

Transportation Not A Problem For Ag Couple

Morris and Sandra Kruemcke of Houston figure they can solve parking problems of a projected 11,000 enrollment at Texas A&M this fall.

They travel light, long and lots, depending on one of four sets of wheels for transportation.

On campus, the blonde secretary and senior math major wheel exclusively by bicycle or motor-bike. Daily jaunts to Building and Utilities, Department of Agricultural Analytical Service and classes are regular sights.

"I've talked to Campus Security Chief Ed Powell about reduced parking rates on scooters, bikes and motorcycles," Morris advanced. "Lower fees would attract motor bike and scooter usage, helping parking and traffic problems. Eight scooters can be parked in one car space."

In their three years of marriage, the Kruemckes have toured 54,000 miles, primarily by motorcycle.

They own a bicycle, Honda 50, King Midget, and Opel Kadett. The "family car" Kadett economizes by standing idle at 910 Fairview.

The two miles from their home in South College Station to work and class are usually pedaled or "biked."

"It's good exercise," commented Sandra. "I eat like a horse and still stay trim." Other stenographers at Purchasing and Stores notice conditioning aspects of going the chain route.

Another factor is economy though absolute saving isn't the major reason for the Kruemcke's modes of travel. Morris is a car bug and just can't see packing two tons of Detroit iron to the grocery store.

"We run around so much, it's quicker and cheaper. But mostly, a lot of fun. We get 28 miles per gallon from the Kadett, 45 from the Midget and 100 to 110 from the Honda," he disclosed.

"License are reasonable. Plates for the Midget cost $2.70 and they cheated me 200 pounds," Kruemcke went on. The small, jeep-like auto weighs 670 pounds.

"They charged me for the packing crate too," he noted. "The bike is extremely dependable. I make minor adjustments, change oil and gas it up. Otherwise, it just runs."

Inclement weather doesn't deter the couple. They have special gear, light camping equipment and once made a 300-mile trip on a Honda with a Dalmatian along.

"We rode into Austin one winter with the temperature at 26 degrees," Kruemcke said. "The Houston-to-Columbus part took 25 cents worth of gas. When we stopped, it was like the first stagecoach in 14 years coming through. Stares don't bother us any more."

"Sleet or ice is the only bad condition for a bike," Sandra added.

Heavy traffic poses no special problems, they vow.

"It requires knowing capabilities of the vehicle," Kruemcke asserted. "The main thing bike and small car drivers must do is maintain speed or yield to others. But being considerate of traffic is the way everyone should drive."

Baylor Could Win Conference Title

First Since 1924

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Writer
In 1924 Cyril Walker won the National Open Golf tournament. He hasn't won anything since.

In 1924 Baylor won the South-west Conference football championship. It hasn't done it since.

So Baylor can realize that it isn't by itself in a record for failure to win the big one.

Peculiar thing about Baylor's all-time record. In 1899-1900 when it played its first two seasons of football, there wasn't a coach. In 1900 it had its only undefeated, untied team.

However, this is no hint that it shouldn't have a coach now. It didn't need a coach back in those ancient times because it wasn't playing for anything. If it had been, it probably would have tightened up and lost its games.

It certainly had a coach in 1924 when it last won the championship. He was Frank Bridges and he led the Bears to the title although they lost two games and tied one.

It happened that only the tie was a conference game and Southern Methodist, which didn't lose a conference game either, did manage to get tied in four of them. So Baylor was champion.

Maybe that's slipping in under the back door but brother, Baylor might savor a conference championship even if it won it by forfeit.

Forty-one years have passed since the Golden Bears tasted the fruits of conference conquest. Two of those years they didn't even try; they were out of football in 1943-44—years of the Second World War.

But at that, 39 years without a title is some kind of record, especially in big time football. Don't expect anybody at Baylor to forecast that it might win a title this year. Secretly many believe it's quite possible when they look over the glittering Baylor prospects. And Coach John Bridgers is optimistic.

But no one is going to come right out and predict it. They'd rather wait until Baylor does win and laugh at the critics who picked them not to.

There are 33 lettermen at Baylor, including the probable top passer of the nation, Terry Southall. There is every reason to believe the Bears will be powers. But they thought that last year and a rash of injuries struck, including a broken leg for Southall, and the Bears played so many men they had to give a record number of letters. More than 40 players started games and these automatically got letters whether they played any more or not.

That's one thing Baylor cohorts point out as a difficulty to surmount. While there are more lettermen, the Bears still are lacking in depth of proven players they think will be necessary to win in this hurly-burly South-west Conference. Too, the Bears are going to be very green in the deep positions on defense.

The fellows they're going to put back there have great potential but still are of unknown quality since they don't have experience to back them. Baylor may have the biggest safety man in college football when Steve Lane, a 6-4 208-pounder trots out. But he's only a sophomore.

Another big guy is Billy Hayes, the fullback who is due to play both ways. He's a junior but hasn't worked on defense before. Soph Jackie Allen, who is expected to head up the running backs, also is likely to play defense. He's 185 pounds and 6-2.

Baylor is going to have some good running this time what with Allen and Richard Defee, who had the second best average in the conference last year—5.2 per carry. Only Harry Jones of Arkansas did better.

There are some talented receivers like Tommy Smith, being eyed avariciously by profootball; George Cheshire, Bobby Green and Paul Becton.

The offensive line looks very good, the defensive line and linebackers are virtually intact from last year. Bob Purvis is an excellent placekicker.

There's plenty for Baylor to gloat over as the 1966 campaign approaches. But there also are some defects and that everlasting jinx that has been such a pain in the neck to all followers of the Green and Gold.

Whitaker Joins TTC Staff

Charles E. Whitaker, a veteran Texarkana telephoneman, has joined the Texas A&M Telecommunications Training Center staff.

Ed W. Kerlick, chief instructor of Electric and Telephone Training for the A&M Engineering Extension Service, announced the employment of Whitaker, formerly chief testboard expert for General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Whitaker soon will inspect training materials and facilities at the Department of Communications Training at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, for TEES.

A native of Harrison, Ark., Whitaker was graduated from Texarkana, Ark., High School.

FISHIN' FUN FOR AGGIES
