UMP GIVES DIRECTIONS
Plate umpire Howard Sharr directs Texas Aggie coach Tom Chandler out of the playing field Tuesday afternoon in Austin. Despite Chandler's absence from the field during the last three innings, the Aggies edged Texas, 8-6, to sweep the two-game series and gain a share of the South-west Conference title.

GUESS WHO WON!!
Would you believe Tom Chandler? Not exactly. The Aggie mentor disputed a play at the plate a little to vigorously and got the ax from plate umpire Howard Sharr in the sixth inning.

THE TURNING POINT
Aggie Lance Cobb relays to first to complete a double play which killed a Texas rally in the fifth inning. Longhorn Ray Dulak slides into Cobb but too late. Aggie coach Tom Chandler thought the play was the game's turning point because it kept Texas from scoring.

AND IT'S ALL OVER
Forrest Boyd hit nothing but the air in his third swing in the ninth inning to end the game and give A&M an 8-6 victory.

BYE, BYE INFAMOUS CLIFF
Neil Thompson is dwarfed by the Clark Field cliff which has caused many disputes throughout the years, but Longhorn rivals will not have to worry about the cliff anymore because Texas will move to a new ball park next year.
