

THE MASKED HARANGUER

Unidentified students displayed disapproval of action taken against cadets in the recent hazing probe. Outfitted in executioner's garb, Sully was masked and provided with a broomhandle and attached axe head. The Corps shakedown has resulted in the suspension of several students for striking freshmen with brooms.

9 Students Cleared

11 More Cadets Charged In Probe

Nine Texas A&M students previously dismissed were given lightened punishment by the University Appeals Committee over the weekend as the outbreak of physical hazing continues.

Eleven more students—nine sophomores and two juniors—were suspended until September and dropped from the Corps of Cadets. All the sophomores are from Company A-1 and the juniors are from Squadron 2.

Seniors winning appeals from the UAC are Angel Saenz, James A. Dimock and George L. Eastman. These students' suspension was lifted effective immediately. Juniors winning appeals are Victor O. Harvey, Elroy Garcia, George B. Davis and Joel Aldape. Garcia's suspension is lifted immediately, while the others may apply for enrollment in September rather than in February as the previous punishment stated.

Sophomore whose suspension was lifted effective immediately are Sanford T. Ward and Daniel L. Bailey.

Dean of Students James P. Hannigan said no students were exonerated and none were reinstated into the Corps.

The new suspended students are juniors Al J. Ludwig and Henry C. Miller Jr. and sophomores Stephen C. Hodgkins, Larry L. Barbee, Robert W. Clapper, John H. Daly, Charles W. Dawson, Lee W. Horton, John W. Morgan and a student whose name was not released by the university.

These students are the last of 29 upperclassmen charged with wacking freshmen with broom handles. All were suspended from the university but permitted to complete finals exams next week.

The hazing incident was brought to the attention of Department of Military Science officials through an anonymous source Wednesday.

First Brigade unit commanders were ordered late Wednesday to turn in to the Commandant's office lists of all freshmen with bruises apparently received from brooms. Some units in the brigade did report cases of beatings.

Campus Political Club Ban Reaffirmed By Committee

The Texas A&M Executive Committee reaffirmed its policy banning campus political clubs Monday.

The committee responded to a May 10 letter from the Student Senate "urging recognition of political clubs as official on-campus organizations."

H. L. Heaton, Executive Committee secretary, notified Senate President-Elect Barney Fudge the committee reviewed "the matter thoroughly. "The Executive Committee reaffirms its policy established on Oct. 28, 1963 and on April 20, 1964 relative to political clubs on campus," Heaton replied for the committee.

"The Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and the head of the Department of History and government are most anxious to assist in establishing a political study forum provided enough student interest can be manifested to learn about the workings of the political parties in the United States," Heaton wrote.

"The Executive Committee reaffirms its position in the encouragement of students to express political views, study political parties and participate in local activities of political parties, he continued.

Heaton said the framework for a political forum was now under study by the Executive Committee.

A&M Consolidated Program Honors Outstanding Students

Outstanding students at A&M Consolidated High School received honors at the annual Awards Day ceremony Friday.

Most of the awards, furnished by local and national civic groups and foundations, honored those who had contributed the most to the school.

Kiwanis Club honored most valuable players Mark Riedel, tennis; John Skrabanek, golf; and Richard Runkles, track.

Charles Powell was presented the Bausch Lomb science award; Barbara Hedges, National Mathematics Association of America; Linda Isbell, Crisco homemaking; and Ann McMurray, Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Students receiving medals, trophies or cash awards were: Bob Franke, University National Bank Star Green Hand; Mike Thiltgen, Producers Co-op Star Chapter Farmer; Larry Wilhoit, Rotary (band); Fran Haugen, DAR American History; Mary Ruth Watkins, scholarship and Ardis Kemler, good citizenship.

Ten speech students were awarded special certificates for one-act plays; eight students, individual speaking awards and nine students, homemaking awards.

Economics honors went to Laurence Nemeck and Shirley Oates; social education awards, Mary Elizabeth Griffin, Jan Harris and Wally Williams; vocation agriculture, Franke and Thiltgen; Tom Shelton and Donald Street.

