M and Lon Morris Junior College, a "second hand" light of the coliseum clock failed. The malfunction could not be corrected before the varsity clash.
Metcalf and Gibson huddled with timer Francis Lynch to probe the problem. Since the matter of seconds caused no special consternation until the final minute of each half, it was decided that Lynch would use a stop watch during the last minute.
Lynch called seconds in counts of ten—50, 40, 30—and public address announcer Jim O'Connell aired the time for players and fans. Tech used the count to help run out the clock in the first half and protect a 40-36 lead.
