Telephone facts for college students

(Plus information about a new telephone service)

Bryan-College Station is served by Southwestern States Telephone Company . . . a member of the General Telephone & Electronics family of companies. At GT&E, research, manufacturing and operating companies such as we are, combine to provide total communications geared to this modern world.

An excellent example of this coordinated effort is the new CENTREX service which is scheduled for installation on the A&M campus in 1968. The system will permit students to call across campus and direct to professors' offices. Officials also will be able to contact students' rooms without sending messengers.