YMCA Past Reflects Changes

By DANI PRESSWOOD
Battalion Managing Editor
Editor's Note: The following is the first installment of a two-part series outlining the history and functions of the YMCA. The concluding segment will appear Thursday.

Texas A&M's YMCA has seen a myriad of changes since J. Gordon Gay began active service in 1928.

Before the construction of the Memorial Student Center and the All Faith's Chapel, the building was the primary recreational and religious center of the campus.

Today the YMCA program is geared to the development of the individual student's mental and spiritual self and prepare him for the outside world.

But despite alterations in method, the purpose of the Young Men's Christian Association has remained the same: to provide an atmosphere that would develop within students a sense of fellowship.

"The program has expanded greatly through the years due to the creative interest of the boys,"

Gay reflects modestly. "I'm real proud of the Aggies."

AFTER 24 years as assistant secretary, Gay became general secretary in 1952 and was named Coordinator of Religious Life in addition to his YMCA duties in 1957.

"One thing I haven't been able to find out is when the YMCA was first established," Gay said, "but we do know it was a going concern 71 or 72 years ago."

From research he has discovered that rooms in the basement of Leggett Hall were used as a YMCA several years ago.

Since that time, some of the major changes have been in religious life on campus.

"When I first came here students had compulsory chapel," Gay recalls. "Every Sunday morning everybody would march to Guion Hall."

It was made non-compulsory in 1930 and students were encouraged to attend their own church groups.

GAY RECALLS that the YMCA was at one time the students' main gathering place, the campus "living room."

"The 'Y' had a swimming pool in the basement for several years," he said. "But they covered it when the college built another one."

With the impletion of the pool, the basement was developed into a recreation center with a four-lane bowling alley and 15 billiard tables.

In addition, the building housed a barber shop, a confectionary and rooms for short courses.

"The YMCA was the student center of the campus," he noted. "But when the MSC was built there was no longer a need for these things here."

Although some changes have been for the better, Gay was disturbed at the loss of Religious Emphasis Week.

"We had some outstanding speakers here for Religious Emphasis Week," he remarked, "and it was a big event here."

RE WEEK was introduced in 1942, discontinued until 1945 and observed annually until 1962.

It was then turned over to the area churches and was terminated this year.

"An outgrowth of Religious Emphasis Week was the Marriage Forums," Gay disclosed, "and also the popular Man Your Manners program."

Annihilation of the YMCA-

Prowlers Arrested In Hensel Area

Campus Security chief Ed Powell reported Tuesday morning the peeping tom and women's underwear stealing cases have been solved.

Powell said that two men were arrested. One a student and the other a resident of College Station.

Husbands in the Hensel area set up watch and turned in a suspect to the Campus Security who under questioning admitted as being the peeping tom.

The same tactics were used to arrest the women's underwear thief. When arrested the man had 68 pieces of women's underwear in his car.

Powell said all women who lost property should report to the Campus Security Office on campus to claim their items. He said to just call the secretary.

New Editors Announced For Student Publications

Student Publications editors for 1966-67 were announced Friday by Jim Lindsey, director of information and publications.

Thomas M. DeFrank, junior journalism major from Arlington, was appointed editor of The Battalion effective with Tuesday's edition.

Other editors include Gerald Garcia of Beville, summer Battalion; John Hotard of Bryan, the Review; Fred B. Cherry of New Waverley, the Engineer; M. Leroy Shafer of Trent, the Agriculturist; John C. Hammond of Rockville, Md., the AggieLand, and J. Alford Moore of Houston, the Southwestern Veterinarian.

The new appointments were announced at Friday's Student Publications banquet.

DeFrank, a Distinguished Student for five semesters, has been staff writer, news editor and managing editor during his two years with The Battalion. A member of Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, he is also publicity chairman for SCONA XII.

He was chosen outstanding sophomore in the Department of Journalism last year and last month received a $400 Minneapolis Star scholarship as the department junior with the outstanding scholastic record.

GARCIA IS president of the Society for A&M Journalists, and was vice president of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalist society.

During his two years with The Battalion he has served as staff writer, assistant news editor, managing editor and is presently sports editor.

