

Miss Your Batt?

Miss your copy of The Battalion yesterday? If so, perhaps it was in one of the bundles of papers deposited in front of our office. Wished we had the space here to fill you in on all the news covered in that issue. Included were more than 30 items. Surely, some of them would have been of interest to you. If not, we missed a lot of good sleep — until about 4 a.m. You might be interested to know that more students than ever before contributed to yesterday's issue. It included several stories by sophomore journalism majors who had never before had the opportunity to see their work in print — or have it read by their fellow students. They deserved a better break than what they got. What's done is done. This is another day and another issue — and we think it is better than yesterday's and are confident tomorrow's will be still better. We're new. We're trying to get off to a good start. We need your support.

ARLINGTON STATE COLLEGE
Fall enrollment figures at Arlington State College have been reported at 11,501 students, a drop of 348 from last fall's figure. Registrar Elwood Preiss attributes the decrease to the draft and to the presence of the new Dallas Junior College.

The University of Texas Board of Regents has approved preliminary funds for a new $2.4 million administrative building for the college, which was added to the University system several months ago.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
Chancellor Harry Ramson has appointed Raymond Vowell, vice-chancellor for public affairs at Texas, as chairman of the “orange committee.”

The committee was formed at last week's Board of Regents meeting, after presentation of a petition from alumni suggesting that the university adopt a consistent hue of orange in all uniforms and emblems. A report is expected in time for the board to receive recommendations early in 1967. The committee will study whether the official color of the university should be the same as the hue of orange used in the original seal.

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY
Baylor observed its first Western Day Thursday in conjunction with Baylor Day at the Heart O' Texas Fair and Rodeo. Coeds were granted “pants permission” for classes and to attend the fair and rodeo, and all students were encouraged to wear western-type attire or risk being thrown in jail and fined 10 cents, according to Phil Durren of the Baylor Rodeo Club.

Because of so-called ambiguities in the voting cards in recent fall general elections, several Baylor freshmen were quoted in the Baylor Lariat as believing many ballots were “miscast.”

TCU
Bolte Advertising Co. of Fort Worth has put up a billboard on the Fort Worth-Dallas Turnpike reading “Back the Frogs.” Pat Beckham account executive at

TCU, explains that “What is good for TCU is good for us personally, because it is good for Fort Worth and because it enhances the value of our individual degrees.”

TWU
Texas Women's University will operate a 10-by-20-foot booth in the Women's building at the State Fair of Texas during its run, according to the Daily Lass-O at TWU. The booth will offer TWU catalogues and publications, and a special edition of the daily newspaper will be published describing departments and activities of the university.

Join the Peace Corps... or join General Electric

Let's face it, the Peace Corps isn't for everybody. (Neither is medicine, law or social work.) But you can get a lot of the same kind of satisfaction from a job with General Electric. Because we, too, are trying to make life on earth more livable. That can mean a job designing a new satellite to forecast weather. Or supplying nuclear reactors to generate electricity more cheaply than ever before. Or controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams. It can mean better lighting to cut down crime. It can mean new rapid-transit systems to unclog traffic. All it takes is brains, imagination, drive and a fairly rugged constitution. These qualities can get you a job with General Electric — or with the Peace Corps. If you choose the Peace Corps, we'll understand. But when the day comes that you leave the Corps, remember us. You'll still be young, and at General Electric, the young men are important men.
