

Psychology Prof To Present Paper At Conference

The Southwest Psychological Association will hear a Texas A&M professor discuss a National Aeronautics and Space Administration human research project at Arlington April 21-23.

Dr. James M. Elliott, assistant professor in the Department of Education and Psychology, will present a paper, "Automatic By-Products of Avoidance Conditioning in Humans."

The 13th annual association conference will be held at the Inn of the Six Flags Over Texas.

The Manned Spacecraft Center research project with which Elliott was connected measured vigilance behavior among 230 subjects. Elliott worked with Thomas W. Frazier of the Space Medicine Branch, NASA, and Dr. Daniel E. Sheer, performing contract research.

"We determined the physiological cost of being under continuous pressure for considerable periods of time," Elliott described. Subjects were tested an average of two to three hours and up to six before a mock control panel.

They responded to specially designed meter readings by pressing a lever to re-zero the dial. Readings were given through one-way mirror meter coverings at brief intervals, Elliott described.

Motivation was supplied through a brief electrical shock, the research associate remarked. Electrocardiogram, blood pressure, respiratory rate and electrodermal response recordings were made during "runs" by 180 to 230 subjects in various phases.

Retired Employee Donates 60 Volumes To Library

A gift of 60 volumes from Dr. Kate Adele Hill has been added to the Texas Collection as Cushing Memorial Library in the name of the A&M Retirees Club.

The retired Texas Agricultural Extension Service employee donated the collection including Texas county histories, valuable files, letters and manuscripts, revealed Acting Librarian Rupert Woodward.

Presentation came as a result of Retirees Club efforts to assist the community. Dr. W. N. Williamson, club president, said he hopes Dr. Hill's gift will prompt others to make similar contributions.

"When the new library is completed, a large section will be devoted entirely to rare books and the Texas Collection," Woodward said. "Dr. Hill's contribution will be a valuable part of it."

Active in church and civic work since her retirement, Dr. Hill is a member of the Robert Henry Chapter, Daughters of the Republic of Texas and the Brazos Valley Literacy Council. She is former president of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and past regent of La Villita Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

She holds three degrees from Texas Woman's University and one from Texas Tech. She earned the Ph.D. at TWU in 1957.

Dr. Hill has authored two books on Texas homes and has been widely recognized for work in adult education and literature. She is named in "Who's Who" listings for Texas, American women, and the Southwest and was named a Distinguished Woman of Texas.

Her guidance was felt in the development and maintenance of the Regional Extension Summer School at Prairie View A&M, teaching in nine of the 14 annual sessions. Students recognized her for the service.

The home economist is a native of Travis County but grew up on ranches in Kerr, Schleicher and Tom Green Counties.

Her grandfather, Sam H. Hill, and his son established one of Texas' earliest herds of purebred Angus cattle in 1901. It was known as the Tierra Alta herd and produced Tierra Alta II, prizewinning steer which the family presented to A&M. Texas Tech's herd of registered Angus originated from the Tierra Alta herd.

Dr. Hill also arranged presentation by five Texas breeders and a former A&M board member, Rufus Peoples of Mexia, of six Aberdeen Angus heifers to start a herd at Prairie View A&M.

Houston Businessmen Assist A&M Industrial Distribution

Houston industrial distributors are playing a vital role in Texas A&M instruction.

Upper echelon officials of 11 Houston firms are conducting seminars in industrial distribution classes. Thirteen two-hour seminars have been arranged by James L. Boone Jr., industrial education professor and instructor of the course.

"These men are representatives of million dollar a year firms," Boone stated. "They bring up-to-the-minute developments in industry to our classes which the faculty cannot provide."

The year-old seminar idea is working extremely well, from the student and businessman viewpoint, the assistant professor believes. Seminar topics were developed through student ideas. One year's success brought a firm knocking on the door to enter the program.

"The industries like it," the program coordinator commented. "It's a type of recruiting drive in which no commitments need be made."

Future seminars will be presented by O. S. Swearingin, manager of Moncrief-Lenoir Manufacturing Company; F. F. Lackey, board chairman of Nunn Electric Supply Corp.; G. H. Blank, general manager of Joseph T. Ryerson and Son;

Vice President E. L. Moore of Wessendorf, Nelms and Company; Angus McLeod, president of Coast Supply Company, and John P. Madden, sales manager of Rex Supply, all of Houston.

Previous seminar speakers were Howard Bernstein, president of Atlas Lift Truck Rentals and Sales, Schiller Park, Ill.; Glen Hudson, sales manager of Briggs-Weaver, Houston; J. B. Gibbens, president of Air Drecto, Houston; three representatives from Texas Instruments Supply of Dallas; Joseph Kelly, Boehck Equipment Sales and Hertz Equipment Rental, Houston; Frank Skidmore of Associated Equipment Distributors, Oak Brook, Ill., and William C. Gardner, president of Gardner Machinery of Houston.

The seminar program developed through Houston Industrial Distributors Association. Liaison was through John W. Madden, president of Houston's Rex Supply.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, producer of all United States paper currency, has streamlined its public tour to allow close-up views of the entire production line.