He is also the recipient of the Amarillo Globe Scholarship.

Moore has been a Distinguished Student, freshman editor of the Baptist Student Union newspaper, associate editor of the Southwest Veterinarian and an athletic trainer.

He is also a member of the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medicine Association and is presently a student assistant in the Department of Veterinary Anatomy.

Hotard is a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, and is publicity assistant for the Aggie Plays. He was also associate editor of the Review before being appointed editor.

"We started the camp in 1954 and it has grown every summer since then," he commented. "This year we are shooting for three camps of 100 each."

The camp's purpose is to give incoming freshmen an insight into college life and answer some of the ever-present questions involved.

While changes have been numerous in the past Gay has a few in mind for the future because "there's always room for improvement."

"I think we could do some things better," he added. "We fall flat on our faces sometimes but we try to analyze and see where we went wrong."

HAMMOND has participated in the Polaris Council, the Texas A&M Parachute Club and the Judo Club.

He is also a member of the Ross Volunteers and RV Firing Squad and was section editor of the AggieLand this semester.

Cherry is a member of the Ross Volunteers and belongs to the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

Shafer has received the Opportunities Award Scholarship, the Santa Fe Educational Awards Scholarship, and the Anderson-Clayton Agricultural Journalism Scholarship.

A Distinguished Student, he is a member of Alpha Zeta honor society, and is secretary of Sigma Delta Chi.

HE IS A member of Corps

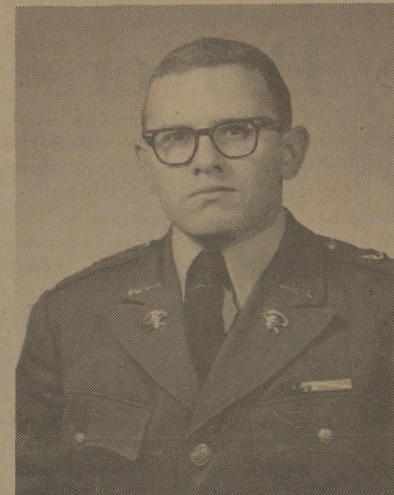

Staff and the Ross Volunteers and was managing editor of the Agriculturist this year.

Shafer is also president of the Agricultural Communications Club and is national president of the Agricultural College Magazines Associated and will head their November convention in Chicago.

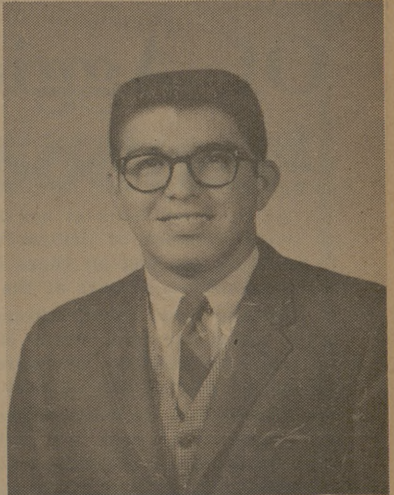

DeFrank has announced the staff for the Battalion for the 1966-67 year.

It includes Dani Presswood, managing editor; Gerald Garcia, sports editor; Larry Jorden, associate editor; and staff writers Robert Solovey, John Fuller, Judy Franklin and Jim Sizemore.

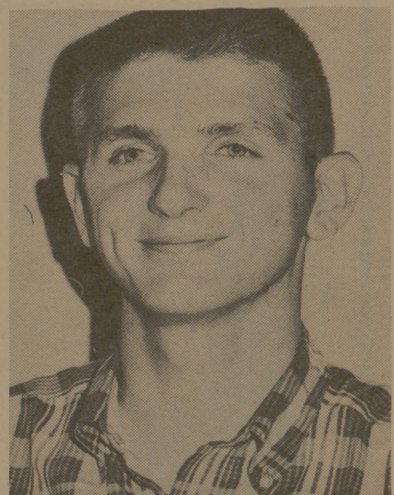

The staffs will take over publications again in the fall. The first summer Battalion edition will come out June 9.
