Awarded Gregory Grants Freshmen

A student who didn't earn a high school diploma is one of two freshmen awarded R. P. Gregory scholarships to study civil engineering at Texas A&M.

Tom H. Sathre of San Antonio and John Rogers Cohagen of Overton received the four-year scholarships, announced Civil Engineering Head Dr. Charles H. Samson Jr.

"I congratulate Sathre and Cohagen on receiving these awards," commented Gregory. "I know they will do an excellent job at A&M."

SATHRE, son of Mrs. Ruth Sathre of San Antonio, completed only three years at South San Antonio High School. He attended engineering science National Science Foundation institutes at A&M under Dr. J. George H. Thompson and exhibited an amazing grasp of mathematics. He took college entrance board tests and qualified to enroll as a freshman this fall.

Near genius is okay.

A near genius with drive, stamina and imagination, that is. And it doesn't really matter what subject you're a near genius in. General Electric is looking for top scientists - and for top graduates in economics, business, law, accounting and the liberal arts. Nobody who joins G.E. is going to feel cramped. This is a worldwide company, and it makes over 200,000 different products. So there's plenty of room to feel your strength - and in some of today's most challenging fields: transit design, urban lighting, jet propulsion, computers, electronics, aerospace, you name it. Challenges like these have raised a new generation of idea men at G.E. If you're good enough to join

This time next year, you could be on your way. Talk to the man from G.E. next time he visits your campus. And don't be surprised if he's young, too. At General Electric, the young men are important men.
