

Dr. Hill Chosen Council Chairman

Dr. Kate Adele Hill, retired home economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has been elected chairman of the Texas Literacy Council.

The 100-member council, organized in 1957, pioneered adult education in the state.

The volunteer program involves 56 counties from Amarillo to the Rio Grande Valley and from Longview to San Antonio, noted the new chairman.

The council now assists government-sponsored Adult Basic Education classes with tutors and teachers.

Dan Ruiz Watches Student Stomachs

Professors at Texas A&M take care of students' minds; Dan Ruiz of the Memorial Student Center looks after their stomachs.

The MSC assistant food manager has served gastronomic delights for 15 years, specializing in banquets, luncheons, coffees and catering to events at White Coliseum and the president's home.

Ruiz arranges two to three meals on an average day. Groups of 16 to 300 persons consume them. He orders food for specified menus and writes them for Lion and Kiwanis Club meetings.

With five fulltime helpers and 20 students waiting part-time, Ruiz has made culinary arrangements for as many as four banquets a day. He's had gripes from customers and helpers, but except for year-end study demands, Dan loses few of either.

"I try to get along with my people and the customer," Ruiz confided. "If a customer says something is wrong, we correct it."

An Aggie once registered complaints about his beef. Ruiz picked up the ticket for the student's meal and told a waiter:

"We want the customer to be satisfied."

Except for a food serving school at Houston's Shamrock-Hilton Hotel, he has had no formal training.

"When I started, I tried to keep my eyes open and see what was going on," the Bryan native remarked. From a waiter in the coffee shop, where the late Charles Burton of the Dallas News gave him a clipping about Aggie baseball coach Tom Chandler, the intense food specialist worked his way up to assistant to MSC Food Service Manager John Ingram.

"I haven't got time for anything but work," is Ruiz' motto. Beef is the most sought menu item, he notes. MSC kitchens are most famous for smorgasbords.

"I couldn't count how many Swedish smorgasbords we've had," the 40-year-old assistant manager remarked. "We have Hawaiian smorgasbords occasionally and a new one—a German smorgasbord — coming up."

Prolonged contact with Aggies has made one of Ruiz.

"I like the way they introduce themselves," he said, "and their friendliness." The father of three said an Aggie stopped to offer help on the highway once because of an Aggie sticker on his car. Dan says he tries to do the same.

Ruiz began working at A&M in 1942 at Duncan Dining Hall and the Aggie Inn. After two years in the Army, he returned to A&M to work at Sbsa Hall. Following a layoff, he worked at government construction at old Bryan Air Force Base (now A&M's research annex). He started in the MSC in 1951 as a waiter and about the same time met his wife, Juana, in Monterrey.

She's the best cook in the family, Dan hurriedly points out. He doesn't even broil steaks for a backyard cook-out.

Fishery Students Due To Restock Easterwood Lake

Fish Lake, near Easterwood Airport, is about to lose its fish.

Fishery students plan to remove the present stock next week and restock with bass and sunfish. Better fishing is the aim of the project.

Total kill and restocking were planned by junior and senior wildlife science students in a fishery biology course, with assistance from Texas Game Warden trainees.

"Fish Lake fishing has been poor for several years," explained Instructor Van Conner. "One reason for this is overcrowding. Unfortunately, the only remedy is removal of fish by draining or poisoning."

Students will apply Derris powder or rotenone, provided by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Hybrid sunfish with lower reproductive capacity will be used in restocking.

Chairmen of the Brazos County A&M Development Fund Drive review plans for the 1966 effort. Goal is 50 per cent participation and $10,000. From left are Sidney Bergoon, Bryan chairman; J. B. (Dick) Hervey, president of the local A&M club, and Hoy Richards, chief of the College Station effort.

Campus Briefs

5 To Attend Historical Meet

Five Department of History and Government staff members will participate in a Texas State Historical Association meeting Friday and Saturday in Austin.

Prof. Claude H. Hall will present a paper Friday on "The Fabulous Tom Ochiltree: Politician, Promoter and Reconteur". Hall has done extensive research on Texans in Congress from 1846 to 1900.

Dr. J. M. Nance, department head, is on the program committee. He is a Fellow in the Texas Historical Association and on the Executive Council.

Other A&M Participants include Dr. Herbert H. Lang, Garland E. Bayliss and Victor H. Treat.

Tickets Available For Howell Dinner

Tickets for an appreciation dinner for President E. J. Howell of Tarleton State College are available from the President's office.

The May 21 dinner honors the retiring head of the A&M System college in Stephenville.

Howell received a B.S. in chemical engineering from A&M in 1922. He became dean of Tarleton in 1945 and was named president there in 1948. He will retire when a successor is named by the A&M System Board of Directors.

Pre-Med Society Schedules Banquet

The Premedical-Pre dental Society will hold its annual spring banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Holiday Inn.

Speaker will be Col. William P. Fife, Assistant Chief, Aerospace Medical Research Division, USAF School of Aerospace Medicine, at Brooks Air Force Base. He will speak on the various aspects of research in Aerospace Medicine.
