Wogs Blast Fish, 35-12, In SWC Season Opener

By GARY SHERER
Battalion Sports Writer

FORT WORTH—The Aggie Fish could not cope with a tremendous second half explosion by the TCU Wogs and went down to defeat, 35-12, here last Wednesday night.

At the end of the first half, the Fish held on to a slim 6-0 lead on a gift touchdown. The touchdown came when the Fish recovered a fumbled punt on the Wogs' one-yard line and went over the next play. The conversion failed.

The second half was all TCU as the Wogs piled up 35 points to put the game out of reach.

After A&M's Larry Stegent ran back the opening kickoff to the 37, Ross Brubacher hit right tackle for two yards. Then, Stegent was stopped for no gain trying to sweep right end. Barney Harris' first pass was too high for end Jimmy Adams and the Fish were forced to punt.

TCU's Sammy Rabb, who was the game's leading rusher with 104 yards in 25 carries, went to the TCU 31 with a four-yard gain. Rabb then rammed right tackle for two plays to give the Wogs a first down. Rabb and Bub Deerinwater ran for another TCU first down on the Wogs' 46. The Fish finally stopped the Wogs and the first quarter ended in a scoreless tie.

At the start of the second quarter, Harris completed a pass to Bruce Kempf for four yards. The Fish were then forced to punt and Harris' punt was fumbled by Tommy Cox on the one-yard line and recovered by Tom Chaffe. On the next play, Kempf hit right guard to give the Fish the lead.

The rest of the second quarter saw the Wogs pile up yardage but they could not push over a score.

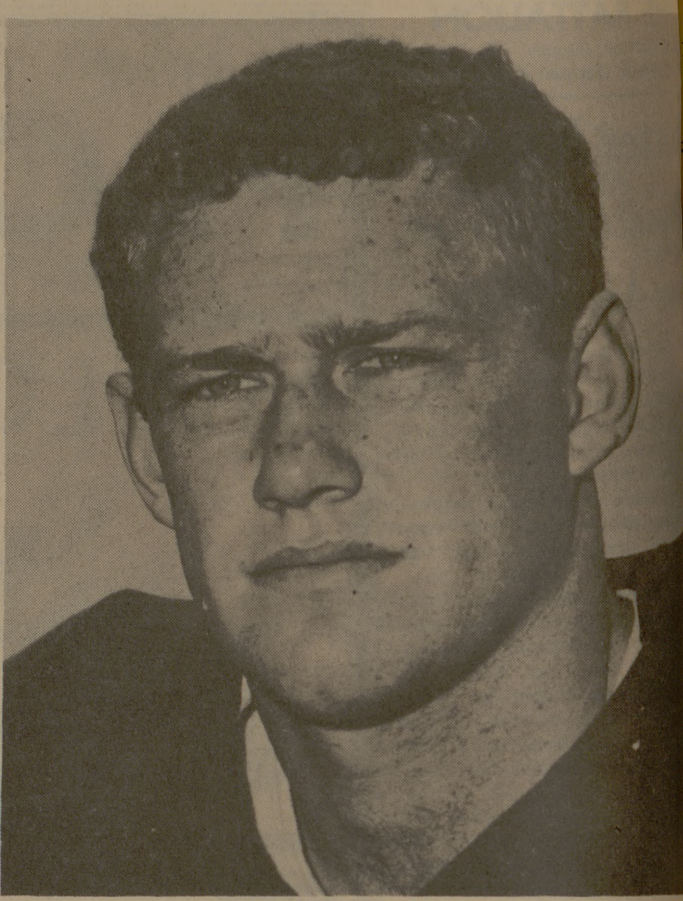

TCU finally got on the scoreboard with 8:02 left in the third period on a Dan Carter to Jeff Kearney pass that covered nine yards. Merritt's kick was good to give the Wogs a 7-6 lead.

After a Fish punt, the Wogs put the ball in play on their own 35. Rabb and Deerinwater took turns running the ball to the Fish 41, where Carter hit Marty Whelan for a touchdown strike. Merritt again converted and the Fish were eight points behind, 14-6.

As the fourth quarter started, Deerinwater and Rabb, along with Carter's passes, carried the Wogs to the Fish 10. Rabb then hit over left guard for another TCU score. After the point after, the score stood at 21-6.

Following the kickoff, Harris hit Adams for tosses of 11 and 33 yards. Harris then hit Stegent for a 33-yard scoring pitch for the Fish second touchdown. The two-point conversion failed.

The Wogs' final touchdown came on a 60-yard, 12-play march climaxed by Cox's three-yard burst with 1:02 left in the game.

DON KOEHN
... Aggie's offensive guard.

Guard Don Koehn: Ags' Unsung Hero

One of the unsung heroes of Texas A&M's offensive line this year is Don Koehn, a burly senior from Brenham.

Koehn is the starting weak guard which in itself is a misnomer because Koehn is certainly not weak. He plays a consistent hard, tough brand of football and has developed into one of the top blockers on the Aggie front wall.

Quarterback Edd Hargett has had exceptional pass protection the past couple of weeks as he unloaded 34 completions in 54 attempts. Koehn has been a leading figure in that protective wall thrown around the sophomore passer.

Saturday night Koehn will be making his third trip into Tiger Stadium on LSU's campus in Baton Rouge, La. The last two trips have been losing efforts for A&M, but they were close and LSU still hasn't moved in for a touchdown on its own. In 1964 the Tigers used a blocked punt and field goal to fashion a 9-6 win. Last year they again used a blocked punt and field goal for 10-0 win.

Koehn is one of the men who will be determined that LSU won't break through to block punts Saturday night.

The win over Texas Tech, Koehn feels, should help the Aggies as they head for the Tigers' Den in Baton Rouge. "I knew we could do it all the time," he said in reference to the win over Tech. "We just had to get things right. We're blocking the same, just doing it better."

Koehn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Koehn, is majoring in architectural construction. His father is a building contractor in Brenham.

The big (6-2, 215) blue-eyed blond was a halfback in high school and was good enough to earn all-district honors. He also played baseball and ran track. But, he has concentrated on football at Aggieland and has played both offensively and defensively and at both guard and tackle during his varsity career.
