Easter holidays begin at A&M at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Everyone vants to leave early.

The excuses take heavily tolls on grandmothers, uncles and aunts. A death in the family is the old standby to get out of Wednesday afternoon classes. "By my calculations, every car on the campus leaves four hours ing-oriented professor. Five days before the five-day spring recess begins, two stulents had come forward to miss his two-hour engineering draw-early," remarked one engineer-

A students hurried to his prof's desk one morning, stating breathlessly:

"Sammy died and I have to get ight home." The prof looked askance but asked no questions. Had he asked, the instructor would have found Sammy was the family's pet cat.

Another faint of breath cadet areened into class and plopped nto a chair. The teacher looked at his dilated eyes, twitching finers and queried the student as Depopulation of the world is to whether he should take the minent if one believes all the major quiz, set for the day before leave. The Aggie didn't

> "How did you get yourself in this condidtion," the prof asked, setting himself up.

> "I just finished my solo flight at Easterwood Airport," the cadet quaked.

> Other miraculous excuses are born daily and will likely continue as long as future scientists apply their well-developed thinking systems to producing them.
