Engineering Seniors Receive Faculty Achievement Awards

Three College of Engineering seniors were honored with Faculty Achievement Awards in Thursday ceremonies of the School of Architecture.

Winners included Travis R. Williams of San Antonio in mechanical engineering, and Benny Ray Smith of Dallas and John Mark Moore of Center in electrical engineering.

Plaques were presented by Engineering Dean Fred J. Benson.

The $1,000 General Dynamics Excellence in Teaching Award went to Professor Archie R. Burgess of the Department of Industrial Education. Burgess, a former head of the department, earned his MS at Washington University and is a registered professional engineer.

Williams has been a distinguished student six semesters. He is president of the A&M Phi Tau Sigma Chapter of the national mechanical engineering fraternity, and a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Society of Automotive Engineers and the Texas Society of Professional Engineers.

Smith is editor of the "Engineer," official publication of the College of Engineering. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu, and the Polarix Council.

The cadet major and company commander in the Corps is a member of the Ross Volunteers, honor drill unit. He was named outstanding ROTC senior in electrical engineering.

Moore is president of the Engineers Council, a member of the Civilian Student Honor Council, and on the advisory committee for the Texas Society of Professional Engineers. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi, Phi Eta Sigma and Eta Kappa Nu.

All winners have earned scholastic awards and scholarships.

Range Club Sponsors Contest

Some of the top Texas plant teams will compete in the State-wide Identification Contest here Saturday.

The contest is sponsored by the Range and Forestry Club for the top 4-H and FFA teams in the state, Chairman Billy Hood said.

Purpose of the contest is to give the teams practice for later contests and to interest members in range management at Texas A&M, Hood said.

FFA Holds Annual Banquet

The Texas A&M Collegiate Future Farmers of America Chapter will hold its annual Student-Professor Banquet tonight in the Ramada Inn Ballroom.

Dennis Chapman, chapter president, said the 7 p.m. program features State FFA President Kenneth Graeber of Brenham as the main speaker. Outstanding students and professors also will be selected by chapter members.

The banquet climaxes the chapter's school year activities, Chapman said.

Business Execs Attend Conference

Six business executives of Houston, Dallas and New York will speak at the 17th Sales Clinic here Monday.

The Department of Marketing Society sponsored day-long clinic meets at 9 a.m. in Rooms 2A and 2B of the Memorial Student Center, announced Herbert G. Thompson, department head.

Jim Pettigrew, vice president and director of Sales Builders Supply Company, Houston, initiates the program, speaking on industrial selling.

Advertising will be discussed by James Welch and David Lamb of Eastman Kodak. Phil Alexander, president of Houston's Cargill Printing Company, speaks on sales management, and Curtis Pope, vice president and director of Rainbo Baking Company, Houston, will discuss market development.

Welch is director, retail trade relations in New York, and Lamb, sales manager, Southwestern region in Dallas for Eastman.

Atomic Energy Coop Program Set For Fall

Texas A&M has joined the Atomic Energy Commission and Oak Ridge Associated Universities in a program to stimulate high school students toward choosing careers in atomic energy.

President Earl Rudder signed an agreement Thursday with ORAU for the program to begin in September and continue through May, 1967.

The plan calls for a mobile atomic energy exhibit, "This Atomic World," to be demonstrated at 150 Texas high schools.

Rudder said the exhibit will call attention to A&M's capabilities in science, especially in atomic and nuclear areas.

C. M. Loyd, coordinator of A&M's National Science Foundation Programs Office, will arrange the exhibit schedule. He said an experienced science teacher will be employed as fulltime exhibit manager. Training will be provided at Oak Ridge.

The exhibit manager will give lecture-demonstrations in assembly programs, Loyd pointed out. He also will speak to individual classes.

Loyd noted the program is an extension of the Atomic Energy Commission's domestic exhibits program.

The assembly presentation involves animated exhibits and scientific equipment to show fundamentals and applications of particle accelerators, fissions, reactors, fusion, radiation and radio isotopes. Lectures include atomic structure, nucleus and radioactivity, radiation biology, fission and fusion.
